HOOVER ON WAY HOME; PLEASED BY RECEPTIONS

Repeatedly Speaks of His Gratification as Aids Study Reaction.

HUGE, SILENT THRONG HEARS LINCOLN TALK

Unscheduled Address Made to Illinois Assembly Pleads for Law.

En Route with President Hoover to Washington, June 17 (A.P.).—Tired but smiling, President Hoover traveled back to Washington tonight from the most extensive speaking tour since he entered the White House.

He emphasized his hopes and the Nation's need for observance and enforcement of law as he concluded the tour at the tomb of Abraham Lincoln in Springfield, Ill., before a vast throng late today.

Members of Mr. Hoover's official family eagerly watched the reaction to his addresses delivered in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois, the belt where Democrats scored gains that nearly gave them control of the next Congress. He left in the Middle West a complete analysis of his views, his hopes and his plans on the economic situation and declared the depression to be "the dominant issue."

Hoover Pleased by Crowds.

The President in extemporaneous remarks along the route and in the cities he visited expressed repeated gratification at his receptions.

Capitals of the three States were visited and today he unexpectedly delivered a brief speech before a joint session of the Illinois Assembly, stressing the part of State government in the Nation's life and looking ahead to the necessity of shifts in the machinery of government to meet present conditions. He did not specify the shifts he had in mind.

The special train moved leisurely across Illinois and Indiana tonight. It was not scheduled to reach Washington until late tomorrow.

Pleads for Law and Order.

Springfield, Ill., June 17 (A.P.).—President Hoover closed his tour of the Middle West today with a plea at the Shrine of Abraham Lincoln for obedience and enforcement of the law.

Before going to the granite shaft rising over the remodeled tomb of the Civil War President, Mr. Hoover, in an address to the Illinois Assembly, emphasized the part of State government in the national life and asserted "our machinery of government must shift" to meet changing "economic and social forces."

It was a busy day for the President, beginning with a visit shortly after his arival in the morning to the old frame structure occupied by Abraham Lincoln before he went to the White House 70 years ago.

Applause Breaks Silence.

Crowds lined his route throughout the day, an immense gathering assembling under the scorching sun at the cemetery. The silence of the crowds was broken by occasional applause. Entering the State Arsenal across from the Statehouse, where the Assembly and a throng of guests filled the vast auditorium, the President received a demonstration, as did Mrs. Hoover.

The President was introduced by Gov. Emmerson, who said that the President, "like Lincoln, was called from the ranks of the common people to lead our country in an hour of adversity."

The President then called the Nation to the teachings of Lincoln that America's heritage "rests upon obedience and enforcement of the law."

Addresses Illinois Assembly.

"There can be no man in our country," he said, "who, either by his position or his influence, stands above the law. That the Republic can not admit and still live, for ours is a government of laws and a society of ordered liberty safeguarded only by law."

The President, in talking to the Illinois Assembly, faced legislators who recently voted repeal of the State prohibition enforcement act. He stood beside the governor who refused to put that action into effect.

"Ours must be a country of constant change and progress," he told the assembly, "because of one fact alone among many others, and that is that the constant discoveries in science and their products in new invention shift our basis of human relationships and our mode of life in such a fashion as to require a constant remodeling and the remolding of the machinery of the Government.

Calls Legislatures Laboratories.

"That does not imply that the eternal principles of justice and right and ordered liberty, upon which the Republic was founded, are subject to change, for they are not, but our machinery of government must shift in order to enable us to enforce these principles against the shift of economic and social forces due to constant discovery and invention, and in these great processes our State legislatures occupy a position of dominant importance to the Nation as a whole."

He referred to State legislatures as the "laboratories" for trial of Government problems.

The President brought with him Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador to Great Britain, and Secretary Lamont, two sons of Illinois. They were cheer-

Vanderbilt Abandons Threat to Kill Arno

Decides Society Would Not Approve; Anyway, Gun Was Empty.

Reno, Nev., June 17 (U.P.).—Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., apparently inspired by the wild West atmosphere here and incensed because he thinks Peter Arno has been attentive to Mrs. Vanderbilt, took a pistol and threatened to do grievous bodily harm to the well-know illustrator, Vanderbilt's attorney admitted today.

The scheduled placing of Arno on what is called "the spot" never materialized, Sam Platt, the attorney, said for two excellent reasons, to wit:

1. Vanderbilt, after following Arno half way home, concluded that shootings were not particularly in favor in his set—the most exclusive set in America—this season.

2. There were no bullets in his pistol so he would have been balked even if his homicidal mood had endured.

Until Platt cleared up the situation, however, there were other reports circulating. Some said Vanderbilt scored a bulls-eye on Arno; others said he shot and missed, and still others said he never shot at all.

Platt said: "On account of Mr. Arno's attentions toward his wife, Mr.

POST SALE ACTION DELAYED BY COURT

Consideration Is Set for June 26; Hearst Bids Against Lawrence.

Consideration of sale of The Washington Post was postponed yesterday by Justice Jesse C. Adkins in the District Supreme Court, until 9:30 o'clock Friday morning, June 26.

Sale of The Post was brought before the court through a request for approval of its acquisition by David Lawrence, publisher of the United States Daily and president of the Consolidated Press, for $3,000,000. Of this amount $500,000 would be paid in cash on or before July 15. The remainder, $2,200,000, would be secured by a closed mortgage on The Post, exclusive of the small amount of real estate The Post Corporation owns and The Post equipment. The Lawrence mortgage bonds would mature in 20 years.

William Randolph Hearst submitted a formal offer just before Justice Adkins began consideration of the sale at noon yesterday. The Hearst offer also was for $3,000,000. It contemplated consolidation of The Post and the Herald, a Hearst paper, and publication of one morning newspaper in Washington by Mr. Hearst.

The sale price would be guaranteed by mortgage bonds secured by the combined assets of The Post, the Herald and the Washington Times, although existing indebtedness of these papers would not be wiped out and the proposed new mortgage would be secondary. To match the Lawrence offer of $800,000 cash, Mr. Hearst offered to purchase $800,000 of the mortgage bonds by July 15. These bonds, however, would not be retired, but would be held or sold by Mr. Hearst and the indebtedness incident to sale of The Post would remain at $3,000,000.

This offer by Mr. Hearst was the only definite one made against that submitted by Mr. Lawrence, who submitted an amended offer yesterday. There was no change in the price or conditions from his offer which had been accepted by E. B. McLean, publisher of The Post, and the American Security & Trust Co., and submitted by them, as trustees of the John R. McLean estate, to the court for approval.

The amendments to the Lawrence offer had been suggested by Ralph Quinter and Lucien Mercier, guardians ad litem for the minor children of Mr. McLean, at a conference with Justice Adkins last week. Mr. Quinter, in giving the reason for the proposed changes, said that under the offer first submitted, profits from the sale might be considered as income, which would be distributable and go to Mr. McLean. Under the changed offer, he said, proceeds of the sale would go to the estate, which had been left in trust for the children of Mr. McLean by their grandfather.

Statement Signed by Suspect Admits Car Hurled Boy Off Highway.

A coroner's jury will convene today to determine whether Charles Edward Derby, 53-year-old "odd job man," is to be held for the grand jury on a manslaughter charge in the death of William Settler, jr., 7, who was killed when struck by an automobile Derby admits driving on Naylor road southeast, Monday afternoon.

In eventuality of Derby being absolved of culpability in the accident, he will be prosecuted on a speeding charge and for failing to exhibit a registration card, for which he was arrested shortly after the time of the accident and about a mile from the scene.

Body of the Settler boy, only child of Mr. and Mrs. William Settler, of Silver Hill, Md., was found by a party of searchers at dusk Monday. They had begun the quest when 7-year-old William von Garrel, who was trudging homeward from school with the dead boy when the accident occurred, lisped out the tragic news.

Hurled into the air by impact of the car which was "black with yellow wire wheels," according to the Von Garrel boy's version, the body, sprawled and broken, was found in a clump of bushes 15 feet from the roadway.

Derby had been arrested at Fifteenth street and Alabama avenue southeast, in a car tallying with the description, after a chase from the top of Good Hope Hill by Private Thomas Hayes in a police patrol car. Hayes' pursuit began about 500 yards from the scene of the accident, although the policeman was unaware of it.

Later, while Derby was still in custody, police fitted the coincidence of his being in the vicinity of the accident and the description of the car together, and began to question him. All through Monday night he denied any connection with the death of the boy, but yesterday morning, under grilling by members of the homicide squad and Eleventh Precinct police, he broke down and admitted he was the operator of the death car.

At police headquarters he signed a formal statement to the effect.

The car which Derby was driving is property of Irving Lumpkin, of Congress Heights, D. C., where Derby also lives. It had been loaned to Derby for a "short spin." A dent on the left fender was not there when it was loaned Derby, Mr. Lumpkin said.

Derbyq told police after he had signed the confession that he had not realized at the time how serious the accident was and that he was panic-stricken. He had been drinking, he said, and this beclouded his judgment.

Meanwhile, the grief-stricken parents had arranged for the funeral of their son. Service is to be conducted

Helpless in Financial Fog, Chicago Vainly Seeks Aid

Mayor Despairs of Solution of City's Problems, as "Bankers, Legislature, Everybody" Desert; Cut in City Pay Roll Threatened.

Chicago, Ill., June 17 (A.P.).—Mayor Anton J. Cermak peered despairingly into Chicago's financial fog today and admitted he "did not know what to do."

In a postmortem over the tax reform and revenue producing bills killed by the State Legislature despite his urgent personal requests for passage, Cermak pictured the city as "deserted by the bankers, the Legislature, everybody—out in the cold, without money, in terrible financial condition."

Pay rolls will be cut again, this time to the bone, he said. Even civil service employes not essential to the machinery of government shall go. City employes may be asked to accept a five-day week, leaving the city hall dark on Saturdays. Many departments may be closed entirely. The bond funds may be tapped to pay salaries, while all improvement projects will collect dust while awaiting the return of municipal solvency.

School teachers have counted four payless pay days. Janitors have not been paid since early April. County officials were under court restraint from collecting 1929 taxes, only recently due, while subsequent levies have not yet been assessed.

City, county, school board, sanitary district and park boards have been borrowing on tax anticipation warrants for months, and the banks have said they would lend no more

SPAIN IS TOLD CARLISTS PLOT BOURBON KING

PLACING PRETENDER ON THRONE IS GOAL

Don Jaime Manifesto Told of Willingness to Save Nation From Anarchy.

Madrid, June 17 (A.P.).—Rumors of an imminent monarchist coup d'etat, to be led by Gen. Martinez Anido for the purpose of seating on the Spanish throne Don Jaime de Bourbon, Carlist pretender, were published in several evening papers in Spain today, including Heraldo, of Madrid.

The rumors, as published, reported that Gen. Anido, former governor general of Barcelona, was on his way to the Province of Navarre to lead an army in an attempt to place Don Jaime on the throne.

The general is now facing prosecution by the republican government for his administration at Barcelona. He was a member of the cabinet of Gen. Primo de Rivera and has been active in Spanish politics under the monarchy for many years.

Appeals to Catholics.

Last Sunday a demonstration of 20,000 Catholics was held at Pamplona, capital of Navarre. Don Jaime was reported to have sent telegrams to Pamplona congratulating the people on these meetings and the crowd was reported as having shouted, "Long live Christ the King! Long live Don Jaime!"

One man was killed and a number were wounded in riots which occurred at a way station when anticlerical groups clashed with the trains and automobiles carrying the Catholics from the meeting.

On April 23 Don Jaime, who is the son of the late Don Carlos, Spanish pretender against the house of King Alfonso, issued a manifesto to the Spanish people in which he declared he was always ready to help Spain avoid anarchy. He asked the people to declare in the elections which were soon to come whether they were republican or monarchist and invited them to favor a monarchy which would have no relations with the Alfonso regime, but which would be "renewed, progressive and decentralized."

Holds People Want King.

"My desire," he said, "is to have a king head a federation, a king above parties. A great part of the Spanish people favors the monarchy, even the Republicans admit it is unjust to suppress the monarchy because one king did not know how to make the people love him."

In the manifesto which was published at Paris Don Jaime laid claim to the throne for himself.

Several years after the dethronement of Queen Isabella II in 1868, Don Carlos, father of Don Jaime, asserted his pretensions to the throne by force of arms, but was defeated by King Amedeus and became a fugitive. He made another attempt to ascend the throne during the first republic, but was again driven out of Spain. In the meantime, his cousin, Alfonso XII, was crowned and was

NEW DRY DRIVE WILL BE AIMED AT HIGHER-UPS

350 NEWLY TRAINED MEN TO TAKE FIELD

One-Fourth of Entire Prohibition Army to Be Concentrated in New York.

(Associated Press.)

Prohibition officials yesterday disclosed preparations for a campaign against the higher-ups of the illicit liquor gangs that will throw against them—promptly on July 15—the biggest and best trained force of agents since prohibition became a law.

Prohibition Director Woodcock acknowledged that for the last two or three months his office has been "bending every effort" toward this drive. By mid-July, he said, approximately 350 new agents, chosen from among thousands of applicants for their ability as investigators, will be trained and distributed throughout the country. This force is the last of the 500 new agents authorized by Congress. The rest are already in the field.

They will be directed specifically, Woodcock asserted, to "get" the big commercial violators and the leaders among the illicit liquor gangsters, rather than to concentrate against the speakeasy and small-time bootlegger.

Distribution of New Men.

"If we don't make more and better cases with our force increased by nearly a third," he said, "then something is wrong with our force. There is no denying that our effort will be stronger. The results should speak for themselves."

The start of the augmented enforcement effort will begin quietly in impromptu schoolrooms in a dozen cities spread from coast to coast.

On the morning of July 1 the 350 new agents will be concentrated in cities roughly as follows: Thirteen in Boston, 62 in New York, 50 in Philadelphia, 28 in Richmond, 28 in New Orleans, 23 in Cincinnati, 55 in Chicago, 28 in St. Paul, 20 in Kansas City, 11 in Denver, 14 in San Francisco and 14 in Seattle.

Fourth of Force in New York.

Woodcock said if present plans are carried through the actual schooling of the new agents will begin promptly on the 1st of July. For two weeks they will be subjected to intensive instruction, he said, including the actual methods of modern investigation, how far they may proceed without themselves violating the law and in the aims and ideals of the present prohibition enforcement service.

A corps of 24 experienced instructors was at work in the Prohibition Bureau yesterday, marshaling the material to be imparted to the new men, and themselves being instructed in methods of teaching.

The 62 men taught in New York will remain in that city and State, bringing the total force of agents there to approximately 340, or nearly a fourth of the entire dry army.

Woodcock said no specific "drive" was to be concentrated there, but that the agents would be placed under the prohibition administrator to

Home of Slain Beauty Mysteriously Invaded

Starr Faithfull's Father Tells Police Intruders Entered Through Skylight; Murder Victim in Letter Told Friend of Impending Death.

New York, June 17 (A.P.).—Stanley E. Faithfull, stepfather of Starr Faithfull, reported to the police tonight that his apartment, on the top floor of 12 St. Luke's place, had been entered by a burglar yesterday afternoon, during the family's absence. He said the intruder had entered through a movable glass skylight. He would not say what, if anything, had been taken.

Detectives visited the apartment and said they found Mrs. Faithfull apparently quite unnerved and could get no information from her. Neither were they "very successful" in getting information from her husband.

Mr. Faithfull refused to say when or how he discovered the house had been entered, or why he waited so long—more than 24 hours—to report to the police.

The detectives said it was impossible to determine whether any one actually entered the apartment through the skylight, which leads to the living room.

Detectives also today continued to pick at the tangle of mystery which surrounds the death of Starr Faithfull, while District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards, of Nassau County, reasserted his belief the Greenwich Village beauty was murdered.

The prosecutor summed up the case thus:

"You have a girl that has been drugged, that has been bruised and beaten and that was sober. Therefore you must admit the possibility of murder."

Asked if he thought the case has run up "against a blank wall," District Attorney Edwards replied firmly that it "certainly has not."

"We are progressing," he said, "but naturally there are some phases of the investigation which we can not talk about."

New developments in the unraveling of Starr's death included today the discovery of a water-soaked black straw hat, the girl is believed to have worn the day she disappeared. The hat was found near the spot on Long Beach, where Starr's body was discovered. Detectives considered the find of little importance.

No trace of either Jack Greenway or Bruce Winston, with whom Starr was said by her family to have had an engagement the day she disappeared, was found by police. A telegram that Winston had been located was sent to Mr. Edwards, but proved to be a hoax.

Six days before the girl's body was found she wrote a letter in which she said:

"Before you receive this I will be dead."

Dr. G. Jameson Carr, of the liner Franconia, is on his way to New York with the letter.

Authorities could not decide whether the note meant that Starr

EARLY I. C. C. HEARING SEEN FOR 15 PER CENT FREIGHT RAISE ACTION

Strenuous Fight Against Petition Is Forecast by Shippers.

RAIL BONDHOLDERS MAY AID IN BATTLE

Copeland, Caraway Split in Ideas, Latter Calling Plan "Suicidal."

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Petition of the Nation's railroads for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates, an increase calculated to add $400,000,000 a year to their badly depleted revenues, will be subject of an early hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission, it was indicated yesterday.

The petition was filed yesterday by representatives of the Eastern, Western and Northern groups of railroads, who asked the increase on the ground that the railroads of the country are nowt facing a financial "emergency."

That there will be a strenuous fight against the proposed increase is certain. Organized shippers of fruits and vegetables, shippers of retail dry goods and shippers of various other articles that might be affected already have girded themselves for a contest against it.

Some Shippers Favor Raise.

On the other hand, say representatives of the railroads, there are some shippers who are in favor of the proposed rate increase. These shippers, they say, believe prosperity for the railroads will mean prosperity for industry in general.

Shippers who are ready to oppose an increase in freight rates will grant that the railroads are in bad financial shape. But, they argue, why shouldn't the railroads bear their economic cross just as other interests are bearing theirs?

The State Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota, which will oppose the increase, issued a statement yesterday saying that "rates should be decreased, not increased."

Insurance Heads Support Move.

In Wall street, according to the Associated Press, heads of several life insurance companies are reported to have reached an agreement to support the railroads in their efforts to rehabilitate their earning power.

Insurance companies hold more than $3,000,000,000 in railway bonds. Mutual savings banks hold about $1,300,000,000, and commercial banks about the same amount.

It is expected that members of Congress, especially those in the West and the Northwest, will bombard the Interstate Commerce Commission with telegrams, protesting the proposed increase in freight rates. It is expected that the Commission will reach a decision with regard to the proposed increase long before Congress convenes in December.

Copeland, Caraway Comment.

There were only two members of Congress here who were willing to comment on the freight rate petition yesterday—Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), of New York, and Senator Caraway (Democrat), of Arkansas.

"The railroads," said Senator Copeland, "have got to have something or bust. They are entitled to earn 5½ per cent on their investment, and we know they can't do it under existing conditions. They are the arteries of the country and the Nation's development depends to a large degree on them."

Senator Caraway, although believing that the increase would be "suicidal both to the railroads and to the public," nevertheless expressed the belief that the increase would be granted as part of the administration's "stimulation program."

Revenue Decline Predicted.

"An increase in freight rates," said Senator Caraway, "won't bring an increase in revenue. Millions of dollars worth of products are rotting now because producers are unable to pay present rates. A few roads may be able to wring a few more dollars from the public, but for most of them revenue would decline."

In the hearing on the rate increase petition, the question of a consolidation of the railroads undoubtedly will come up. In all probability, the Eastern railroads will by that time have submitted a definite plan for a

People, Science Need Religion, Duce Says

Mussolini Declares He Will Send Children to Communion on Sunday, But Points Out Fascism and State Are His to Guard.

Paris, June 17 (A.P.).—"Religion is indispensable, not only for the people but for the elite and for science, which it completes," Premier Mussolini is quoted as saying in a special interview which will be printed by Le Journal tomorrow. The interview is devoted to a discussion of the present relations between Italy and the Vatican.

"I wish that there be religion throughout the country," the duce is quoted as saying, "and that the children may be taught their catechism. I will send them to communion in a body on Sunday in their ballilla uniforms, or otherwise.

"For that I let the priests work; that's religion. The rest is politics; and politics, that's me.

"I will not admit that anybody, absolutely anybody, touch in any way that which belongs to the state. My formula is, Clear everything within the state, nothing outside the state, nothing against the state.

"The child, as soon as he is old enough to learn, belongs to the state alone. No sharing is possible. Maybe this will be judged Spartan doctrine carried to an extreme. One can not deny, however, that it is clear. We are in process of reconstructing Italy—a great Italy. It is a colossal task, such as I do not believe has often been tried. The antique city has nothing in common with the nation of more than 42,000,000 inhabitants."

According to the interviewer, Jacques de Marsillac, Mussolini denied the aim of Fasciam was incompatible with the teaching of the Christian religion.

"To arrive at its ends," he said, "religion needs the support of that

YOUTH IS DROWNED ON 50-YARD SWIM

Ray Milstead Sinks, Despite Friend's Rescue Efforts; Body Recovered.

Ray Milstead, 17-year-old Radnor Heights, Va., youth, was drowned yesterday in an attempt to swim 50 yards to a buoy in Little River, back of Analostan Island.

Milstead drowned in spite of the efforts of Robert Cave, 23, also of Radnor Heights, who tried to save him. The two friends had gone swimming together, and Milstead started for the marker, with Cave beside him.

About half way out, Cave said, Milstead gasped, "I can't make it." Cave said he attempted to help him to shore, but that the drowning youth clutched him so tightly he could not swim. He broke Milstead's hold, and the youth sank.

The body was recovered after it had been in the water about 45 minutes. It was taken to Georgetown Hospital, where the Rescue Squad worked on it, but life was extinct. Milstead was pronounced dead by a doctor at the hospital and the coroner was notified.

After Milstead sank, Cave swam ashore and ran about a quarter of a mile to phone the rescue squad and Harbor police, who recovered the body. Cave assisted in efforts to find Milstead, who was found in about 10 feet of water.

The drowned youth had worked during the morning, his mother said, but took the afternoon off to go swimming. This was the first time she had not told him to be careful, she said, adding that he was a good swimmer, but that when younger he had been subject to fits. He was employed as a handyman about an estate in the neighborhood.

Ray was the second of six children, and his youngest brother, Jackie, 3 years old, was his especial chum, his mother said. Jackie was playing cheerfully about the house yesterday, unaware that his brother was dead.

Countess Bela Hadik Undergoes Operation

The operation was reported to be successful and the countess was believed out of danger.

G. U. LAW STUDENT SHOOTS HIS MOTHER

Temporary Insanity Blamed for Perry Dawson's Act; Wound Not Serious.

Bayside Queens, Long Island, June 17 (U.P.).—Perry Dawson, 20, a law student at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., shot and wounded his mother, Mrs. Josephine Dawson, here tonight. Her conditoin was not serious, for after treatment at a physician's office for a scalp wound, she returned to her home.

The son, who was seized by a temporary fit of insanity, according to the physician's report, is held at Bayside Station on a felonious assault charge and will be arraigned in Flushing Police Court tomorrow.

Police say that Dawson returned home from school last week and tonight began throwing furniture about the house. Efforts of his mother to calm him failed.

Dawson went to his room and returned with a revolver and shot Mrs. Dawson, whose screams brought neighbors.

The mother was placed in an automobile and rushed to a doctor, while police were called to the home. The boy, they reported, was highly nervous when arrested.

The son didn't recall what had happened, the examining physician reported to police.

Rome-to-London Record Lowered

Hawks Exceeds Speed of 200 Miles an Hour on Round-Trip Hop.

London, June 17 (U.P.).—Capt. Frank M. Hawks, American flier who has been setting the pace for Europe's speed pilots in recent weeks, made another record-breaking dash across the continent today when he flew to Rome and back in 12 hours and 27 minutes, with slightly less than three hours out for luncheon in the Italian capital.

Hawks averaged slightly better than 200 miles an hour on the round trip of 1,800 miles. The American aviator departed at 5:31 a. m. and landed in Rome 4 hours and 44 minutes later. He had lunch and then started back at 12:38 p. m.

At 5:38 p. m. the speedy little plane settled down to an easy landing at Croydon Field, just five hours after departure from Rome.

Guard for Atlanta's Mayor Asked After 'Dry Threats'

New York Executive Told of Menacing Words Uttered Against Key Because of His Outspoken Criticism of Prohibition While in France.

Atlanta, Ga., June 17 (U.P.).—Threats of "fanatics" against the life of Mayor James L. Key of Atlanta, have resulted in an appeal to Mayor James J. Walker of New York for police protection for the Atlanta chief executive when he passes through that city en route home from Paris, the Atlanta Constitution will say tomorrow.

Luke Arnold, executive secretary for the mayor, was reported to have dispatched a letter to New York authorities telling of threats here of "fanatics" who objected to the mayor's recent denunciation of prohibition.

Arnold declined to give further information regarding the threats, but did say that such statements had been made in the "executive's offices."

The letter sent to Mayor Walker follows:

"Mayor James L. Key of Atlanta, whose antiprohibition utterances have again focused world-wide attention on the American system, will arrive in New York on the Ile de France following a tour of the French republic.

"His bold statements have so incensed a group of fanatics that there have been threatening statements made in Atlanta and even in the executive offices of the mayor. While we do not anticipate any serious dif-

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Appears on Pages 5 and 22 Today

four-party consolidation of railroads in the East, a consolidation which will serve as the keystone for a nation-wide consolidation.

Railroad men say that the proposed rate increase and the proposed consolidation are both emergency measures, each being designed to lift the railroads out of the economic slough in which they now find themselves.

A rate increase, they say, is necessary in order that the roads may have the money to pay for improvements that will be started once the consolidation is authorized.

5,000 Reductions Recalled.

In picturing their present plight, railroad men go back to 1921, when the United States Government returned the railroads to private ownership. At that ime, railroad men say, he lines were impoverished. Realizing this, the Interstate Commerce Commission authorized a 25 per cent increase in freight rates. Prosperity for the railroads quickly followed.

Soon, however, the commission was being besieged by shippers who wanted freight rates reduced. In some 5,000 cases, the railroad men say, rates weer reduced, with the result that increases granted in 1921 were virtually whittled away.

By 1930, they say, the earnings of the railroads had fallen off to a point where they were $800,000,000 below what they were in 1922. The return value on the property of class 1 railroads last year, according to the petiton filed yesterday, was only 3.54 per cent, whereas, under the law, the railroads are allowed to earn up to 5½ per cent.

Alternatives Are Listed.

How, ask railroad men, are they going to balance their budgets? Are they going to default on interest on their borrowings? Are they going to refuse to pay taxes? Are they going to stop buying supplies? Are they going to cut wages, or are they going to get an increase in rates?

To refuse to pay interest on their loans and to refuse to pay taxes, they say, is out of the question. As for supplies, they say, the purchases of these have now been reduced to the minimum and they suggest that this is one reason for business depression. To attempt to cut down wages, they say, not only would be in violation of a promise made to President Hoover in the spring of 1929, but would result in a long-drawn-out labor dispute that would tie up the roads and cause industrial havoc.

And so, they conclude, there is only one way out of their financial dilemma, and that is through an increase in rates.

15 Per Cent Would Halve Loss.

The 15 per cent increase in freight rates asked yesterday, it is estimated, would bring in an annual additional revenue of $400,000,000, which would represent only half of the annual loss that the roads have suffered since 1922.

Even with the $400,000,000 additional, it is estimated in the brief submitted yesterday, the roads would not quite realize 4 per cent interest on their capital. With an improvement in business, however, the roads would expect to increase their revenues, and consequently their profits.

When they appear before the Interstate Commerce Commission, the railroad men will argue that the increase in freight rates not only will add to the prosperity of the railroads, but will add to the prosperity of the country in general. They will be going on the assumption, of course, that a consolidation of railroads will follow.

Consolidation Is Assumed.

Many roads, railroad men point out, are now holding up improvements until they know what the I. C. C. is going to do about the consolidation. For example, they say, Daniel Willard, of the Baltimore & Ohio, might be contemplating a new roundhouse for the Reading. But, they point out, one could hardly expect him to order such an improvement while matters remain as unsettled as they are now.

But, rail experts say, if the railroads do not get an increase in freight rates, they are not going to be able to order the necessary improvements, and the possible contribution to a restored prosperity, therefore, will be lost.

Five years ago there were something like 1,800,000 men and women employed by the Nation's railroads. This number now has fallen off to about 1,200,000. It is estimated that for every person who is given direct employment by the railroads, htere are three others who are given indirect employment—the coal miner, the tree cutter and so on.

U. S. SPEEDING WAR ON NEW YORK GANGS

40 Federal Agents Draw Net Around "Big Shots" Among Racketeers.

New York, June 17 (A.P.).—The Capone trail to the penitentiary will be trod by some of the biggest shots in New York gangdom if Uncle Sam can arrange it.

Forty Federal investigators, quietly checking the incomes of racketmen and others for months, were reported today to be expecting aid from some of the scores of agents who "got" Scarface Al, America's most notorious gang chieftain, after months of patient labor in Chicago.

Delighted that Capone had pleaded guilty to income tax and prohibition violations for which he faces a substantial prison term, Federal officials at Washington looked toward New York as the next field of battle in the war against organized crime.

"Higher-ups" will feel the brunt of an offensive launched by Prohibition Director Woodcock at Washington, who has ordered his forces in the New York area to concentrate on the brains behind prohibition law violations.

United States Attorney George Medalie revealed today that 40 special agents were at work here, but beyond that he was rather reticent, indicating the results would speak for themselves when they were obtained.

"They've been in New York about two months now," he said, "and various Federal departments, including my office, are coordinating to facilitate the investigations."

"All I can say is that satisfactory progress is being made."

Later, however, Mr. Medalie said several men, whose trials are pending on indictments charging them with evading the income tax, had already been investigated.

They include "Manny" Kessler, alleged "king of bootleggers," and Jose Enrico Miro, alleged "policy" gambling king.

The Federal and State drive against gangsters already has borne fruit in charges against Jack "Legs" Diamond, thrice ambushed target of the underworld. The sick gangster was recently released in $7,500 bail here on a charge of operating a huge applejack still in the Catskills. Up in Greene County Attorney General John J. Bennett, jr., plans to prosecute him on charges of torturing an applejack hauler.

Diamond's bonds total $57,750, as in addition to the Federal charges he faces State charges of kidnaping, gunToting, assault and coercion.

Capone Loses Writ Guarding Home

Court Dissolves Injunction Given to Protect Florida Estate.

Miami, Fla., June 17 (A.P.).—Circuit Judge W. L. Freeland today dissolved a temporary injunction restraining Dade County from removing furnishings from Al Capone's Palm Island residence here in connection with a $50,000 suit against Al Capone by Vincent Giblin, his former attorney in Miami.

The court order dissolving the injunction was made effective next Saturday noon. Frank Clark, jr., attorney representing Capone's wife, said he would apply to the State Supreme Court for a restraining order.

Giblin filed suit against Capone June 6 seeking $50,000 he said was a balance due as attorney fees. Sheriffs seized a portion of the furnishings of the residence before Judge Freeland issued a temporary restraining order on a petition by Clark, alleging the property was held in Mrs. Capone's name.

POST SALE RULING DELAYED BY COURT

approval to the amended Lawrence offer as more advantageous to the estate than that submitted by Mr. Hearst. Mr. Thom, the only witness, was still in the witness chair when the proceedings ended in a general conference of the various attorneys and Justice Adkins. Before postponing decision, Justice Adkins endeavored to get assurances from W. W. Spalding, attorney for Mr. Lawrence, that the Lawrence offer would be held open. Mr. Spalding said he could not promise the offer would be held open beyond Saturday.

Mrs. McLean Seeks Delay.

Frank J. Hogan, counsel for Mrs. McLean, wife of The Post publisher, fought for a delay, asking "Why the rush?" Mrs. McLean, Mr. Hogan said, did not want The Post sold, but wanted it kept for her sons, believing that, regardless of the financial burden on the estate at present, The Post represented an "unparalleled" opportunity for the McLean children for service and a career.

A nationally prominent newspaperman, Mr. Hogan said, was trying to work out an arrangement which would permit purchase of The Post from the McLean estate under conditions which would permit the children to buy it back or buy an interest in it when they became of age. He did not elaborate on this proposal. Mrs. McLean also was trying to work out some plan whereby she could buy The Post for her children, Mr. Hogan said, and urged a postponement until July 5.

J. S. Flannery, counsel for the American Security & Trust Co., urged the court to approve the Lawrence offer. Everyone interested, Mr. Flannery said, had had ample notice and opportunity to file better offers, but had not done so.

Amended Offer Opposed.

This remark was made in response to a question from Justice Adkins, after George Fraser, of counsel for Mr. McLean, had said that Mr. McLean was opposed to the amended Lawrence offer and wanted additional time to study it.

Julius I. Peyser, who has acted as intermediary in negotiations incident to the Lawrence offer, told the court that he had talked with Mr. McLean at midnight the night before and again a few minutes before the matter was brought up in court yesterday. Mr. McLean had told him, he said, that he was "not interested" in any other than the Lawrence bid for The Post, except such offer as might be made by Mrs McLean up until 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Fraser said that Mr. McLean was as anxious as any one to save The Post for his children, but felt that he should have more time to consider the amended Lawrence offer. Mr. Fraser quoted the section of the [illegible] R. McLean will providing that The Post should not be sold without the written consent of his son.

W. C. Sullivan, an attorney, told the court he was authorized to ask for a postponement of decision to permit submission of another purchase offer. William J. Hughes, jr., said the same thing. Neither told the court whom they represented and refused to discuss the matter with newspaper reporters.

Bloom to Speak At Outing Today

Citizens, P.-T. A. Groups Will Spend Afternoon at Marshall Hall.

The first annual excursion of the Federation of Citizens Associations and the District Congres of Parents and Teachers wil leave in relays, beginning at 10 o'clock this morning, for Marshall Hall, where an elaborate program of entertainment has been planned for both afternon and night.

Athletic events will be under direction of Richard Tennyson and Miss Maude Parker, of the Playground Department of the District, and at a basket lunch at 2 o'clock Mrs. E. C. Rittue will lead in a goodfellowship get-together.

Speakers include Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, and Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, presidentof the George Washington University. Thomas J. Llewellyn and Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter are general chairmen for the excursion committee.

had contemplated suicide or had a premonition of death.

A side development was the receipt by Harry Stoner, artist, of a "black hand letter" threatening to involve him in the Faithfull case unless he paid $500.

Stoner said Miss Faithfull had applied to him for a job as model about a month before she disappeared, and that he had not seen her since.

Stoner was one of those present at a farewell party to Miriam Hopkins, actress, which Starr said she attended. The girl was not there, Stoner said.

INCOME TAXES FAIL TO REDUCE DEFICIT

Receipts Are Exceeded by Daily Expense Total, Treasury Reveals.

(Associated Press.)

The largest Federal deficit since the war yesterday presented a formidable front to an assault of income taxes crippled by the depression.

In spite of an increase of $8,000,000 in the red-ink total, Treasury officials maintained yesterday that the $1,000,000,000 obstacle to a balanced budget will fall below President Hoover's estimate of $950,000,000 before the financial year ends, on June 30.

The increase was announced in a Treasury statement of accounts to the close of business June 15 and brought the total deficit to $1,099,903,063.

An allotment to the postal deficiency of $7,500,000, combined with general departmental expenses of $14,856,000, or double the preceding day's outlay, furnished the chief causes for the increase.

Income-tax receipts of $11,984,411 were ineffective in meeting this enlarged outlay, and expenditures for the day, with only two weeks to the close of the fiscal year, exceeded collections by more than $10,000,000.

Although June 15 was the last day for paying second tax installments on 1930 incomes, officials do not expect the major force of the returns to be felt until tabulations are completed for June 16 and 17. If the March quarterly payments afford a comparison, second and third day tabulations will exceed the first by approximately three and seven times, respectively.

Total June income-tax collections have been estimated at $290,000,000, as against $329,557,755 in March. June collections to date are $46,528,970.

Postoffice officials had estimated the 1931 deficiency at $140,000,000. Payments to date are about $6,000,000 below this figure.

General departmental expenditures for the fiscal year, with only fifteen days remaining, totaled $2,302,090,000, as compared with $2,099,008,000 during the corresponding period last year.

Meanwhile, figures on departmental expenditures during eleven months of the year revealed only two actual decreases in the operating costs of Federal establishments as compared with the same period of a year before.

White House Shows Saving.

The White House account dropped $172,000, to $475,200, while the Navy Department outlay was $326,074,000, a decline of $21,136,000. The Interior Department went from $261,828,000 to $83,456,000, but its pension functions were transferred to the Veterans' Administration, which showed an increase of $234,212,000 for a total of $642,677,000.

The turnover in the public debt from July 1, 1930, to June 15, 1931, aggregated more than $12,366,000,000. New issues came to $6,494,000,000, retirements to $5,870,000,000, indicating a debt increase of over $600,000,000 for the year.

The expenditures of other principal Government departments were: Legislative establishment, $22,475,000, increase $4,000,000; State Department, $14,239,000, increase $1,454,000; Treasury Department, $181,648,000, increase $4,405,000; War Department, $438,690,000, increase $25,603,000; Justice Department, $40,316,000, increase $10,700,000; Agriculture Department, $253,552,000, increase $88,563,000; Commerce Department, $56,629,000, increase $11,908,000; Labor Department, $10,745,000, increase $1,277,000.

MRS. M'CORMICK'S RITES.

Funeral of Former Washingtonian, Will Be Held Here Today.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lois G. McCormick, of Clarendon, Va., who died Tuesday after a long illness, will be held this morning at the W. W. Chambers funeral home, 1400 Chapin street northwest, with interment following in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. McCormick was 34 years old, and had been ill for seventeen months. She was a native of Washington, where she had lived all her life before moving to Clarendon about seven months ago.

Survivors include her husband Charles M. McCormick; two children, Jean and Robert Duke, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wilkinson, of Washington, in addition to a brother, W. S. Wilkinson, jr., also of this city.

Veterans Gather at Tomb.

A group of 80 Grand Army veterans of the Civil War gathered at their leader's tomb for the service.

"A Nation in its whole life time flowers with but a few whose names remain upon the roll of the world in after generations," Mr. Hoover said. "Lincoln after all these years still grows, not only in the hearts of his countrymen but in the hearts of the peoples of the world.

"It is not new, yet it is eternally true, to state that Lincoln made a universal appeal to the minds and hearts of men. His every aspiration was for the unity and welfare of his country. He became a triumphant force in achieving that ideal, because he saw the problems of his time not only from the standpoint of the statesman but of the average citizen whose outlook he understood and whose trials and hopes he shared."

Talks With Capone's Nemesis.

Springfield, Ohio, June 17 (A.P.).—President Hoover today conferred for a few minutes with George E. Q. Johnson, U. S. attorney for the northern district of Illinois, who directed the investigation against Al Capone that resulted yesterday in the gangster's plea of guilty to charges of evasion of income tax payments and conspiracy.

Johnson talked with the Chief Executive at the Governor's mansion here after the dedication ceremonies at the Lincoln tomb. After the conference Johnson would not comment except to say "the President was extremely kind in what he said to me."

Text of Hoover's Speech On Lincoln in Springfield

Following is the text of President Hoover's address in Springfield, Ill., yesterday before the tomb of Lincoln:

The people of Illinois have taken just pride in the restoration and beautification of the tomb of their greatest citizen — Abraham Lincoln, the sixteenth President of the United States. This memorial was erected and dedicated 57 years ago. Another great citizen of Illinois—the eighteenth President of the United States, Ulysses S. Grant—made the address on that occasion. It is proper that a President of the United States should take part in its rededication at this time.

This, the tomb of Lincoln, is a shrine to all Americans. The stone and marble of all of our great national shrines are more than physical reminders of the mighty past of our country. They are symbols of things of the spirit. Through the men and deeds they commemorate, they renew our national ideals and our aspirations.

It is refreshment of the national soul to assemble in these places and to direct the thoughts of our people to these occasions, and to recall the men and their deeds which builded the republic. It is an awakening of pride in the glories of the past and an inspiration to faith in the future. These are the springs which replenish that most sacred stream of human emotions—patriotism.

Nothing that we may say here can add to the knowledge or devotion of our people to the memory of Abraham Lincoln. Nothing we may do can add to his stature in history. All that words can convey has long since been uttered by his grateful countrymen.

Recreated Inspirations.

We gather here today that we of our generation may again pay tribute to the man who not only saved the Union and gave freedom to a race but who recreated the ideals and inspirations of American life.

A nation in its whole lifetime flowers with but few whose names remain upon the roll of the world in after generations. Lincoln, after all these years, still grows, not only in the hearts of his countrymen, but in the hearts of the peoples of the world.

It is not new, yet it is eternally true, to state that Lincoln made a universal appeal to the minds and hearts of men. His ever aspiration was for the unity and welfare of his country. He became a triumphant force in achieving that ideal, because he saw the problems of his time not only from the standpoint of the statesman, but of the average citizen, whose outlook he understood and whose trials and hopes he shared.

No man gazes upon the tomb of Lincoln without reflection upon his transcendent qualities of patience, fortitude and steadfastness. The very greatness which history and popular imagination have stamped upon him sometimes obscures somewhat the real man back of the symbol which he has become. It is not amiss to reflect that he was a man before becoming a symbol. To appreciate the real meaning of his life we need to contemplate him as the product of the people themselves—as the farm boy, the fence builder, the soldier, the country lawyer, the political candidate, the legislator and the President, as well as the symbol of Union and of human rights.

Made Great Constitution.

It is fitting that we should rededicate his hallowed resting place; that we should thus recall to every American mind and heart the contribution which Lincoln made to the greatness of our Nation. But it was Lincoln himself whose insight and splendid expression illuminated the true purpose of our assembly at national shrines. It was he who at Gettysburg called upon the people not so much to mourn the dead as to honor them by a rededication of themselves to the service of their country. He said in that memorable address, "It is for us the living rather to be dedicated here * * * to the great task remaining before us." That should be our purpose and resolves today.

The six decades which have passed since Lincoln's death have written on the scroll of history changes bewildering in their variety, momentous in their consequences. They have broadened and enriched life beyond the imaginations of Lincoln's contemporaries. The years have not only yielded rich treasures, material and spiritual, but they have brought challenges to readjustment, both by government and individuals, to a changing world. Our country has become powerful among nations. It is charged with infinitely new responsibilities both at home and abroad.

Enforcement of Law.

What a poet has called the endless adventure, the government of men, discloses new and changing human needs from generation to generation. As we scan our history even since his day, who can doubt Lincoln's own words that our national heritage is "worth the keeping." And it was Lincoln who stated and restated in impressive terms that its keeping rests upon obedience and enforcement of law. There can be no man in our country who, either by his position or his influence, stands above the law. That the republic can not admit and still live. For ours is a government of laws and a society of ordered liberty safeguarded only by law.

The eternal principles of truth, justice and right, never more clearly stated than by Lincoln, remain the solvent for the problems and perplexities of every age and of our day. It is to those who, like Linsoln, have made these principles serve the needs of mankind that the world pays its homage. At his shrine we light the torch of our rededication to the service and ideals of the nation which he loved and served with the last full measure of devotion.

2 Children Sample Lye They Find on Sidewalk

Two small children narrowly escaped serious injury from poison last night when they both tried to eat what police say was lye, which has been carelessly thrown from a window in the neighborhood.

Ernest Jewett, 941 M street northwest, each 2 years old, were given first-aid treatment and antidotes by their families and neighbors when the children ran screaming to their homes after having tried to eat the poison which was found on the sidewalk in that block. Neither of them were thought seriously ill. Police are investigating the origin of the poison.

DEMOCRATIC STAND ON TARIFF ASSAILED

Senator Dickinson Declares Shouse Falsifies Sugar and Wool Status.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Dickinson yesterday replied to an attack by Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, upon the Hawley-Smoot tariff act with an assertion that the Democrat's statement was "characteristically false in fact, fraudulent in implication and hypocritical in conception."

Citing Shouse's mention of sugar and wool as two of the tariff items which brought retaliatory duties from foreign countries, the Iowa senator said in a statement issued through the Republican national committee, that because of Shouse's position, his "pronunciamentos are presumed to set forth the plans for democracy itself."

Hold Party Now Committed.

"If this be true, the Democratic party is obviously committed to remove the protection on sugar and wool, if it should come into power, under the Shousian fiat," Dickinson said. "How acceptable this will be in the sugar and wool States having Democratic representation in Congress remains to be seen.

"For many months Democratic orators have been asked what rates they would reduce in the bill they publicly condemned after obtaining the high rates they desired. They have failed to answer but now, at last, Mr. Shouse has named them—sugar and wool. If there are further items, which in the opinion of Democracy should carry lower duties or be admitted free, Mr. Shouse should be wound up again and permitted to name them."

Relief Avenue Neglected.

Dickinson said any attempt to decrease the present duty on wool would "meet with the desperate opposition from Democratic senators and representatives, who must protect their districts or cease to represent them."

Referring to the Democrats' charge that the Tariff Commission has failed to function adequately in reducing rates in the tariff act, Dickinson said only four of the Democratic senators who voted against the tariff bill have utilized their opportunity to request investigations by the commission with a view to reductions.

FARM BOARD AVOIDS PLEDGE UPON WHEAT

Will Not Promise That Stabilization Stocks Will Be Withheld.

(Associated Press.)

A definite pledge that stabilization wheat will be withheld from domestic markets is to be avoided by the Farm Board. The board intends to stand on its policy announced March 23. At that time it said, in announcing that price stabilization would not be attempted in the 1931 crop:

"It is too early now to set forth in detail what the sales policy of the grain stabilization corporation will be in the new crop year, except to say that stabilization supplies of wheat will be handled in such a way as to impose the minimum of burden upon domestic and world prices."

Midwestern grain men and legislators, including Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, have importuned the board to remove these supplies, estimated at more than 200,000,000 bushels, from competition with the new crop now moving to the market.

The board, it is said, desires to have a free hand in selling should a good market present itself.

A fairly good demand has been evident in foreign countries this spring. Drought has cut heavily into spring wheat in this country and Canada, and European crops have been reported affected by adverse weather. Besides this, there are indications of slight world-wide acreage reductions.

Chairman Stone said Monday the board would authorize the sale of wheat abroad so long as a demand continued and it did not disturb the world markets.

It has been estimated that storage charges on the wheat will total between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 monthly.

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, yesterday issued a statement in Boise, urging retention of the wheat until the price reached at least $1. He termed its existence a menace to farmers.

Meanwhile Senator Capper in Topeka expressed disappointment that the board would sell wheat abroad and asserted it should be taken out of competition with the new crop.

proceed as he sees fit against the large-scale violators.

With the addition of the 55 men to the Chicago staff, the total working regularly in the States of Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin will be brought to approximately 184, the second largest force assigned to any prohibition district.

In choosing the new agents, Woodcock disclosed, a staff of investigators made extensive inquiry into the character of each to determine his past record, whether he had ever served a prison sentence or whether he himself used liquor.

The Federal dry chief advanced the idea that the present economic depression had helped improve the caliber of his staff of agents, saying that many men who formerly held responsible positions with large concerns had applied for positions and would "help improve the constantly rising standards of the corps of agents."

New York Bandits Get $200,000 Gems

Armed Trio Robs Home of Stanwood Menken; Wife and Maids Bound.

New York, June 17 (U.P.).—The home of S. Stanwood Menken, noted lawyer, was robbed today of jewelry valued by the family at $200,000, after three bandits bound and gagged Mrs. Menken and two maids.

Police Commissioner Mulhooney took personal charge of the investigation into what was called the most daring robbery in recent years. Mrs. Menken said a man wearing a uniform similar to those of department store delivery men entered the servants' entrance and said he had a box of flowers to deliver. He was followed by two other men.

An upholsterer's assistant was working on the first floor. The three men took out pistols and told a maid and the upholsterer to lead them to Mrs. Menken. She was having breakfast on the roof garden and, under bandits' guns, revealed hiding places of her jewels.

$120,000 Pay Roll Plot Is Confessed

Fischer Pleads Guilty to Conspiracy to Steal District Funds.

Arthur A. Fischer, former employe of the District Building, late yesterday went into Justice Peyton Gordon's courtroom and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of conspiring to rob the District Building pay roll of an estimated $120,000. His case was immediately referred to the probation officer for a report.

Fischer, with a 20-year-old Syracuse boy, Philip K. Stumm, were indicted for conspiring to rob. They were alleged to have developed a scheme to rob the paymaster at the District Building. Police learned of the plot and after sitting in on one of the sessions of the pair, arrested them.

Stumm entered a plea of guilty last month and was placed on probation for two years. Fischer at first pleaded not guilty, but when his case came up yesterday he changed to a plea of guilty and threw himself on the mercy of the court.

REPORT DESCRIBES MARINES' AMBUSH

Patrol Led by Americans Is Waylaid by Rebels in Nicaragua.

(Associated Press.)

The ambush in which Lieut. Lester E. Power, of Calistoga, Calif., and Sergt. William E. McGhee, of Chattanooga, Tenn., the Marines who were killed by Nicaraguan insurgents, was described yesterday in a dispatch to the Navy Department.

A native guardia patrol led by Power and McGhee was waylaid by a large group of insurgents on June 15 in western central Nicaragua. The death of the Americans was reported Tuesday.

In his message giving details, Lieut. Col. Franklin B. Garrett said the fighting lasted two hours. One Nicaraguan member of the patrol was killed and three were wounded.

In his message, Lieut. Col. Garrett said the Marine commander in Nicaragua also reported a skirmish in the northwestern part of the country on June 15 in which one insurgent was killed and several wounded. The insurgent band of 20 was put to flight by a guardia patrol headed by Sergt. Edward L. Livermore, of Wellington, Ohio, which received no casualties. Arms and ammunition were captured.

SYMPTOMS GIVEN FOR SPOTTED FEVER

High Temperature and Skin Marks Draw Warning by Health Officials.

With the first death reported in the current outbreak of spotted fever in Prince Georges County, public health officials have sent to all doctors a circular describing the disease. In the West, where the disease usually occurs, fatalities are reported in from 70 to 90 per cent of the cases, it is said.

The first symptoms of the illness are a feeling of depression, headache and chills. Light is painful to the eyes and pressure on the skin causes pain. The spots appear on the third or fourth day. A fever of about 105 degrees is sometimes present and delirium is noted.

Persons with these symptoms are urged to see their doctor, as a vaccine has been prepared which is useful in combating the disease. There is no specific treatment, however.

The disease is not contagious, according to Dr. A. B. Hooton, the county health officer. It is transmitted only by the bite of the wood tick, which receives the ailment from rabbits, squirrels and other small animals. The disease is described as being similar to typhus fever and lasts about two weeks.

An alleged still, concealed beneath the floor of a chicken house, caused the arrest of George Finall, of Suitland, after a raid by Deputy Sheriff L. E. Dutrow. Finall was charged with manufacturing liquor when the 60-gallon still was unearthed. Judge Harry I. Anderson set Finall's bond at $1,000, which he posted to gain his release.

This raid was one of a series made early yesterday morning, county police having swooped down on the home of James Nichols, at Oakland, charging him with possession of 37 bottles of beer. Sergt. A. W. Hepburn and Private G. William Gray, who made the raid, took Nichols before Judge Anderson, who set his bond at $1,000.

The Strawn-Turner post of the American Legion and the Star-Spangled Banner Council of the Daughters of America have requested the Park and Planning Commission to grant them a hearing before zoning is changed to permit St. Margaret's Catholic Church to erect a school in Seat Pleasant.

The church has purchased a little more than five acres of land across from the church for the school, according to the Rev. J. J. Corbett. It was bought from George N. Palmer at a cost of $10,000.

The two organizations are reported to oppose the school because the noise from the playground might prove disturbing to neighbors. The land bought by the church is in a residential area.

So far no date has been set by the commission for a hearing. Even if the commission does approve the change it will also have to be passed by the county commissioners, who are likely to hold a public hearing.

The Strawn-Turner Post letter to the commission is signed by Sumner L. Morris, commander, and Herman H. Rudolph, liaison officer. The other letter was signed by Mrs. Margaret A. Halfpap and Mrs. R. E. Boswell, counselor.

A tax rate of 35 cents per $100, an increase of 10 cents, has been announced for Edmonston by W. W. Lewis, the mayor, who has announced that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself in the elections on July 6.

Eldridge Lusby, councilman from the Second Ward, is the only candidate who has appeared to succeed Mr. Lewis. Mr. Lusby's term on the council does not expire until next year, so that if he is successful, another alderman will have to be chosen in his place.

The Edmonston voters will also choose two other councilmen and a town treasurer. Charles C. Martin, present councilman of the First Ward, has not announced whether or not he will run for reelection. However, George Sheetz is understood to be a candidate for this post.

W. Brooke Hunter, of the Second Ward, will be a candidate to succeed himself, it has been announced. Mr. Hunter is now serving the unexpired term of Martin U. White, who resigned.

Henry A. Eberle, who has been treasurer of the town since its incorporation in 1924, will again be a candidate for this post. He is ot expected to have any opposition.

Five cases of possession of liquor were tried yesterday in Hyattsville Police Court, and four of them resulted in convictions.

John McCarthy, of Berwyn, was fined $50 for sale and possession and $10 for assault on Constable Howard Slater. His brother, Francis McCarthy, was fined $5 for disorderly conduct.

Constable Slater alleged that John McCarthy offered to sell him some liquor at a dance in Berwyn. He went with the man to his home, where the alleged assault occurred when he tried to arrest the man.

Eugene Reynolds, who was captured on the Baltimore boulevard by Constable Slater, with a load of alleged liquor, was fined $50 for transportation and possession.

D. W. Munson, of 1235 Randolph street northwest, was fined $50 for transportation and possession of 36 quarts. He was arrested on Riggs road by Policeman Ralph Brown. Marvin Morgan, of Washington, who was in the car with Munson, was also charged with transportation and possession, but the charges were dismissed.

Don Gibson, colored, of Shady Oak, on the Baltimore boulevard, near Beltsville, was fined $75 for possession of 385 bottles of beer. He was arrested after a raid on his home. James W. Masters, a soldier at Camp Meade, was the only one of the speeders arrested over the week-end to appear for trial. He was fined $25.

Hattie C. Holton yesterday petitioned the circuit court for an absolute divorce from Hugh M. Holton, who, she says, deserted her in 1928. The couple was married in Washington in 1925, she says.

Her bill of complaint, filed through Attorneys Lansdale G. Sasscer and Daniel Joseph, states that they had no children. She gives her husband's last known address as Washington.

The healthmobile, a truck furnished by the State Department of Health and equipped with a child's doctor, a dentist and a public health nurse, will tour the county during the first two weeks of July. A schedule of its stops will be made public later.

The doctor and dentist are specially trained to diagnose children's ailments, and will recommend to parents that treatment be given when necessary. The service is free, and is part of the health department's attempt to lower the infant mortality, which is high in Maryland.

The truck is equipped with large tents, to serve as examination rooms for children less than 7 years old. Individual discusisons on child hygiene will be given to mothers, and health literature distributed.

Low Naval Job Bid Filed.

(Associated Press.)

Worsham Brothers, of Knoxville, Tenn., submitted the low bid of $246,666 yesterday on a barracks and boiler plant at the Anacostia Naval Air Station.

A mass meeting of citizens of the Rosslyn precinct will be held tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Woodrow Wilson School, Fort Myer Heights, to perfect organization of the Rosslyn Precinct Civic League.

Plans for the organization have been completed by a special committee headed by Robert E. Plymale, president of the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association. The committee has prepared a constitution and set of by-laws which will be presented for adoption.

The object of the organization, according to the tentative constitution, will be to coordinate and stimulate interest in and devise ways and means for the promotion of the business, civic and community welfare of the Rosslyn precinct and the general welfare of Arlington County and vicinity. In its activities it will be nonpartisan, nonsectarian, nonsectional and nonpolitical.

In addition to the regular officers there will be a central committee composed of three members each from the following subdivisions: Aurora Heights, Radnor Heights, Park Lane, Rosslyn and Fort Myer Heights. Officers and members of the committee will be elected tomorrow night.

The Kiwanis Club of Arlington County, meeting yesterday at the Windsor Arms, Glebe road, had as guests E. D. Blackistone and Edgar S. Morris, members of the Washington Club.

Thomas E. Sebrell, jr., secretary-treasurer of the Clarendon Trust Co., was elected member of the executive council of the Virginia Bankers Association at its recent thirty-eighth annual convention at Old Point Comfort, Va.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting today at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

What promises to be a unique entertainment will be that of the children's classical dancing revue by the pupils of Miss Betty Hammond in the auditorium of the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

The program will include a group of fancy dances in which more than twenty pupils will take part. Among features will be the Wooden Soldier Dance, by Elizabeth Schutt, Jeanne Hamond, Mary Pickins, Reba Thomas and Mildred Topley; "A Little Girl's Dream," by a cast including more than 25 pupils.

The Men's Club of St. George's Episcopal Church will hold its monthly meting tonight in the Parish Hall at 8 o'clock. All members are requested to attend, as the committee announces that a special program has been prepared.

Rosslyn Business Men's Association met last night in the office of Fred N. Windridge, with B. W. Spiller presiding. Among guests at the meeting were Representative H. W. Smith, of the Eighth Virginia District; Capt. Crandal Mackey, former Commonwealth's attorney; Supervisor Edward Duncan, E. C. Turnburke, William C. Gloth, Commonwealth's attorney; Sheriff Howard Fields and C. L. Kinear, county engineer.

DR. C. L. W. WATERS SUCCUMBS, AGED 52

Prominent Physician Leaves Three Brothers and Five Sisters.

Dr. Charles Lewis Waters, prominent Washington physician, died yesterday at his home, 1508 Rhode Island avenue northwest, after a short illness. He was 52 years of age.

Son of Dr. Charles H. and Eleanor Yates Waters, he was unmarried, a graduate of George Washington University Medical School, class of 1905, member of the Medical Society of the District and the American Medical Association.

He is survived by three brothers, Paul Y. Waters, Baltimore, Md.; Clark Waters, of New York City, and S. Dever Waters, of this city, and five sisters, Mrs. Horace B. Haddox, of Montgomery County, Md.; Mrs. J. Lawn Thompson and Mrs. J. Brent Clarke, of Washington; Mrs. Augustine Lonergan, of Hartford, Conn., and Mrs. Ralph A. Gilchrist, of New York City.

Funeral service will be at the late residence tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, with interment at Monocacy Cemetery, Beallsville, Md.

Dressing Room Invaded, Woman Suing Store Says

Charging that the privacy of a dressing booth had been invaded by a male employe of Gold's, Inc., a women's wear store, while she was trying on a dress, and that the employe had ordered her to leave the store at once, Mrs. Rita Nickel, of Varnum street near Eighth street northwest, yesterday filed a suit against the store for $50,000 damages.

Through Attorney Austin F. Canfield, the charge is made that the action of the store employe in ordering her from the place constituted technical assault. For this she seeks $25,000 and for the invasion of the dressing room she asks the other $25,000.

End of Mayflower Hearing Is at Hand

Leahy's Analysis Contends Receivership Petition Is Indefinite.

Counsel for the Mayflower Hotel Co. continued yesterday their arguments in support of a motion to dismiss receivership proceedings instituted by five bondholders. Counsel for both the Mayflower and the bondholders forecast last night that the hearings would be concluded today.

Justice Oscar R. Luhring, before whom the petition for receivership is pending, indicated yesterday that he was going to go into the case deeply. It was a ruling by him citing the Mayflower to show cause why a receivership should not be granted that precipitated the present motion to dismiss the original bill.

Attorney William E. Leahy took the bill filed by the bondholders and analyzed each paragraph yesterday. He frequently called the attention of the court to alleged indefiniteness of the bill. He also said that nowhere in it did the bill allege that the hotel was being mismanaged.

POPULATION JUMP SEEN IN ALEXANDRIA

Engineer, at Water Hearing, Says City Will Grow 60% in 20 Years.

Richmond, Va., June 17 (A.P.).—An engineering survey, based on records going as far back as 1830, indicates that within the next twenty years the population of the City of Alexandria should increase approximately 60 per cent, Allen J. Saville, engineer, stated today.

Mr. Saville was testifying at the resumed hearing before the State Corporation Commission on application of the Alexandria Water Co. for a 40 per cent increase in rates. He followed Lee H. Williamson, consulting engineer, also of the firm of Saville & Williamson, on the stand. Both were called on behalf of the City of Alexandria, which is opposing the company's application.

During several hours, while he was on the witness stand, Mr. Williamson answered questions about a lengthy appraisal of the water company's properties, which was prepared by his firm for rate-making purposes and filed on behalf of the city.

Population Charts Cited.

Late in the afternoon Mr. Saville was called and said that as a zoning engineer he had supervised preparation of charts showing growth in population of Fairfax and Arlington Counties and of the City of Alexandria during the period since 1830.

Using this as a basis, he said, a forecast was made for the next 20 or 25 years, which indicated an increase in population of the city at the rate of about 3 per cent a year, or 60 per cent in the 20-year period.

He added that conditions of comparative isolation which have held back development of this section in the past were changed by plans already started by the Federal Government for opening up of an important highway and park area in this vicinity.

Water Equipment Urged.

Mr. Saville testified that studies made by his firm had shown during recent years an increase in water consumption in the area served by the Alexandria company of 4 per cent a year. In 1923, and again last year, a shortage of water was threatened, and there seemed little doubt that within 30 or 40 years the present system would be so inadequate as to have to be abandoned.

In making the valuations dealt with in Mr. Williamson's testimony, Mr. Saville said, the fact that the length of life of the water system was rather definitely limited had been taken into consideration in figuring depreciation.

Suicide Is Verdict In Waitress' Death

Mrs. Mildred Namey Took Drug, Jury Finds; Love Failure Charged.

Mrs. Mildred Hall Namey, 38-year-old waitress, who died in George Washington Hospital Sunday, was declared by a District coroner's jury yesterday to have ended her life by taking a large quantity of a sleep-inducing drug. The verdict came after presentation of testimony bearing on the case.

Previous reports that the woman had been despondent because of unrequited affection for a Washington policeman were verified in testimony given by Mrs. Jennie P. Vite, 1011 H street, a friend of the dead woman. Dr. Maurice Protas, of the George Washington University Hospital staff, told the panel that the death of the woman was caused by slow poisoning. She was found in an unconscious condition in her room at the Ambassador Hotel last Saturday.

A verdict of accidental death was returned also by the jury in the death of Floyd Hill, 23, colored, who on Monday afternoon was electrocuted when he stumbled against a trolley third rail while working in an excavation at Nineteenth and F streets northwest.

Land Is Purchased For Park Project

30-Acre Maryland Tract Is Included in Northwest Development.

The Maryland Park and Planning Commission has purchased a tract of 30 acres of land lying between the Bladensburg road and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, just west of Bladensburg, along the Anacostia River.

This tract will be developed as a part of the Northwest branch parkway and will be the point where the park project joins the Anacostia River development. The new purchase adjoins the Moyers tract, recently acquired. The land just purchased lies directly west of the Bladensburg road as it passes through Cottage City and extends nearly to the Peace Cross in Bladensburg.

The sale price was not made public. The plot formerly belonged to Washington Sand & Gravel Co.

Graduated From Dartmouth.

HOSPITAL WILL PASS ON FALL'S CONDITION

No Clemency in Shift, Prison Term Seems to Depend on U. S. Doctors.

(Associated Press.)

Whether Albert B. Fall will serve his prison term apparently hung last night on the verdict of Army physicians on his physical condition.

District Attorney Rover yesterday said the former Cabinet member was expected "immediately" to enter Will-Beaumont Hospital, near El Paso, Tex., for an examination.

If the doctors think he is able to stand the trip to Washington, he will come here for commitment. He is under sentence of a year, in addition to a fine of $100,000.

Hoover Indicates No Pardon.

Fall has not yet asked for executive clemency, but President Hoover's denunciation at Marion, Ohio, of those who "betrayed" Warren G. Harding was taken as a clear indication there would be no pardon.

Fall was Harding's Interior Secretary and was a moving force in leasing naval oil reserves to private companies. One of these leases led to the prison sentence. A jury decided he had accepted a bribe of $100,000 from Edward L. Doheny.

Fall has said he is ready for the physical examination. He maintains his innocence, despite the jury verdict and the fact the Supreme Court termed hims a "faithless public officer."

Wheat Could Suspend Service.

Chief Justice Wheat, in the District of Columbia Supreme Court, could suspend the jail sentence if Fall came before him for commitment. That, however, was regarded as unlikely.

Earl E. Dudding, president of the Prisoners Relief Society, said yesterday an investigator of the society had examined Fall and found him in "as good health as he was a year ago."

Dudding added he had written Attorney General Mitchell asking that Fall beb rought here for commitment to jail.

Hospital Has No Directions.

El Paso, Tex., June 17 (A.P.).—Officials of the William Beaumont General Hospital said today they had not yet received communications from Washington relative to giving Albert B. Fall a physical examination.

They stated, however, that since Fall was a Spanish-American War veteran, he was entitled to treatment in the hospital without regard to the naval oil reserve cases in one of which he was convicted of accepting a bribe.

The Government has asked that the former Secretary of the Interior be examined by the hospital physicians to determine whether he is able to go to Washington to receive sentence of a year in jail.

Fall Awakes at Noon, Reads Papers.

Mr. Fall awoke about noon and sat up for a few minutes to read the newspapers. He said that when formalities were completed he would enter the hospital and doubtless that would be soon.

Members of his family were indignant at a statement in Washington by Earl E. Dudding, president of the Prisoners' Relief Society, that an investigator of the society had visited Fall's home and had reported him able to undertake the trip to Washington.

"We never heard of Dudding or his society," Mrs. Fall said. "None but his friends have seen Mr. Fall in the last year, certainly no representative of a prisoners' society.

"Statements like these confuse Mr. Fall's case in the mind of the public."

ficulty, yet this attitude has caused grave apprehension of a possible attempt on his life, and we feel that every precautionary measure should be taken to insure his safe arrival back in Atlanta.

"If it is possible to arrange for a guard to meet him at the landing and escort him safely to his hotel, he would there be under the protection of a group of prominent Atlantans who plan to welcome him."

Several days' stay in a Paris hospital by Mr. Key, brought hilarious comments here from the mayor's political opponents. The statements opposing prohibition brought comment anything but hilarious. In fact, the city council was divided in a controversy over the ethics of a mayor attacking the laws of his own country while the guest of another government.

It should be explained that at a banquet tendered the American mayors in connection with the French colonial possessions exposition, Mayor Key was quoted in Paris dispatches as advising the group to partake of the liquor "to show the folks back home what a failure prohibition is."

Soon three Atlanta Ministerial Associations adopted resolutions of censure, the superintendent of the Georgia Antisaloon League protested, and Alderman John A. White, a political opponent, introduced a resolution of censure in city council.

At long distance, by remote control as it were, Mayor Key threatened he would wipe White "off the face of the earth." White answered with, "Before he wipes me off the earth I'll make him drink vinegar as a substitute for what he's been drinking over there."

Defendant's Jury Duty Delays Swindling Trial

Chicago, June 17 (A.P.).—Judge Joseph Finnegan has no confidence in John C. Braschler.

In the first place, Braschler failed to show up yesterday.

"What kind of a man is this?" asked Finnegan, "who fails to appear to answer charges of operating a confidence game?"

"Your honor," said the defense attorney, "it is not Mr. Brachler's fault he is not before you. He is sitting, not standing, before Judge Joseph McCarthy." . . .

"And what, may the court ask, is he doing there?"

"He's a juror in a criminal case."

"What kind of a case."

"Operating a confidence game," answered the defense attorney.

"My word!" exclaimed the judge.

JAIL APPEAL LOST BY CAPITAL LAWYER

Norman Bowles' Baltimore Sentence Is Affirmed by Federal Court.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 17.—In an opinion handed down today by the United States circuit court of appeals for the Fourth district, at Asheville, N. C., the decision of Judge William C. Coleman, of Baltimore, in the case of Norman S. Bowles, disbarred Washington lawyer, was affirmed.

Bowles was sentenced by Judge Coleman, last December, to seventy-five days in jail for contempt of court, because Bowles represented a defendant in the United States district court here after the attorney had been disbarred in Washington.

It was Bowles' second appeal. Judge Coleman sentenced him early in 1930, but on an appeal taken on behalf of Bowles by John Philip Hill, the circuit court reversed Judge Coleman and ordered a new trial on the ground that the latter had treated the contempt as a summary one, whereas it had not occurred in the presence of the court, as Judge Coleman did not know the defendant had been disbarred.

Bowles Ordered to Trial.

Judge Coleman then ordered Bowles to appear for trial in December, and after an argument by Mr. Hill, repeated his previous sentence. Bowles was released in $2,000 bail, pending his second appeal.

At the second trial Mr. Hill filed an affidavit of prejudice, charging Judge Coleman with attempting to influence Washington and Maryland lawyers from defending Bowles, and asking that another judge sit in the case. Judge Coleman overruled the affidavit on the ground it had been filed too late.

Simon E. Sobeloff, United States district attorney, and William C. Baxter, at that time assistant United States attorney, argued the case last April before the appeals court.

Ruling of Court.

The opinion today, written by Judge Parker and concurred in by Judge Northcutt and Judge Cochran, said:

"We think all seven questions in contempt charges should be answered against respondent. First, respondent failed to file affidavit in allotted time. Second, there can be no doubt order served on respondent sufficiently charged a contempt of court. Third, a person may not purge himself of contempt by mere denial under oath. Fourth, respondent was appraised of bill of particulars. Fifth, he had no right for jury trial, the contempt charge did not constitute a crime. Sixth, no necessity for taking additional evidence. Seventh, respondent had fair hearing.

"There was no error and judgment appealed from will be affirmed."

Tokyo Earthquake Scares Thousands

Terrified Citizens Rush From Homes; Damage Is Small; 15 Die in India.

Tokyo, June 17 (A.P.).—Terrified by a strong earthquake which shook Tokyo and vicinity tonight, thousands of persons rushed into the streets, but no loss of life was reported and there was little property damage. Some damage occurred on Izu Peninsula, 100 miles from Tokyo, where more than 300 persons were killed last November 26.

Fire, dread companion of earthquakes, destroyed one house when a lamp was thrown to the floor. Telephone and telegraph communication was interrupted briefly.

Peshawar, India, June 17 (A.P.).—Fifteen persons were killed and 80 houses destroyed today by an earthquake in the district of Panjshir, Afghanistan, 60 miles north of Kabul.

Federation's Report On Gas Pressure Filed

The Federation of Citizens Associations yesterday filed with the Public Utilities Commission its report on gas pressures of the Washington Gas Light Co. and the Georgetown Gas Co.

While the report recommends prosecution of the companies for alleged violation of the public utilities act, the commission has indicated it does not contemplate such action. A gas rate hearing, however, will be held probably in the late summer.

Mrs. Lindbergh to Aid Colonel on Orient Flight

New York, June 17 (U.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh announced today he would take the northern great circle route on his flight with Mrs. Lindbergh to the Orient.

He said they would share the piloting, but that he probably would do most of it. Lindbergh would not discuss the possibility of a solo flight from the Orient back to the United States.

Radium Poison Claims Victim.

Newark, N. J., June 17 (A.P.).—Radium poisoning has claimed its twentieth victim from among former employes of the United States Radium Corporation's plant, now closed. Mrs. Irene Frances La Porte, who contracted the disease while painting luminous watch dials, died last night.

VANDERBILT ABANDONS PLAN TO KILL ARNO IN RENO ROW

Vanderbilt became incensed Sunday night and threatened to kill Mr. Arno. He followed Mr. Arno half way to his house, but realized he was pursuing a wrong course and turned back."

Said Mrs. Vanderbilt: "I know nothing about any pistol. As regards any divorce action on the part of either Mr. Vanderbilt or myself or anything referring to Mr. Arno, I have nothing to say."

Arno is in residence here, presumably to obtain a divorce from Lois Long, New York writer. Vanderbilt is at his home here, and Mrs. Vanderbilt is staying with friends.

Platt said Vanderbilt warned Arno to "lay off" before equipping himself with the innocuous pistol that contained no bullets.

The controversy between Vanderbilt and Arno—considered one of the most brilliant caricaturists in the country—was seen as an amusing incident by many because Arno's pictorial barbs always have been launched against the idle rich.

Most of his carteons in the New Yorker have depicted persons of wealth and social position—garbed in top-hat and opera cloak—in ridiculous situations.

Yale Confers Degrees On Wilbur and Gibson

New Haven, Conn., June 17 (A.P.).—Honorary degrees of doctor of law were conferred today at 230th commencement exercises of Yale University on Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, and Hugh Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium.

Ten honorary degrees in all were conferred by President James Rowland Angell, in addition, degrees in course were given to 507 from the graduate schools. Bachelor degrees in arts, philosophy and science were conferred on 681 seniors of Yale College and Sheffield Scientific School yesterday.

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Touch your Adam's Apple with your finger. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords.

When a lawyer makes a statement before a jury he backs it up with sound evidence and facts. Here are the facts:

Certain harsh irritants, present in all raw tobaccos—which are expelled by LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—are sold by us to manufacturers of chemical compounds. In other words, the removal of these irritants in the manufacture of LUCKY STRIKE is not a mere laboratory procedure for the purpose of getting an advertising phrase—it is a definite and vitally important process in rendering LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes less irritating than other cigarettes. Remember—LUCKY STRIKE comes to you after certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos have been expelled through the exclusive "TOASTING" Process. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat. Be careful in your choice of cigarettes.

456 ARE GRADUATED AT CENTRAL SCHOOL

Address to Departing Class Is Made by the Rev. Dr. McCartney.

The largest graduating class in Washington public schools made up of 456 members assembled on the large stage of Central High School last night to receive diplomas from Jere J. Crane, first assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business affairs.

The address to the graduates was made by the Rev. Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, minister of the Church of the Covenant. The invocation was given by the Rev. Walter M. Michael, pastor of the Eldbrooke M. E. Church.

Dr. Harvey A. Smith, principal of the school, announced those receiving scholarships and other awards. The exercises were concluded with the singing of the school song by the graduates and the playing of a march by the school orchestra under the direction of Samuel Wood.

Sounding a warning against false doctrines, Dr. McCartney impressed upon the more than 400 graduates the importance of preserving the golden ideals of life and not allowing them to be contaminated by baser metals.

Life Is Constant Fight.

As an illustration of this, he related the story of King Solomon, who placed golden shields on the walls of Jerusalem, and of his son, Rehoboam, who replaced them with brass shields, resulting in his subjugation.

"Keep your golden shields, your ideals, above the temple of your life," he told the graduates, "and do not allow them to be replaced with metal. Life, you will learn, is a constant fight. You must be constantly on your guard against the onslaught of the enemies of your ideals or the baser metals will take the place of the golden ones without your realizing the transition."

Awards Are Announced.

A list of those receiving scholarships and awards and the graduating class follows:

Wilson Presents Diplomas To 50 Teacher Graduates

Principal Address at College Exercises Is Made by Dr. Edgar C. Higbie; Class President, Ruth Molyneaux, Also Speaks.

Fifty young women, qualified to teach, were graduated from Wilson Teachers College last night. Twenty-one of the graduates have completed the kindergarten primary course, while 29 were trained in the intermediate course. Most of the graduates will probably find places in the local schools.

The diplomas were presented by Dr. H. Barrett Learned, president of the Board of Education. The principal address was made by Dr. Edgar C. Higbie, president of the Teachers College. Another featured address was that of the class president, Ruth King Molyneaux. Music was played by the school orchestra. Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, presided.

The graduates were:

DEAN'S WRIT SUIT CONTINUED MONTH

Wife Is Sent to Sanitarium After Taking Poison, Parents Claim.

Justice Jennings Bailey yesterday continued for one month a habeas corpus petition filed by William Harper Dean, jr., to regain custody of his 19-year-old bride of six months, who, he alleged, was being detained by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Burnett.

The parents testified that their daughter was in a sanitarium at Laurel, Md., where she is being treated for a nervous breakdown. They said she had been sent there on advice of a physician after she had swallowed poison.

Several affidavits from physicians, including Dr. J. A. McKay, resident physician at the Laurel Sanitarium, were submitted. Dr. McKay said that while Mrs. Dean was convalescing, it would be dangerous to interfere with her at this time.

Justice Bailey refused to dismiss the petition, and advised Aubrey St. Clair Wardell, counsel for the husband, to file a similar petition in Maryland. Dean's father is an officer of the United States Chamber of Commerce. His wife is the granddaughter of William D. Love, of the Board of Tax Appeals.

Vacations Started By 76,000 Students

Schools Slated to Reopen September 21 Teachers Leave Tomorrow.

"No more school for three months" was the thought that came to 76,000 Washington children today as they awoke and stretched with relief after the strenuous period of examinations and commencement exercises. The 3,000 teachers will not leave the schools until tomorrow. Schools will reopen September 21. The last of the graduation exercises were held yesterday and last night. Approximately 3,000 students at junior high and high schools and the teachers colleges received diplomas.

Holidays for school officials will not begin until next month. The final meeting of the Board of Education will be held June 24. Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, yesterday called attention to the new rule which prohibits a child from entering a grade school whose sixth birthday falls after November 1, and also makes it illegal for a child whose fifth birthday occurs after this date to enter kindergarten.

Battleship Machinery Bids Received by Navy

(Associated Press.)

The Navy Department yesterday received bids ranging from $1,000,420 to $2,128,266 for the main propelling machinery for the battleships New Mexico, Mississippi and Idaho. Low bidder was not announced.

Bidding companies included the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co.; the De Laval Steam Turbine Co., Trenton; Newport News Shipbuilding Co.; New York Shipbuilding Co.; General Electric Co.; Capstaff-Hunter Turbine Works, Hoboken, N. J.; Northern Pump Co., New York City, and Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. The bids covered all three ships.

Beauty and Dignity Mark Western High Graduation

295 Students Are Given Diplomas at Closing Exercises; Salutatory Presented by Helen Waters; Meta Scantlin Is Valedictorian.

Western High School resembled a scene from the old colonial days yesterday afternoon when 295 boy and girl graduates mingled on the green sloping lawn in front of the building to bid farewell to teachers and receive the congratulations of parents, relatives and friends.

The boys were dressed in white flannel trousers and dark blue coats, the girls in long white dresses.

Exercises in the school auditorium were conducted with impressive beauty and dignity. Appropriate selections were played by the school orchestra. The invocation was given by Commander C. A. Neyman, of the Chaplain Corps, United States Navy. Helen Margaret Waters delivered the salutatory and Meta Dean Scantlin the valedictory. Diplomas were presented by Elmer S. Newton, principal of the school; Norman J. Nelson, the assistant principal, and Miss Mary E. Bass.

Policewomen Held Neglected in Order

Lieut. Van Winkle Says Bureau Should Get Equal Status.

Reiterating previous arguments for establishment of the Women's Bureau of the Police Department on a permanent status, Lieut. Mina C. Van Winkle, director of the bureau, yesterday also expressed disappointment that her bureau did not receive recognition in the promotion and reorganization orders handed down Monday.

Pointing out that there have been no promotions in the Women's Bureau in ten years, Lieut Van Winkle said:

"I think the time has come in the thirteen-year history of our bureau when it should receive equal recognition with other units of the department."

Her job, the Women's Bureau head said, should carry the rank and pay of inspector and the rest of the personnel of the unit should be given rank and pay commensurate with that of members of other police units.

Lieut. Van Winkle has on previous occasions urged Congressional authorization of the Women's Bureau which was established by order of the District Commissioners.

LINCOLN'S SUCCESSOR.

At a time when economic disorder and distress are testing the mettle of the American people, President Hoover stands at the tomb of Abraham Lincoln and draws inspiration from the career of the American who, above all others, met the supreme test. The humblest citizen can find in Lincoln's life abundant encouragement. The most exalted can find inspiration and fresh courage when contemplating the endurance, fortitude and steadfastness of Lincoln.

It is fortunate for the United States that its President during these times of stress emulates the steadfastness of Lincoln. The people find comfort in the assurance that the successor of Lincoln walks in Lincoln's path, keeps his heart refreshed by study of Lincoln's life, and sturdily carries his burdens as he thinks Lincoln would have carried them.

The clouds will pass, as they have always passed. The Union was not made to perish, but to endure forever. In its time of greatest peril its President was atrociously maligned. The coward, the weakling, and the traitor found ample opportunity to criticize Lincoln. They did their best to hamper and destroy the work of his hands and the purpose of his soul. By steadfastness in the right, as God gave him to see the right, he persevered and saved the Union. Critics of President Hoover are numerous. Tens of thousands of them believe that they could conduct the Government better than he is conducting it. They seem to rejoice in the country's difficulties, esteeming them stumbling blocks in Hoover's path, and not realizing that when they strike at him they are striking at their own welfare. There can be but one President at a time. When national trouble comes he is entitled to the support of all citizens while he wrestles with the Nation's problems.

Mr. Hoover's reference to maintenance of law and order as a lesson to be drawn from Lincoln's example is made doubly emphatic when it is borne in mind that the Government has just brought to account a modern gangster who held the laws of Chicago and Illinois in utter contempt. Although this man was branded as a "public enemy," the authorities of Illinois seemed to be paralyzed in dealing with him. He became the idol of the lawless, and it was often said that he was above the law. Yet the United States, by President Hoover's direction, has taken this criminal and is about to send him to prison. Others like him are to be taken. The President did not speak idly when he declared at Lincoln's tomb that "there can be no man in our country who, either by his position or his influence, stands above the law. That the republic can not admit and still live."

Americans everywhere rejoice in the manifestation of Federal vigilance and power in the apprehension and punishment of Al Capone. It is humiliating to the Nation to make such a confession. The City of Chicago, especially, ought to put on sackcloth and ashes, and vow repentance for the cowardice and sloth which enabled a criminal to rob and intimidate the city. The country is grateful for President Hoover's exercise of Federal authority in running down this public enemy. It is an act that Lincoln would have performed, in taking care that the laws should be faithfully executed. It is a sign that Lincoln's successor is "on the job" in Washington.

SCIENTIFIC ROAD PLANNING.

For the last two years a group of experts has been studying highway problems in California. The survey, recently completed, called for 800 miles of new roads, with detailed recommendations as to upkeep. The report was submitted to the Legislature by the governor, and the project was adopted a short time ago.

This measure marks a great advance in State highway building. Where formerly roads were planned with a view toward political expediency in many cases, and frequently without regard to anything but the narrow desires of a circumscribed locality, this project takes into account the needs and interests of the entire State.

A thorough investigation by engineers was made of the traffic conditions of every section. The ability of each locality to maintain its highways was considered, and averages fixed with regard to local use as compared with through traffic. In some parts the local taxpayer had supported too high a proportion of upkeep on roads used by interstate or State-wide traffic. By balancing these costs the commission made every effort to insure justice to all sections of the State, and to evolve the most economical methods of construction and maintenance.

The plan covers a period of at least ten years. By studying the revenues of past years from motor vehicles, average gasoline consumption, &c., the commission was able to forecast the resources and needs of the increasing population. This intelligent planning by experts will save the State millions of dollars, besides doing away with politics in the location and financing the roads.

PORTALS OF WASHINGTON.

A comprehensive traffic survey in the metropolitan district of which Washington is the center is to be carried out by the Bureau of Public Roads and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. After extensive research the need for entrances and exits to the National Capital will be calculated as a basis for future development. The facility with which traffic will move in the metropolitan district in the future may depend largely upon the investigation that is about to be launched.

This survey is made possible through the cooperation of the State highway departments of Maryland and Virginia, Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties in Maryland, Arlington and Fairfax Counties in Virginia and the City of Alexandria. The recent decision of Arlington County to participate makes it possible for the work to proceed with the assurance of $40,000 to defray expenses. Arlington as well as the other counties are to be commended for their cooperation. The people living in counties adjacent to the District are intensely interested in the development of a better highway system, and they will probably reap as much or more benefit from the survey than the Capital itself.

A number of remarkable improvements in the approaches to Washington have been made in resent years. Other approaches, including the new Arlington Bridge, are in the process of construction. Nevertheless, there is an urgent need for a scientific study of the problem. Washington is already one of the great cities of America and its steady growth may be anticipated. Highway links with suburban areas will become far more important in the future. New facilities must be provided to accommodate larger streams of tourist traffic. The location of these new arteries of travel to and from the District is one of the most important phases of city planning.

The participation of all political units interested in this development gives assurance that the needs of each will be amply considered. The survey promises to be a notable example of civic cooperation for mutual development.

UNJUST OIL DEMANDS.

All the arguments of the independent oil producers, who are working for an embargo or a tariff on imports of foreign oil, have been demolished by the uncontrolled production in the new fields of east Texas. The pledge was given that "if the American independent oil producers are afforded protection by limitation, by embargo, or by a tariff, the industry will continue to prorate production to the demands of the domestic market."

The importing companies voluntarily, in some mysterious understanding with the Secretary of the Interior, agreed, or at least severally "decided," to reduce their imports. Then the east Texas production began increasing, until today its output is demoralizing the market. Oil selling in Texas for 10 and 12 cents a barrel can be delivered on the Atlantic Seaboard as cheaply as Venezuelan oil. The result will probably be that the importing companies will feel no obligation to renew their short-time restrictive promises that happened to be made simultaneously following official negotiations.

In the June 13 number of his weekly Senator Capper, of Kansas, over his signature says:

> Protection for oil may mean the saving of millions of dollars' tribute to the Standard, to Mellon and to Dutch Shell. For if no protection is granted the independents will be driven out of business.

Venezuela oil costs approximately $1 a barrel by the time it reaches New York. How can it affect Kansas production today when Texas is selling oil at 10 cents? In the various oil hearings last winter the principal concern of Senator Capper and the Kansas delegates was to save the small stripper wells of the State, numbering about 10,000, with an average daily production of less than one barrel. Their salvation at that time was held to be the embargo on cheap Venezuela oil so that the price secured for Kansas oil could be increased 100 per cent, from $1 to $2 a barrel.

It is evident that increasing the value of the output of these 10,000 Kansas wells $1 a barrel would make a total increase in their income of less than $4,000,000 a year. An increase of $1 a barrel for Kansas oil could only be effected by raising the price of all oil. That would mean an increase of 8 cents a gallon for gasoline. To give 10,000 Kansas well owners less than $4,000,000 the 600,000 Kansas automobile owners would have to pay $24,000,000 more for their gasoline. The increased gasoline cost for the 12,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline used in the United States in a year would be $960,000,000.

It is legitimate for independent oil producers to want to increase their earnings; but a senator should also guard the interests of sixty times as many persons in his State who would have to pay six times over for the oil bonus, even if he does not consider the welfare of the Nation. The plain truth is that little stripper wells of Kansas, or any other State, can not be protected against the big wells of either Venezuela or Texas without working enormous injustice upon the entire country, including the States where the small wells are located.

RATIONAL SPENDING.

The Nation is being urged to buy. Too many people are keeping money back from circulation. By spending now they might hasten the recovery of their own business as well as that of others. This does not mean, however, that persons of moderate means should tax their incomes by foolish extravagances, buying things that they do not need and can not afford.

It is a characteristic of the American people that they are wasteful. Too much is spent in an effort to keep up with the Joneses. This type of buying is not the firm foundation that is needed for building a permanent prosperity. A proposal illustrating this type of spending was made at a recent convention of the National Retail Jewelers Association, when it was urged that more money should be put into luxuries to help the depression. Every man, one jeweler suggested, should wear two watches—a wrist watch for convenience and a pocket watch for accuracy.

It would be impossible for any man to comply with all the suggestions recommended by all of the different trades and industries, and if the people as a whole tried it a more artificial and dangerous situation than our last speculative era would be the result. This is not the time to buy two watches if you have a good one already. Unwarranted extravagance is never wise. But if your watch is not a good one, and you can afford it, by all means buy a new one now. Current low prices offer an excellent opportunity for people with stable incomes to improve their standard of living.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., June 17.—It is a very sound business principle to let the other fellow make a profit. That was the essence of the slogan we heard a few years ago about passing prosperity around. The same thought is involved in paying good wages and fair prices. Cutting prices calls for cutting wages in the end.

This is often the basis of the complaint against large concerns. When they control a large percentage of production they control the prices of the raw and unfinished materials used in that trade. They become almost the sole market for them. Under this condition there is a strong tendency in the name of efficiency and good management to squeeze out the small concern furnishing these materials. But it is not usually good business, as we are all so much a part of a common system of life that the business world is not healthy unless we all have a chance. A profit made by squeezing some one else out of a livelihood will almost surely turn up later as a loss. The great asset in trade is good will. The best producer of good will is the profit which others make.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

RADIO ADVERTISING

From the Chicago Tribune.

Senator Dill, of Washington, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, is back from Europe after an inspection of foreign radio laws and methods of control. He says that private enterprise in the United States has produced results with which no European system can compare. Government control abroad has prevented the development of the industry and has limited public use and enjoyment. Government operation has endeavored to be fair and impartial, the senator said. Except in Russia, there is no political abuse and not much political use of the air, but the American people would find the radio output altogether unsatisfactory. Consequently, Mr. Dill is opposed to Government operation in the United States. Private enterprise has justified itself in the superiority of American radio both technically and in the quality of its programs.

There were, the senator found, certain admirable features in European broadcasting, but they did not compensate for the general retarding of the facilities and for the mediocrity of the matter which used the medium. The comparison revealed what may be expected to distinguish alert private management of utilities from government control. The senator's most serious complaint against American radio was related to advertising. In this respect he said there was an imposition upon the public which already had the attention of Congress and would be acted upon unless the advertisers corrected their own faults.

Government controlled radio abroad is supported by taxation, by a levy on the owners of receiving sets. They pay directly for what they get, but get only what the government will give them. The American users pay for what they get only by listening to advertising, and they have a great variety of programs for their choice. The life of American radio is competition. The programs must win a public following to support themselves. The dial is turned on the moment the listener is bored. The objective of a program is an interested auditor.

Thus the simplest rule of survival is applied. A program relies upon its attractiveness. It will be killed by the mistakes of its authors or it will be made by the approval of the listeners. The public does not pay part of the cost of the producer's mistake. He is dialed out and may observe it in his returns. The very excellence which Senator Dill has observed in American radio has been reached by private enterprise seeking profit. It must be apparent that government, admittedly having failed to compete successfully with this private system, can not interfere with the essential principle and look for a continuance of satisfactory results.

PLEASURE.

I don't know just how to measure
Rightly what is known as pleasure.
Some men find it at the races
And all sorts of merry places.
Some go fishing; some go straying
Where at games mankind is playing.
As for me I'm quite delighted
When a budding plant I've sighted.

Round the garden plot I'm grooming,
Marigold and poppies blooming
With a sense of triumph fill me,
Zinnias have the power to thrill me.
I discover cause for sighing
If I think a tree is dying,
And there's something in an aster
That can make my pulse beat faster.

Some like joys that only bore me,
Charms that plainly are not for me.
In this world of endless choices
Something every man rejoices,
And I care not what my neighbor
Takes to soothe him from his labor.
And all I say is I can chuckle
Over budding honeysuckle.

Nobody Looks at the Price if Somebody Else Is Paying the Check.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

THE income tax is just in principle but unfair and unreasonable in its application.

And the unfairness of it is indirectly responsible for most of the financial woes that now trouble national and State governments.

In spirit and in practice it is a class tax. It excuses the many and taxes the few.

The courts declare it constitutional, since the rich man is granted the same exemptions given the poor one, but that is trickery. It keeps the letter of justice, but violates the spirit.

If you tax citizens one dollar for each year of their age, but exempt the first 40 years, the fact that the exemption applies to all alike doesn't make the tax equitable. It still remains a tax on age.

No tax can be just if it excuses the majority of citizens. How can an exemption be just, though it applies to all alike, if its net result is to relieve the majority of any tax at all?

Exemptions, whether large or small, encourage and reward dishonesty.

If incomes of $5,000 are exempt, 90 per cent of those who earn but a trifle more will make no report. Every business man has acquaintances who evade the present tax by the simple expedient of making no return.

Once your name is on the Treasury's books, efforts to evade the tax are dangerous. But millions who earn taxable incomes escape year after year because they never have made a report and the sum they earn in excess of the exemption is too small to attract the attention of revenue agents.

That is the vicious element in the present system. It invites tax dodging.

And the millions, having dodged successfully, feel little concern when the money taken from the few is spent unwisely.

A certain small town in America has within its limits the rich holdings of a mining company. A small tax, levied equally against all property, brings so much revenue from this one company that town authorities can not find sensible ways to expend it.

The natural result is foolish extravagance, unrebuked by the citizens whose pockets are not affected.

And that is the natural result of an income tax that doesn't affect nine-tenths of those who have incomes.

It is human nature to live high if the company is paying expenses.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Col. House Bobs Up.

Detroit News.

"Defend me from my friends; I can defend myself from my enemies," is an ancient saying which we hope will serve as a providential cue to Governor Roosevelt of New York. The governor's candidacy for the Presidency has just been rather flamboyantly indorsed by Col. Edward M. House, the mysterious international emissary of President Wilson and, as we read House's own words, chief of those who urged that capricious and incalculable executive into taking the fatal step which carried this country into the fire and ruin of the World War.

In the New York Herald-Tribune account of the House pronouncement there occurs this statement:

"Since the campaign of 1916, in which President Wilson was reelected, Col. House has taken no part in national politics, either before or after the national conventions. He has lived in semi-retirement. It was generally assumed that he had retired permanently from politics."

We can only express our profound regret that this assumption regarding the colonel has proved to be a mistaken one, as his reappearance as one of the national fuglemen of the Democratic party can not fail to have a damaging effect upon its prospects. While the Herald-Tribune refers rather fulsomely to the part which he played in the first and second election of Woodrow Wilson, it does not tell the whole story of his activities in the campaign of 1916. We think a brief but incontestably authentic review of some of the most outstanding of these activities will help to confirm our view of the untimeliness of his attempt to resume his old place in the Democratic hierarchy.

The 1932 Elections.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

With the national convention of the Republican and Democratic parties only a year away, the situation with respect to the presidential nominees is fast developing.

Mr. Hoover has no competitor now for the Republican nomination, nor is it likely that he will have one. There is a powerful tradition in both parties that one term deserves another. In the case of Grover Cleveland this tradition persisted with the Democrats to the point of nominating Mr. Cleveland in 1892, after he had been defeated for reelection in 1888. He was displaced at the end of his first term by Gen. Harrison, but the Democrats came back with four years later and succeeded in electing him.

It is in the Democratic party that speculation is active. Col. E. M. House, who is regarded as the Warwick of the Democrats, has come out for Gov. Roosevelt of New York. Senator Dill, of Washington, another Democrat, is also for Gov. Roosevelt. The senator says the Democrats of the Northwest are practically solid for the New York Gocernor, who endeared himself to that section of the country in the New York power fight.

"Authoritative" News.

Topeka Capital.

One of the more or less reliable Washington news syndicates rings the changes of the various angles as to what Curtis will do in 1932, all the way from the story, "on first-hand information," that Hoover begs him to run on the national ticket, to one "from one of the most authoritative possible sources," that the administration desires "a younger man." But at least it comes finally to one sensible conclusion as to Washington: "The more authoritative the news sources the less likely they are to be reliable."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mr. Baldwin, of Tennessee, Will Wait in Vain for the United States to Join the League of Nations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is a cocksureness in the letter of Mr. Samuel Baldwin, of Tennessee, about what will come to pass after March 4, 1933, that is amusing. He wonders what we "will do with another Woodrow Wilson in the White House." Well, there won't be one there for two excellent reasons. One is there is not and never will be "another Woodrow Wilson." He was the last. The other is a historical fact that became apparent when the votes were counted in November of 1920. It was found that "We, the people of the United States," rejected the League of Nations permanently, supporting the action of the Senate, because it would be against the spirit of the Constitution. If Mr. Baldwin will read the preamble of that great document he can see where the sovereignty of the United States rests, and it is unthinkable that it should ever be transferred to any power outside of its boundaries. It is sensibly argued that had the Senate approved the Wilson treaty the Supreme Court would have had to declare that this was a violation of the Constitution on that account.

The Government of the United States is "sitting pretty" without the aid or drawbacks of what might be expected from a membership in the league, and, under the continued protecting Providence of Almighty God, we will proceed along the road blazed by the fathers one hundred and fifty-odd years ago, because we have found the individual opportunity offered surpasses anything ever known to man. Almost any unbiased prophecy will inform your correspondent that whatever his age may now be, it will not be sufficiently extended to permit him a view of the U. S. A. as a State merely in a world-wide Nation.

ARTHUR GIBSON MORSE.

A Rebuke Is Administered to the Psychoanalyst Who Tried to Dissect Lincoln's Personality.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I give myself the great satisfaction of thanking you for your splendid, reasonable editorial in The Sunday Post of June 7? I will not say that you defended a respected and loved man—Lincoln—but rather that you put to shame an egotist and helped to bury the idea that honor, loyalty, truthfulness, compassion, charity, sympathy, patience and all the fine attributes of a great soul are only manifestations of body chemistry, vibrations, schizoidmania and such, which only a marvelous psychoanalyst can comprehend and describe to educate the masses, so that we may be able to regulate our minds, souls and bodies by the "push-button" method. But the Lincoln Memorial will be standing long after this critic has passed on, or "faded out," like a set of harsh vibrations.

Again let me thank you for your editorial, whose tone is well calculated to stamp out vulgar and dangerous theories, which not only defame the dead, but menace the living. No doubt the advocate of such theories will ascribe my gratitude to you to emotional insanity.

A SUBSCRIBER.

Chain Stores Are Represented as a Great Benefit to Farmers and Consumers.

To the Editor of The Post— Sir: If I were a grower of citrus fruit or a producer of any farm products, I would view with great alarm the taxing of chain stores. The prices the farmer receives for his goods are based on supply and demand. The chain food stores take his produce and fruits, deliver them to the consumer speedily and at low prices. Therefore they move into consumption quickly, thus preventing surpluses on the farms and the raising of prices to the farmer.

The consumer and the grower certainly benefit. Then why tax the chain food store for the benefit of retailers and wholesalers? It's time the consumers woke up and made themselves heard. But as usual, the farmer, who has endured so much, will not see his own interests.

Why the chain stores fail to make action, I can not understand. If they simply asked their customers to protest, it would soon be heard.

Voter Says Business Recovery Is Retarded by Fear That Progressives Will Run Amuck.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Again I commend The Post for its editorials showing up the impracticable ideas of Progressive leaders. This time it is the editorial, "Dump It on Russia," in which Mr. Borah is quoted as advocating giving our surplus wheat to China. Mr. Borah probably has not much knowledge about China. Even if there were means to distribute the wheat properly, the Chinese would not use it. Maybe Mr. Borah has the novel idea to paint the wheat so that it will look like rice.

I have contended all the time that as statesmen the Progressives are fine theorists. I am working part time now on account of some fine theories which Borah, Norris, La Follette and other great minds wished to try out in 1929 and 1930. That is the reason why business is so slow in picking up. Business men are waiting to see how Congress will be controlled next session. If by Borah and his pals, things will certainly get worse.

Why Not Raise Revenue From Narcotics as Well as From Beer?

To the Editor of the Post—Sir: If our fiscal emergency is so pressing that the legalization of beer for the purpose of taxation is deemed expedient, why not lift the ban on narcotics with the same end in view?

A tax on legalized narcotics added to that on legalized beer would undoubtedly go far toward restoring the Government's income to a satisfactory figure.

CLERGYMAN RENEWS CITIZENSHIP BATTLE

Macintosh Urges Court to Recognize Religious Objection to War.

(Associated Press.)

Contending the Supreme Court had barred every one with religious scruples against war from citizenship and from public offic as well, Prof. Douglas C. Macintosh yesterday asked that tribunal to reconsider its recent five-to-four decision excluding him from naturalization.

Canadian born, a Baptist clergyman nad professor of theology at Yale, Macintosh, in seeking naturalization, declined to take an unqualified oath that he would bear arms for the United States in any war in which the Nation might become involved.

He said he would have to defer judgment and decide for himself after the outbreak of hostilities whether the cause was just. Then he might or might not take an active part in the prosecution of the war, as his conscience should dictate.

Earlier Refusal Reversed.

The lower court refused to grant him citizenship, but this ruling was reversed by the Circuit Court of Appeals. With Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justices Holmes, Brandeis and Stone dissenting, the Supreme Court held him ineligible for citizenship.

In his petition for reconsideration Macintosh contended the ruling, unless modified, would require that Quakers renounce the most distinctive tenet of their creed to become citizens and exclude conscientious objectors from holding public office.

Pointing out that the nationalization oath was the same as that taken by Federal and State office holders, he said the pledge to "defend the Constitution," which appeared in both must be given the same interpretation.

Would Retain Religious Scruples.

If in naturalization cases it means that aliens must take up arms in time of war, it must, he insisted, require State and Federal officeholders to do so, without regard to religious scruples.

Under the decision, he contended no one opposed to warfare in general or to some future war in particular, could take either the naturalization oath or the oath of office without a mental reservation or a deliberate sacrifice of religious scruples.

The Government had taken the position in naturalization cases, he said, that aliens must make special concessions, regarding religious scruples, never required of native-born citizens.

He urged the court to grant him citizenship on the same basis regarding military service as Congress may in case of war apply to native-born citizens. He insisted he was seeking no favored position but only asking that he be permitted to retain his religious scruples.

Russell Heir Wins Moore Fund Claim

Diplomat's Estate Gives $40,000 to Daughter of Actress.

Pittsburgh, June 17 (A.P.).—The estate of Lillian Russell, actress, is now worth $75,000.

Its value was enhanced $40,000 when attorneys for the Alexander P. Moore estate and for Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit, her daughter by a previous marriage, agreed to transfer that amount from the late ambassador's estate to that of Lillian's.

The agreement, the result of an order by Orphans' Judge Trimble for a new accounting in the estate, will be submitted to him for approval. Judge Trimble's order came as a sequel to the trial of Mrs. Calvit's suit to break Moore's will and obtain one-half of his $600,000 estate. He bequeathed her only $1,000 in his will.

succeeded upon his death by former King Alfonso XIII.

The government tonight was studying a new note from the Vatican, believed to embody a protest over the expulsion of Cardinal Primate Segura from Spain, but no information was forthcoming.

The new note was presented to Foreign Minister Lerroux by Papal Nuncio Federico Tedeschini today, but neither was willing to discuss its contents.

Meanwhile Bishop Eijo, in an interview with President Zamora made a personal protest of the removal of Segura. The act had a "distinctly antireligious tint which undoubtedly will make difficult the work of all prelates like myself who wish to serve the republic loyally in a time when it is everybody's duty to aid in the reorganization of the nation."

In Tortosa today a priest was fined $50 by the governor for allegedly permitting the playing of the former royal march during church services.

General labor strikes developed in the towns of German and Salt, in Catalonia, where martial law was declared to preserve order.

Minister of War Azana today estimated that 7,500 officers have requested voluntary retirement under the government plan for reducing the size of the army. After June 20 surplus army officers will be compelled to retire.

FLAG ENVOYS SAIL ON GOOD-WILL TRIP

Dirigible Hovers Overhead as Eleven Boys and Girls Leave for Paris.

New York, June 17 (A.P.).—While the dirigible Los Angeles flew overhead, eleven young "envoys of friendship" sailed on the liner France today to visit England and France as guests of the United States Flag Association.

The five boys and six girls, ranging in age from 14 to 18, represent various organizations, including the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, Junior Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. They were chosen from contestants in various parts of the country.

Those making the trip are Thomas J. Hayes, 17, Washington, D. C.; John C. McDuffee, 17, Grand Rapids, Mich.; John H. Nixon, 16, Rochester, N. Y.; Ward Stone, 18, Portland, Oreg.; Charles Holbrook, 14, College Park, Md.; Florence Burrows, 14, New York City; Helen Dettweiler, 16, Washington, D. C.; Catherine Dubois, 16, Washington, D. C.; Ruth Eldridge, 18, an Antonio, Tex.; onya Schulberg, 14, Los Angeles, and Dorothy Skrim, 17, Washington, D. C.

authority which comes from us alone."

He said he had given numerous warnings to the Catholic Action Organization. "At the head of the movement," he said, "were found the failures and malcontents of the Popolari party. They have it in for us. Perhaps that's natural. Their attitude made itself felt in the Catholic action. The Vatican has been warned against the danger that policy holds for it—a reawakening of anticlerical opinion which it well knows exists. Nothing was done."

Asked whether in Italy one had to be a Fascist or leave the country, the Duce was quoted as saying:

"Well, not exactly. We do not admit attacks upon the regime or even a discussion of it, but those who do not agree with us, but remain passive, are left entirely alone. As to our adversaries, do you think they are so numerous? We Fascists number several million. In the regime's private meetings, we discuss ardently, but at a certain moment I say: 'The case has been heard,' and the discussion ceases. I then decide and everybody obeys. An oath of obedience is sworn on entering the Fascist party."

Mussolini was reported as being doubtful that such a regime would work in France.

Four National Groups Planning Sessions Here

Four more organizations have decided to hold conventions in Washington within the next year, it was announced yesterday by Augustus Gumpert, director of the Washington Convention Bureau.

They are: National Association of Teachers of Marketing and Advertising, December 28-30; American Association for Labor Legislation, December 28-30; American Educational Research Association, February 20-23, 1932, and the National Association of Certified Public Accountants, June 14-15, 1932.

MAY TRADE BALANCE TOTALS $23,000,000

(Associated Press.)

America's foreign trade balance during May was $23,000,000.

Commerce Department reports yesterday placed exports during the month at $205,000,000 as against $320,034,000 in May, 1930, and imports at $182,000,000 against $284,683,000.

For the five months ending May 31 exports totaled $1,129,767,000 against $1,781,016,000 and imports $936,028,000 against $1,485,642,000.

The May exports were the smallest since October, 1914, when they totaled $194,700,000.

Exports of gold during May totaled $628,000 compared with $82,000 in May, 1930. Imports of gold were $50,258,000 against $28,552,000.

Exports of silver were $2,099,000 against $4,978,000 and imports $2,836,000 against $3,486,000.

During the five months ending May 31, exports of gold were $749,000 and imports $176,054,000.

Exports of silver during the five months were $12,881,000 and imports $11,669,000.

Although exports during May showed a marked decline as compared with those of May a year ago, cotton showed an increase of 126,000 bales. Cotton exports were 336,000 bales, as compared with 209,000 in May, 1930. The value, however, of last month's shipments—$18,745,000—was approximately the same as a year ago.

Influx of Tourists To Capital Grows

Ward H. Marsh Tells Rotary Club of Campaign Results.

Washington is obtaining an increasing proportion of the $4,000,000,000 spent annually by tourists in this country, Ward H. Marsh, director of the greater National Capital committee, yesterday told the Rotary Club at its luncheon at the Willard Hotel.

Mr. Marsh outlined the committee's efforts in building up a staff of four members who devote their time exclusively to attracting tourists to Washington. He said the committee has secured more than 1,000,000 words of publicity about Washington since it was organized.

Mr. Marsh was introduced by Robert J. Cottrell, executive secretary of the Board of Trade. Secretary A. F. E. Horn announced plans for the Rotary Club golf tournament and the ladies' night to be held next week at the Army and Navy Club. President Henry N. Brawner, jr., presided.

on them until the tax machinery was revamped.

"We must have relief from some one," Cermak said. "Who that is I don't know. I do know I must stop talking and act. When we get the city out of this terrible dilemma, if we ever do, it must not be indebted for salaries. We are trying to get around the civil service law. Those employes realize the straits we are in, however. They may go to court. Maybe we'll have to pay them for Saturdays off and maybe we won't."

The mayor pins his faith on a special session of the Legislature which he hopes Gov. Louis L. Emmerson will call later in the summer. The dozen bills which died in the Legislature last night will be incorporated in a program now being prepared. They include abolition of the 30-odd elective boards of tax assessment and review and creation of an appointive board of three members for the entire Cook County.

City officials have notified the school board it must pay nearly $500,000 interest on bonds within two weeks. That body gave no indication of how it would be paid.

Syndicalism Ruling Awaited.

Columbus, Ohio, June 17 (A.P.).—The State Supreme Court today accepted the appeal of the State from the decision of Judge Walter Wanamaker, of Akron, holding the Ohio criminal syndicalism law unconstitutional, in the case involving Paul F. Kassay in an alleged sabotage plot against the Navy's new dirigible "Akron" now nearing completion.

Stimsons Give Lawn Party To Personnel

Woodley Grounds Are Thronged at Brilliant Farewell.

HAVING already contributed a flattering percentage of the festive affairs of early summer the Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson received again at Woodley yesterday afternoon, their guests of honor being the personnel of the Department of State. It was a graceful gesture toward the group of coworkers in the Nation's top department, serving also as a summer farewell before the departure of the Secretary and Mrs. Stimson for Europe where they will be for several months.

Slanting shadows against the background of fine trees and the wide sweep of lawn brought into high relief the natural beauties of the old estate, the hosts receiving in the closing hours of a glorious afternoon. The Secretary and Mrs. Stimson, who have received on the lawns several times this season, have been peculiarly fortunate in the selection of dates which brought hours of sunshine in the late afternoon.

From the house to the sloping mound where Mr. and Mrs. Stimson awaited their guests the hundreds of visitors passed slowly in groups, Mr. Charles Cooke making the presentations. And for several hours about the marquees or the scattered garden tables delighted guests lingered to discuss summer plans, welcome a few newcomers or bid godspeed to others setting out within a week or two for the season's holidays.

Particularly noticeable was the large number of young people there yesterday, as the Secretary and Mrs. Stimson had asked the staff members to bring their families and everywhere were lovely young girls in "frou-frou" gowns of crisp organdie, eyelet batiste or gay printed chiffons, the majority wearing large summer hats of lace or straw.

Mrs. Stimson was handsome in a gown of chiffon of green and slate tones on a background of white. She wore a hat of straw with flat flowers of green and rose. Moving about among the groups was Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, very smart in printed chiffon of blue and green, who, with Mr. Carr, Assistant Secretary of State, seemed to find numerous friends among the scattered groups.

Mr. William R. Castle, jr., also attended the fete and others noted were Mr. Stanley Hornbeck, chief of the division of Far Eastern affairs; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Southgate, Mrs. Ruth B. Shipley, head of the passport division, wearing pink chiffon with a short sports jacket of velvet; Mr. Robert P. Kelly head of the Eastern European affairs; Capt. Eugene Regnier, Mr. Herbert Hengstler, chief of the foreign service administration, there with his mother.

Welcomed on all sides were Mr. Walter Schoellkopf, former second secretary of the American Embassy at Madrid, who with Mrs. Schoellkopf, just arrived in town to make their home while the former is detailed for duty at the Department of State.

Miss Margaret Hanna, of the division of coordinatoion and review; Mr. Keith Merrill, Mr. Michael J. McDermott, of the division of current information; Mr. W. Ford Cramer, disbursing officer; Miss Ethel L. Lawrence and many others were noted chatting on the shaded knolls that sweep from the fine mansion.

Beneath one of the magnificent trees was stationed the Marine Band, which played during the tea hours, from 5 until 7 o'clock.

Dr. Fabio Lozeno, who succeeded Dr. Enrique Olaya Herrera as Minister of Colombia at Washington, was the guest of honor of members of the Pan-American Society in New York on Tuesday, at a luncheon presided over by Mr. John L. Merrill, president of the society.

Other guests were Senor Juan Lozano, son of the minister; Don Luis Abelli, formerly minister of finance in the Bolivian cabinet; Mr. Edword F. Feely, United States Minister to Bolivia; Dr. Eduardo Santos, editor of one of Bogota's leading newspapers, El Tiempo; Mr. Grosvenor S. Jones, chief of the division of finance and investment of the Department of Commerce; Senors Don Guillermo and Fernando Ortiz Rubio, sons of the President of Mexico; Mr. George Gordon Battle, president of the Southern Society of New York, and Senor Don G. Riesco, former minister of state of the Chilean Government.

One hundred and fifty members of the society were present.

Maj. and Mrs. William C. Rose, of Washington, who have been traveling in Italy for the past month, have returned to Paris to spend some time before sailing for the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Clements, of Gloucester, Va., are staying at the Potomac Park apartments.

Misses Howry Pleased With London Visit

Have Taken Part in All Leading Social Functions.

Colorful pen pictures of the gayety of a London season reached Washington yesterday from Miss Elizabeth Howry, who with her sister, Miss Mary Howry, has taken an apartment in the British capital, where she went in May to be presented at the Court of St. James and to join the festivities of the season.

With the Ascot races the great event of the week, Miss Howry and her sister are very busy, both having been invited by the Lord Chamberlain for the King and Queen to witness the races from within the royal enclosure. A few days ago the two Washington women were invited to Buckingham Palace to see the King receive the guards' salute. On the balcony was the Queen with various members of the royal family as well as King Alfonso. The ceremony was followed by a band concert which offered opportunity to catch a more intimate picture of the royal personages as all mingled with the numerous groups in informal conversation.

Miss Howry and her sister have been widely entertained, Lord Fairfax, the Duchess of Rutland, Lord Decies, Lord Manners, Mrs. James Corrigan and others having been their hosts. They have met informally John Drinkwater, Yeats and other writers of renown and were the guests at a "Bohemian" party given by Dollin, the ballet dancer, where the "crowd" which was, for the great part, of the nobility, lionized Hutchinson, the Negro jazz player. Miss Howry entertained one night for Ted Shawn, who had created a distinct "following" after an especially fine private recital he had given.

Ireland will be the objective of the Howry girls later in the summer when they expect to visit friends on the Emerald Isle and will be entertained in Dublin by members of the Abbey Theater Guild. They will return to Washington in the fall.

Mexican Ambassador Coming to Washington.

The Ambassador of Mexico and Senora de Tellez and their children will arrive in New York Sunday from Mexico City, where they have spent about six weeks. They will come to Washington early next week.

The Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, entertained at dinner Tuesday night, when his guests were the French Ambassador, M. Paul Claudel; Mr. and Mrs. Pierrre Boal; the Counselor of the Embassy, Count Alberto Marchetti di Muriaglio; the Secretary of the Embassy, Signora Adriano Monaco, and the Assistant Naval Attache and Countess di Gropello.

The Ambassador has recently returned from Boston, where he received an honorary degree at the commencement exercises of Boston University.

Meads to See Yale-Harvard Crew Races

Leave Washington Today for Blue-Crimson Regatta.

Mr. and Mrs. James J. Mead and their daughter, Miss Martha Montague Mead, will leave Washington today and will go to New London, Conn., where they will attend the Harvard-Yale boat races with the party of Mrs. John W. Hallowell, of Boston, whose son, Mr. John W. Hollowell, is captain of the Harvard crew.

On July 4, Mr. John Hallowell and his brother, Mr. Roger Hallowell, will sail on the International Cup race from Newport to Cowes, England.

The marriage of Miss Mead to Mr. William Ladd Hallowell, another son of Mrs. Hallowell, will take place on June 30 at Hyannisport, Mass., in the country home of Miss Mead's parents.

Mr. Hallowell is the son of the late Mr. John W. Hallowell, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, in the second Wilson Cabinet, and before that was assistant to Mr. Hoover in the Federal Food Administration.

Capital Folk Now En Route For Europe

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mme. Filipowicz on Ocean.

The Polish Ambassador, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz, accompanied Mme. Filipowicz to New York, whence she sailed yesterday on the France for Europe. Following her departure the ambassador left for Montreal, where he will spend several days and will then sail for England and France and will join Mme. Filipowicz at their home in Poland early in July.

Sailing yesterday on the Leviathan for Europe were Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and her niece, Mrs. John Edward Moeling, bound for Warsaw, where on July 4 Mrs. Wilson will attend the unveiling of a monument to President Wilson at Poznan; Representative John N. McDuffie, of Alabama; Commander F. G. Reinicke, U. S. N., who is accompanying the Navy rowing team to Copenhagen, where its members will join the midshipmen in their regular summer training

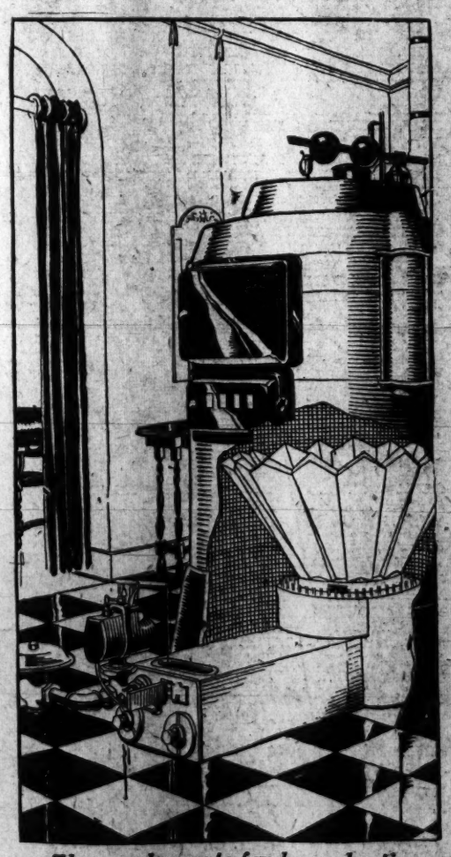
Price Reduced on JANITROL

$185 will now give you Automatic Gas Heat in your present heating plant



The new low rate for house heating (working out around 75 cents) has put Automatic Gas Heat within the reach of the average man.

AT THE beginning of the heating season last fall, hundreds of Washingtonians converted their furnaces to Automatic Gas Heat with the Janitrol Gas Conversion Burner. The demand for Gas Heat was so strong that it taxed our installation facilities to accommodate those who were anxious to start the heating season by this clean and efficient method.

This year—since there are more than 700 users of Janitrol entirely convinced of its dependability—there will undoubtedly be many more installing Janitrol. There will be a last-minute rush.

That is why we have reduced the price of Janitrol from $200 to $185, providing you purchase NOW for immediate installation—to save you the worry of possible delay in the fall and to complete part of the job of installation expected before the next heating season. This offer—limited to the first 200 Janitrols sold—is especially attractive because of our summer purchase plan. Twenty dollars down and NOT ANOTHER CENT 'TIL NEXT SEPTEMBER will put Janitrol in your present heating plant. There is no extra charge for financing.

Telephone NAtional 8280 for a reliable estimate of the cost of heating your home with gas—or see your heating contractor. Janitrol can be installed in a single day—the day you pick to clean up your cellar. It will then be ready for the heating season next fall—free from dirt now and for evermore.

ONE item of interest to listeners gleaned from the testimony given by the N. B. C. during the R. C. A. hearing before the Federal Radio Commission earlier in the week is that the N. B. C. expects to broadcast performances direct from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera in New York City next season.

Portions of operas have been given from the stage of the Chicago Civic Opera during the past several seasons, but the Metropolitan has frowned upon every attempt to place microphones in the wings when it stages a performance.

Most of the stars engaged by the Metropolitan do broadcast from time to time, usually appearing singly as guest artists, with two or more of these stars singing in one hour—a rare occurrence—usually only at benefit or special performances. Therefore, if the N. B. C. is successful, listeners may expect several hours of fine entertainment from this source this fall and winter.

The statement made by M. H. Aylesworth last week that practical television may be expected during the coming year was repeated by him in his testimony before the Radio Commission.

MARION TALLEY and Geraldine Farrar will return to the public eye during a new series of programs, the first of which will be heard on Monday, June 29. Farrar's appearance on that date will mark her radio debut. Miss Talley will sing on the evening of July 13.

Other artists scheduled to appear in the Packard Parade are Anna Case, Cyrena Van Gordon and John McCormack.

With the acquisition of four Florida stations on a permanent basis, the Columbia network has 83 stations, making it the world's largest network, now extending from Bangor, Me., to San Diego, Calif., and from Miami, Fla., to Seattle, Wash.

A thyratron tube has been developed by the General Electric Co., which will convert an alternating current into a direct current set. It is about 10 inches square and fits into a radio cabinet.

Musical notes so high that only the youthful members of the radio audience can hear them, while they fall on deaf ears so far as older listeners are concerned, will be demonstrated over Station WOR, Newark, tonight, at 9 p. m., in a talk on "Inaudible Music," by Orestes Caldwell, former Federal Radio Commissioner.

THE crew classic of the collegiate year, the Harvard-Yale boat race, will be broadcast locally over WMAL, beginning tomorrow afternoon, with Ted Husing at the mike.

The Radio Corporation is to go in for the manufacture of a complete line of electrical toys.

Although Arthur Pryor is recognized as one of the world's most talented trombonists, he never has played that instrument over the radio. And although he possesses a splendid speaking voice, the bandmaster never has talked into a microphone.

He will make his radio debut in both capacities during the Bob Taplinger's period, "Meet the Artist" over WMAL this afternoon.

Excerpts from two of his musical show successes, "New Moon" and "The Desert Song," will be sung by Robert Halliday, barytone, tonight (WJZ, 8:30 o'clock).

Marie Samson, soprano, former star of the Royal Opera in Budapest, will be the guest artist of the Melody Moments (WRC, 8:30 p. m.).

CHICAGO'S famous stock yards will be glorified, when carefully-groomed prize stock parade for the first time in history up Chicago's fashionable Michigan boulevard. The celebration will be broadcast during the National Farm and Home Hour today.

The last March of Time broadcast until fall will be given tomorrow night (WMAL, 9:30 o'clock).

Tonight's program by the Washington Gas Light Ensemble features Arthur Godfrey, singing announcer, in a vocal refrain of "By the River St. Marie." Selections from Sullivan's "H. M. S. Pinafore" will be played by Rudolph Schramm's Orchestra.

TELEVISION, as an idea, is not new. It dates back to 1884, when one German experimenter, Paul Nipknow, described in his patent how images might be broken down, translated into electrical terms, flashed over a suitable medium, translated back into light terms and reassembled into a replica of the original. His method of analyzing the image strip by strip and translating the varying lights and shadows into electrical terms, with the reverse process at the receiving end, is the familiar scanning system of present-day television.

Nipknow's fond dream of a practical application of his idea has been realized because of the advent of the necessary tools with which to perform the delicate work. Modern photoelectric cells make possible the accurate and rapid translation of light values into corresponding electrical terms. The vacuum tube amplifier permits of amplifying the electrical terms to any required degree at both transmitting and receiving ends. The neon lamp is capable of translating delicate electrical variations into corresponding light terms, which, arranged in proper order by a scanning system, serve to weave a replica of the transmitted image.

The degree of perfection attained by present television systems rests mainly on refinements and improvements, since the basic principle remains the same.

Jane Interprets the Mode

New York, June 17.

WELL, well—color isn't a pleasure any more, it's a science! Not that the proper color isn't a pleasure, to the beholder and the one beheld, if you see what I mean, but you just can't say you like the color and get away with it these days. You have got to realize that your choice is a matter of science—that to reach your choice you have done a terrific amount of consideration, rejection and selection, subconsciously, but none the less scientifically!

I'm not foolin'—not the least bit! This fact has been worked out by a group of prosperous, astute gentlemen who have never seen you, yet who desire, above all things, to find favor in your eyes. What they are chiefly interested in is your reaction to certain colors—because for years and years they have been indifferent to your reactions, and have paid for it! They have paid for it in cold, hard cash—if you don't react favorably to material of a certain color, you aren't going to buy it, and it will join the great graveyard of other unsold bolts of material.

If a manufacturer wraps cold cream or soup or ginger ale in a combination of red and green, they say, neither you nor any one else will buy it! "Change the ugly chewing gum wrapper for an attractive one," says the head of this new scentific venture, "and that gum will find its way into the public's mouth." (But don't any of you lovely ladies let me catch you at it, sez I!).

But, after all, if we put on a certain frock and find that no one likes it, why not change to one which, according to this science, will knock 'em dead? Lovely ladies will owe these scientists a lot when all human reactions to color are known and charted!

• • • •

Bigger and better summer chic than ever before! For this time it is white wool lace over a black satin slip, from Lenief, and the effect is just too marvelous! The frock is not only smart in its choice of material, but in the way it's made—don't you love the unusual scalloped front incrustations and the split cape that is incrusted as a back shoulder yoke? And the skirt is given fullness in the back as well as in front by inset circular skirt godets!

• • • •

Wool lace, besides being awfully attractive, my dears, packs away in little space, and comes out wrinkleless! And there's another thought for summer vacations, n'est-ce-pas?

• • • •

Even if you think you couldn't make a hat if you were to die for it, you should send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet. Because—when you see how easy it is to make the smart and clever summer hat I tell about, you'll want dozens of them. And you will find out that because the brims and crowns snap together, there is practically no end to the changes of hats you can create from this one basic pattern—and each one is more alluring than the last?

You're thinking of your traveling costume, aren't you? They form the theme of the weekly Dare fashion letter in next Sunday's Washington Post.

Capital Scotch to Hold Annual Fete Saturday

Scotch societies of the District will hold their annual outing at the country home of Dr. E. S. Hendry in Arlington County Saturday afternoon.

A program of Scotch games has been arranged and a special feature will be competitive dancing of the Highland fling and the sword dance, in Highland costumes, for gold medals. Societies taking part are the Saint Andrews Society, Clan MacLennan and Daughters of Scotia.

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

An Indispensable Yardstick.
IV.

LOW cards even when established can not pass, without being ruffed, the barrier of enemy's trump. They are tricks only under protection of own trump fortress or, if reentries are available, at no-trumps. Even honor combinations such as A K Q J lose half of their value when measured up against opponents' trump bids, for the third round is quite apt to be ruffed.

Often it is luck enough if the Ace and King can squeeze through and even Aces are ruffed. Now, a trump bid is far more common than a no-trump, and of all the bids the penalty double is the most important. But unless a player can definitely count on a minimum defensive or taking tricks in partner's hand so as to add that minimum to his own taking honor-tricks, a penalty double becomes a wild and often disastrous guess.

One Fundamental.

He could not know even approximately whether opponent overbid or underbid or whether partner has a sure reentry in other but his own bids. For this reason a fundamental convention in Bridge requires that all first, or original, bids and responses do show a certain minimum of defensive honor-tricks. They are also superficially known as "sure" tricks; it matters little how quick they are so long as they get there. The minimum of defensive honor-tricks varies according to the bidding situation—an opening bid of one or higher, a jump or regulation (non-jump) response, &c.

With a hand like

♠ Q J 10 9 8 7 5
♥ A 6 4 3

ARTICLE IV

the player should pass originally even though he can certainly make one or more Spades.

His honor strength is below the minimum quota of 2½ honor-tricks minimum require for opening one bids. Besides, he will almost certainly have another opportunity to bid.

Measuring Bids.

To measure these defensive bids various yardsticks have been proposed. The Culbertson table of Honor-Tricks is at present the accepted standard, not only because it is the yardstick for measuring all the bidding values in the Culbertson System (and consequently the only reliable one) but is used with many other systems.

(Clip this table and refer to it in future articles.)

CULBERTSON HONOR TRICK TABLE.
(Defensive Basis.)

"x" means any low card. Q x or J x or K unguarded are "plus" values. In bidding two such "plus" values are valued as ½ trick; two half tricks are worth one full trick.

½ TRICK.	1 TRICK.
K x or Q J x Q x and J x of different suits.	A K Q or K J x K x and Q x of different suits.
1½ TRICKS.	2 TRICKS.
A J 10 A Q x K Q 10	A K Not more than two tricks in the same suit can be expected to win against opponents' trump bid.

Additional information disclosed during the bidding as to the more exact location of missing higher honors or distribution (length) of the suit modifies the estimate of honors in the table.

Revaluation.

King Queen and Queen Knave values in the same or different suits must be especially noted. Queens and Knaves cover the range of intermediate values which, although not so obvious as higher honors, are nevertheless important defensively.

The French, who love to inject the element of romance into anything they undertake, call the K Q combination le grand mariage and the Q J le petit mariage. Le grand mariage is worth a trick and le petit mariage but half a trick and it does not matter whether they are united or not.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of The Washington Post, ENCLOSING A 2-CENT STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

I RIPENED all my spring flowering bulbs according to the directions you gave a few months ago in your daily garden column. I also have planted my Easter lilies in the open ground, and, to my delight, they have really done what you said they would and have sprouted. Now I am wondering what to do with them in the fall. Are they hardy like my other bulbs? LOUISE H. A.

No, Easter lilies are not reliably hardy. Better lift them just before frost, store them with your gladiolus bulbs and replant them the latter part of May or when you are sure the ground is warm.

I have a large Virginia creeper which I want to transplant due to moving. Can I do this when the plant is in full leaf? The plant is 20 years old. My husband suggests that I leave the vine where it is and plant a new vine in our new home. Is this wiser than attempting to move the old vine?

ALICE W. O.

Yes. I doubt if you could successfully move so old a vine, especially in June, when the plant is in full growth.

Please tell me where to plant a cardinal climber.

MRS. JEROME T. Y.

This is an annual climber, so it requires a good soil and a warm, sunny situation.

When cutting my narcissus I cut foliage as well as flowers. I am a new gardener and did not know that this was the wrong thing to do. Now I am wondering if I utterly ruined my bulbs. They were beautiful this year.

ELSIE T. B.

In cutting narcissus it is always best to leave the foliage. Unless this is allowed to wither down naturally the strength and flowering ability of the bulbs will be impaired. I should suggest feeding these bulbs bonemeal this year.

Please tell me what to use to spray hollyhocks for a fungus disease. Each year I lose a large number of my hollyhocks; they may not entirely die, but they certainly are unsightly.

A REGULAR READER.

Hollyhocks which are grown for a number of years in the same place are apt to be covered with rust. This disease never amounts to much among young plants. A mixture of lime and sulphur blown under the leaves with a blower gun usually controls the trouble. Bordeaux mixture is also effective. Badly infested plants should be dug up and burned.

Please tell me whether bleeding hearts are propagated from seed or by dividing the roots. EMILY L.

They are propagated from seeds, division of the roots or from young shoots which start from the soil in the early spring.

I have an Easter azalea still in the pot. The florist told me it was a hardy variety. When can it be planted in the open ground?

MRS. JAMES K. W.

Plant azalea at once. Choose a sunny, well-drained place.

Please tell me when to prune a forsythia and a pyrus japonica.

HARRY McC.

Prune both bushes at this time. They should be pruned immediately after they have finished blooming.

Please suggest flowers which might be carried by bridesmaids wearing turquoise-blue organdy dresses. Maid of honor will wear pink organdy and carry blue hydrangeas.

A PERPLEXED BRIDE-TO-BE.

Pink hydrangeas would make lovely bouquets. They could be arranged with blue lace or tulle ruffles. The maid of honor's bouquet would also have to be ruffled with pink lace or tulle. The hydranges ruffled bouquets are very smart and really effective.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"GEMINI."

IF June 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:10 a. m. to 11:15 a. m., from 3:15 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10:10 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 2:50 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:15 p. m.

The tendencies from June 18, from an astrological standpoint, are surprises and unforeseen mishaps, which will affect those following unconventional pursuits much less than those who are engaged in steady routine. After sundown conditions improve and become settled.

Children born on this June 18 will, in early years, suffer from many ailments. They will, however, never become impatient or fretful. They will always be gentle and develop, as time rolls on, great powers—mental and physical—of resistance. Eventful lives are in store for them.

If born on June 18 you are solid, plodding and patient, except when roused by anger or injustice. Unyielding in determination, you are often considered obstinate by those who can not distinguish between force of character and strength of principle and foolish stubbornness. When love enters your life you will then become easily influenced, only, however, by the one who has engaged your affection.

Your spirit is an independent one. You resent control or direction when served out in the shape of an order. You are the first, however, to bow to friendly suggestion. You possess great tenacity of purpose, and, though naturally slow in your methods, always reach the goal that you have visualized, in spite of every obstacle or difficulty. In order to keep happy, you must be continuously employed, as without work you are apt to become morose and despondent.

You make several enemies by your frankness of speech, and your intense dislike of anything underhand, or that savors of subterfuge. You are in no sense of the term a diplomat. On the other hand, you make innumerable friends by your sincerity, loyalty and trustworthiness. In the home circle you are destined to enjoy great felicity, as you are understanding, constant and solicitous for the welfare of those near and dear to you.

Successful people born June 18:

John Collins, patriot and politician.

McDonald Clarke, "The Mad Poet."

Frances S. Osgood, poet and author.

James Montgomery Flagg, artist.

Edward Willis Scripps, newspaper publisher.

William H. Seward, soldier and banker.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, PH. D.

THE family name "Nugent" (also spelled "Nogent") is found in England and especially in Ireland. It denotes a former residence in one of the several places called "Nogent" in France. This placename is sometimes explained as being derived from the French "nouegente" meaning "the fair wet meadow," but its real source is probably the Gallic-Latin "Novigentum" (a variation of "Novientum") which may be translated "the new place" or "the new settlement." Some families which bear this name are able to trace their ancestry back to a Nugent who went to England with William the Conqueror. Some members of that early family went to Ireland where their descendants came to be considered one of the most illustrious of all the Norman families in that country.

The family name "Bartholmes" (also spelled "Barthelmess," "Bardelmes," etc.) is of German origin, its source being the personal name "Bartholomaeus." "Bartholomaeus" (English "Bartholomew") is of Hebrew origin, and means "the son of Talmai." "Talmai" means "furrowed."

The family names "Leech," "Leach" and "Leachman" can be traced back to two quite different sources. These are English names which, in most cases, were given to "leeches" or physicians. The names Edmund le Leche and William le Leche which occur in an English document of the year 1273 show us the spelling of the original form of this name when it means "physician." A document of the year 1307 shows us the name of Henry del Lach, which means Henry of the Lake, or Henry of the Water, indicating the place of residence. A comparison of later documents makes it clear that the names "Leech" and "Lach" became confused, the latter being in most cases absorbed by the former, so that the name "Lach," which was originally very common, is now relatively rare.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

He Likes to Analyze!

DEAR Frances McDonald: I am a young man, full of modern and, perhaps, foolish, ideas. Where most young people of today are satified with their enjoyment of the emotional elements of life, I like to study the subject from a psychological standpoint, and delve into the problems confronting the young men and women today, trying to pick out the fine points and analyzing them, thus becoming acquainted with the emotional reactions.

Recently I became involved in a friendly argument with a young lady, a college student. I made a statement around which a discussion started between us. It was this:

"It is my belief that the young man of today would be playing safer, both for himself and for the girl whom he would marry if, when at the point of choosing amongst his girl friends, the girl he would prefer to marry that he would put aside his emotional reactions and make his choice purely from a practical angle—that is, will she be what he wants his wife to be, a good housekeeper and cook, a fine companion to be respected and in which to be confided and be willing to start with him at the bottom of the ladder, and climb with him to that distant star of success."

The young lady remarked that it was, indeed, unfair to the girl to marry this sort of man, for if she accepted him it would be because she loved him, and onesided love of this sort would be only an unhappy and unsuccessful venture.

Now, which of these two theories is the one that would stand the test?

PRACTICAL.

Well, for a young man who likes to go about with a microscope in one hand and a pair of trusty scales in the other, I think your idea would be just great. And if he would pick a bespectacled young woman who got a thrill out of a microscope and believed in scales all would be fine.

But for everyday run of mankind this method of weighing love in the balance leaves much to be desired. For you see old Dame Nature has a way of sneaking up on the most wary—even young owls with microscopes and big ideas. And what a rumpus that old dame can make with even the wisest of them.

Dollars to doughnuts, son, that you pick a bit of sweetness with a dimple in her chin and that you pick her without aid of a microscope. But your idea is great—as an idea.

STAGNANT INDUSTRY BLAMED FOR SLUMP

Advertisers Told That People Find Standard Goods Are Monotonous.

New York, June 17 (A.P.).—C. F. Kettering, vice president of General Motors Corporation, today told American advertising men in convention he believes that business will come back when products are produced that people want to buy.

He diagnosed the ills of the country as "industrial stagnation" and added, "that is all that is wrong with us."

Mr. Kettering was one of several prominent figures in the business world from whom the Advertising Federation of America heard today in the third general session of its annual convention, which closes tomorrow with election of members of the board of directors.

Blames Standardization.

A famous engineer, but self-styled "monkey-wrench mechanic," Mr. Kettering said the country is suffering today from the thing called standardization.

"When we continue to produce the same things, the same models indefinitely, the product becomes monotonous and the people don't want to buy it."

That was what happened, he said, in urging business to produce things the people want to buy. He added: "I think if we spend one-half the energy producing these products that we spend stirring up the mud we'd be a lot better off."

Discussion of the economic situation and what can be done about it has transcended interest in the more technical matters of the industry at the convention, and several new ideas were added by the speakers today.

Varied Interests Represented.

Those who spoke included Colby M. Chester, jr., president General Foods Corporation; D. F. Kelly, Chicago, president National Retail Dry Goods Association; Miss Marion C. Taylor, president the Fashion Guild, New York, and Edwin C. Gruhl, vice president and general manager the North American Co., and Joseph H. Appel, advertising manager, Wanamaker's, New York.

Asking "What Can We Learn From Russia?" Mr. Appel said that "whether the challenge of the Soviet is a challenge of evil itself to the power of good as some declare it to be, it certainly is a challenge to the democratic and capitalistic peoples not only to maintain their system, but to keep on improving, reconstructing and re-creating it to meet the changing conditions of the world."

"We may say that it is mass slavery to an autocratic government," he said, "that it lacks the incentive of individual rewards, although some workers are now being paid according to their productive ability. We may say the Russian plan is killing religion and the soul of man. But there is a mass plan that is working, at least for the present, with results that must be reckoned with by the whole industrial and social world."

1,000 Boy Scouts Will Visit Capital

Elaborate Program Is Arranged for Youths From Four States.

Washington will be the mecca for more than 1,000 Boy Scouts from Delaware, Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania this week-end. Arriving Friday, the scouts will pitch their tents at Camp Goodwill, in Rock Creek Park, and will remain through Sunday.

The schedule includes a call upon President Hoover at the White House at 5:30 Friday, a campfire in Rock Creek Park Friday night, and a trip to Arlington Cemetery, where a wreath will be placed on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier Saturday morning.

Later the group will visit Mount Vernon, lunch at Hains Point, and in the afternoon go to the Lincoln Memorial, the National Museum and the Capitol. There will be a regional review Saturday at 5 o'clock, followed by supper and camp fire. Catholic scouts will attend mass at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, and a service for all campers is scheduled for 9 o'clock.

Missionary Assembly Start Sessions Today

Miss A. Anita Bolden, of Cleveland, Ohio, a missionary, will deliver a series of lectures on "Gospel Missions" at the first general assembly of the National Gospel Service Association, to be held in conjunction with the tenth monthly community mass meeting beginning today at the Shiloh Baptist Institutional Church.

The convention will run through Sunday. The opening session will get under way at 11 a. m. today. Reports will be made at the afternoon session and there will be prayer meeting tonight in conjunction with church services. There will be a Bible exposition tomorrow morning, and Saturday W. O. Bowles, founder of the association, will be honored on his eightieth birthday.

Miss Sherwin to Spend Summer in Ohio.

Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters, will leave Washington this week to spend the summer at Winden, her country estate near Cleveland, Ohio.

During the past week Miss Sherwin has attended the reunion of her class at Wellesley College and as a member of the board of trustees was one of the principal speakers at the Wellesley alumni banquet held in connection with the annual commencement festivities.

Mrs. A. Earl Neely entertained at dinner on the Shoreham terrace last evening in compliment to Capt. and Mrs. V. F. Bourne, of Annapolis.

The other guests were Capt. and Mrs. J. A. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Sherley Colbert, Mrs. William Rohrer, Miss Betty Ryan and Mr. Miller Gleseking.

Married to Russian Prince in Paris.

Miss Marjorie Matravers Harcourt Steinman and Prince George Wolkonski were married in Paris on June 12 in the Russian church in the Rue Daru, the ceremony performed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Miss Steinman is the daughter of Mrs. B. Puckie Steinman and the late Capt. Steinman, of England. Mrs. Steinman was formerly, Mrs. Addison Cammack, of Washington. Princess Noina Wolkonski, a sister of the bridegroom, was the bride's only attendant.

Miss Helen G. Nichols, principal of the Whittier School, will be the guest of honor at a large dinner party this evening on the terrace at the Shoreham Hotel, with the other teachers of the Whittier School as her hosts.

Miss Nichols will retire this year after 47 years spent as a teacher in the Washington public schools.

Miss Cecilia Calvert Robb has as her guest at her home in Edgemoor, Miss Emma Fox, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William S. Fox, of London, Ontario.

Miss Betty Wise Gibson will sail today on the Lafayette for Europe for a holiday. Miss Gibson is a member of a small group of girls touring Europe this summer under the chaperonage of Miss Louise Williams, of Richmond.

Mrs. Eugene R. Woodson will entertain at a bridge luncheon today for her daughter, Miss Jean Woodson, at their home on Klinkle road. There will be twelve guests.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bradley Willard and their two small daughters will leave Washington tomorrow for Nantucket, where they will pass the summer. Mrs. Willard was formerly Miss Florence Keys.

Miss Dorothy Merrill To Marry on Sunday.

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Merrill, daughter of Mrs George P. Merrill, of Washington, to Mr. J. Halsey Gulick, of Portland, Me., will take place on Sunday, June 21, at 4 o'clock at South Casco, Me., the boyhood home of Nathaniel Hawthorne. Preceding the wedding there will be a two-day house party at Migis Lodge. Following the marriage there will be a reception at the lodge, after which Mr. Gulick and his bride will start on a short wedding trip in Canada before the opening of the Luther Gulick Camps on Sebage Lake, of which Mr. Gulick is the director.

Miss Sherrill is a graduate of Swarthmore College, class of 1926, and is now secretary to the comptroller of the college.

Mr. Gulick is head of the physical education department of Fessenden School, in West Newton, Mass., where the couple will make their home next year.

Mr. John Lewis Smith, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Smith, received his diploma in the recent graduation exercises of the Lawrenceville School, of Lawrenceville, N. J., where he has made a record in his five years as a Laurentian, being a member of the school golf squad, president of the Press Club in '31, and a member of the Lawrence, Olla Podrida, and reborder boards and also was secretary-treasurer of his underform house. He has prepared for an A. B. course at Princeton.

Prince and Princess Svasti, father and mother of the King and Queen of Siam, were host and hostess at a small dinner last night at the Shoreham given for a few members of the State Department and Diplomatic Corps and friends of the young Prince of Siam, who attends Georgetown University.

Capt. and Mrs. W. A. Hollyer, of State College, Pa., are at the Powhatan.

Miss Beatrice Coles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Fred Coles, will sail tomorrow for Europe, where she will study in England, France and Spain during the summer.

Mr. Strother Asquith will spend the week-end period at Old Point Comfort, where he will be a guest at the Chamberlin Hotel.

Mrs. Joseph Himes, who has returned from New York where she enjoyed a short visit, will go soon to her country home near Frederick, Md. Her sister, Mrs. Caspar Whitney and Miss Faith Whitney, of New York, will sail tomorrow for Europe and will spend a little time during their trip abroad in Russia.

Miss Esther Wallace will entertain at tea this afternoon in honor of Miss Frances Morse, daughter of Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. John Wise Morse, whose marriage to Ensign Raymond Paul Hunter, U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phansteel Hunter, of Sherman, Tex., will take place on Saturday. Miss Wallace will be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding.

Another member of the wedding party, Miss Mary Stuart Birdsall, will give a luncheon tomorrow and in the evening Commander and Mrs. Morse will entertain the members of the wedding party at a supper dance at the Shoreham.

Lieut. and Mrs. Edward C. Metcalfe, who have been stationed in Annapolis for the past year, are now visiting the former's mother, Mrs. J. M. Metcalfe at her home in Natchez, Miss. They will motor to New York from there and will sail on June 23 aboard the Cristobal for Panama, where Lieut. Metcalfe will be stationed at Coco Solo with the U. S. S. S-11. They will be accompanied to Panama by Mrs. Metcalfe's mother, Mrs. Snowden Ashford, of Washington, who will make her home with them while they are there.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Royall Holcombe will arrive in New York today from Europe and will go to their villa, Oak Haven, at Newport, to spend the summer. Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, mother of Mrs. Holcombe, was at Oak Haven while opening her place, Harrison House, for the season.

The Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Frederick H. Payne have been joined at their apartment at the Shoreham by their daughter and son, Miss Carolyn Payne and Mr. Groverman Payne.

While it is expected that Mr. Payne will remain in Washington throughout the summer, Mrs. Payne and her son and daughter will spend a large part of the summer at the family home in Greenfield, Mass., returning to the Shoreham for several visits in that period.

Miss Hazel Johnston Wed to Mr. Stratton.

The marriage of Miss Hazel Hunter Johnston, daughter of Mr. Samuel Hunter Johnston of Scottdale, Pa., to Mr. Orney William Stratton, took place yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in the home of the bride on Sixteenth street, the Rev. S. B. Dougherty of the United Brethren Church officiating.

The bride wore a gown of beige chiffon, a brown hat, and had on a corsage of brown orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Anne Humphries was the maid of honor and wore a flowered chiffon with a hat of chartreuse straw. She carried Johanna Hill roses. Mr. Charles R. Schoeneman was the best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Stratton left for a wedding trip in Canada, after which they will make their home in Washington.

MANY BUILD HOMES AT WOODLAND BEACH

Scores of Good Lots Are Still Available at Post Colony.

The sounds of hammer and saw; the rattle of boards and the swish of plaster being set have taken the place of surprised exclamations over the beauties of Woodland Beach, The Post's summer home development site on South River in Maryland.

Persons buying lots on this cosy river spot have gotten over their pleasant surprise at the delightful surroundings and have settled down to the strenuous task of building summer homes that they may take advantage of the rest and recreation offered at the beach.

Possibly the sight of the fine clubhouse which has been erected on the ground has been an inspiration to many who were among the early purchasers of lots at the Beach. At any rate, a number of fine-looking summer cottages have been started and within a very short time the beach will no longer resemble the "wilderness" that it was before the development began.

Presents Busy Scene.

What with the grading work that has been done; the laying out of streets for the use of lot buyers and the labor that is being done by owners toward erecting their homes, the beach is a scene of constant activity these days.

Then, too, in addition to those who are building on their property, the beach is being visited daily by scores of persons who have heard of its appeal and who are anxious to see for themselves what they have learned from their friends.

There are still some choice locations at the beach available and those who appear first to claim them will be the gainers. While the beach is only taken over by the sales force on Sundays, there are always on duty at The Post Building members of the sales staff who will be glad to show anyone interested the layout of the property and the lots available.

Investment Is Small.

Hundreds of Washingtonians have been delighted with the prospect of summer homes at Woodland Beach. With boating, bathing and fishing offered, together with pleasant surroundings for their homes, these residents of the Capital are well pleased with their investment.

And the investment is very small. All lots are priced at $93, but the amount in cash is not necessary to complete the deal. A subscription to The Washington Post and $9 in cash are all the requirements before becoming a lot owner. The rest may be paid in monthly installments of $3.50.

Call at The Post today and learn all about Woodland Beach before you regret not having taken advantage of the offer. Then on Sunday drive out to the place, take the family and a picnic lunch and enjoy yourself thoroughly. You will be sold on the idea as have all the others now owning lots there.

Taxicab Companies Face Suits Today

Firms Serving Hotels Will Be Charged With Three Traffic Counts.

The Black and White and Yellow Taxicab Co. and the Mayflower Taxicab and Sightseeing Service, Inc., will be charged today with violation of three traffic regulations in papers to be filed in Police Court by Edward W. Thomas, assistant corporation counsel.

Inauguration of the suit will be the first legal step in the corporation counsel's move to test the right of taxicab companies to operate off of stands adjacent to hotels under agreement with the hotel owners. The matter has been tried several times previously in court with conflicting decisions being returned.

The taxicab companies are to be charged with permitting cabs to operate from parking places on the street not designated as hack stands, to loiter, and to operate without proper licenses, i. e., with "L" instead of "H" tags. The Black and White and Yellow Taxicab Co. serves the Willard Hotel, while the Mayflower Co. operates at the Mayflower Hotel. The hotel companies, while not to be summoned in the case, doubtless will be represented, because of their alleged financial interests in the arrangements.

4-H CLUB DELEGATES OPEN ANNUAL CAMP

156 Youths, Leaders From 40 States Are Greeted by Dr. C. B. Smith.

Members of 4-H clubs from over the Nation, here for the fifth annual camp and conference on the Department of Agriculture grounds, were welcomed to Washington yesterday by Dr. C. B. Smith, chief of cooperative extension work. There were 156 campers and their leaders from 40 States at the opening assembly.

The high spot on yesterday's program was a visit of the farm boys and girls to the Department of Agriculture's experimental farm at Beltsville, Md. This was the first of the educational trips to be taken before camp breaks up June 23.

Aside from the visit to Beltsville, delegates had some time left for sight-seeing in Washington. These individual trips over the Capital were sandwiched in between conferences, and a folk dancing program directed by Miss Elizabeth Burchenal, member of the International Commission on Folk Arts of the League of Nations.

A musical program was presented last night by the Central States' delegations.

At the morning assembly, Boyce Brooks, of North Carolina, presented a gavel made of wood from his State to Dr. I. W. Hall, official of the extension service, on behalf of the North Carolina delegation.

Flag Desecration Jail Term Lifted

Driver Who Used Emblem as Traffic Warning Wins Mercy.

Judge John P. McMahon yesterday called Minzie Owens, Negro drayman, before him and suspended the balance of his sentence of fifteen days for affixing to the end of a load of lumber an American flag.

Owens was arrested by Policeman W. J. Liverman Saturday near the White House. The officer testified Owens had draped the flag on the projecting ends of lumber as a warning to other drivers. The Negro was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 or serve fifteen days. He could not pay the fine and was taken to jail.

Judge McMahon delivered to Owens a lecture on patriotism and the meaning of the flag. The Negro told the Court he was unaware of the fact that his use of the flag was against the law. He said that it was an old, tattered flag and that he thought he could use it as a signal on the lumber load. Several persons wrote in and offered to pay portions of the fine.

Workman Is Injured In Plunge From Pole

Walter Taylor, 26, of 656 Milwaukee place southeast, was treated at Casualty Hospital yesterday for injuries sustained when a telephone pole he was working on at the old steel plant at the foot of Portland street southeast, broke, throwing him 25 feet to the ground.

The injured man, employed by Samuel Wall, 2006 L street northwest, was taken to the hospital by Jacob Wall.

St. Gabriel's Outing To Be Held Sunday

Young People of Parish to Enjoy Various Sports at Chapel Point.

Foot races, swimming, dancing and boating will be features of the annual outing of young people of St. Gabriel's Parish Sunday at Chapel Point, Md., under auspices of the Stella Maris Club.

The group will meet at the school hall on Webster street immediately after the 10 o'clock mass, unless rain forces cancellation of plans. In that event the excursion will be held the following Sunday. Buses will transport the young people to Chapel Point.

Frances Schwoerer is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. Assisting him will be William Ryan, Kathleen Baker, Frances Collins, Joseph Fallon and "Jimmie" Dugan.

30 HELD AS STRIKES TIE UP COAL MINES

Hundreds in West Virginia, Ohio Fields Quit; 15 Workings Guarded.

Wheeling, W. Va., June 17 (A.P.).—One hundred men laid down their tools today at the Constanzo mine at Valley Grove, the second operation of the concern affected by a strike. Seven men alleged to have fomented the latest walkout were arrested. Earlier five persons were arrested for trespassing on the company's property.

Deputy sheriffs and State police last night broke up a mass meeting of miners at Elm Grove, arresting several men. One hundred and eighty-five miners out of 200 employed at the Gaylord mine at Martins Ferry were said to have agreed to form a new local with the understanding the company would sign a contract.

St. Clairsville, Ohio, June 17 (A.P.). Eighteen persons were arrested in this region today in connection with the strike of coal miners in the eastern Ohio coal fields. As minor disorders continue in the district, officials said Ohio National Guardsmen would not be called unless local authorities lost control of the situation.

Fifteen mines were watched by Sheriff Howard Duff and 75 deputies during the day, but the sheriff said that at times his men could not cope with the situation because of the many pickets on duty at the workings. The pickets represent the National Miners Union. Union leaders said that hereafter the strike would be directed by separate committees at each mine.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Doak, returning to Washington late yesterday, said there would be no decision on the request of John L. Lewis for a conference on the coal mining situation until after President Hoover returns.

The Secretary has been out of the city for a week making speeches in Kentucky and Ohio. He said he had not had time to look over the request of Lewis, who is president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Auto Injures Man's Knee.

Knocked down by an automobile at Thomas Circle yesterday afternoon, Herbert Smith, colored, 23 years old, was treated at the Emergency Hospital for possible fracture of the right knee.

40 Cents Highest Bid For Gay '90s Vehicle

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., June 17.—A four-wheeled vehicle described as a buggy and as having been once upon a time in use as a mode of travel, brought 40 cents here today at spirited bidding during an auction sale. Although a relic of a bygone age, the alleged one-time popular joy-riding contraption was in good repair. The initial bid was 5 cents, and several raises were necessary to bring it up to a quarter. The remainder of the way to 40 cents was by the penny raise.

CONTRACT IS GIVEN FOR MARKET SHEDS

Bids Also Accepted for New Paving and Equipment for Reformatory.

A contract for the construction of sheds for the use of farmers at the Eastern and Western markets was awarded by the District Commissioners yesterday to the Industrial Engineering & Construction Co., on its low bid of $8,497. The sheds will be erected at once.

Bids were opened yesterday by Roland M. Brennan, chief clerk of the engineer department, on a number of highway and construction projects.

The Union Paving Co., of Philadelphia, was low bidder with $51,477.50 for the construction of concrete alleys in various parts of the city. There were eight bidders.

E. B. Donaldson was lowest of eight bidders on the construction of cement sidewalks. His estimate was $42,836.25. Layne Atlantic Co., of Norfolk, Va., was lowest of seven bidders on a proposal to drill a well and furnish pumping equipment for a distribution system at the District Reformatory at Laurel, Md. The estimate was $13,290.

With a bid of $19,925.50 John R. Wald Co., of Huntington, Tenn., offered the lowest estimate on a proposal to furnish and install certain equipment at the hosiery and underwear plant at the District Reformatory.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

AFTER all is said and done, there is probably no question pertaining to any aspect of the motion picture industry of wider general interest that the marital relationships of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks and the probable retirement from the screen of either one or both.

This column is inclined to agree with the opinion of Mr. Hubbard Keavy, chief operative of its West Coast ear-to-the-ground department, that nothing much ails the present status of the Pickfair establishment but an avalanche of wild rumors, and that their retirement from the active business of making the movies move is an eventuation of considerable remoteness.

It seems, however, that Mary and Doug once did evade retirement by the merest eyelash. Three years ago they had an opportunity to purchase a large piece of property near Hollywood on which oil had been suspected. They refused to buy an option until they had time to think the matter over and discuss it between themselves. The following day they made up their minds to buy. But their emissary was a few minutes too late—a syndicate had purchased the tract just ahead of them.

A few months ago, before production was curtailed, wells on that property yielded oil worth $150,000 per day! Mary is reported by Mr. Keavy to have said that IF they had bought the land, and IF their oil company had done a business of $150,000 a day, they probably would have had to quit the movies to devote their entire time to making it tough for Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Deterding and the rest of the boys.

"After all," Mary concluded, "we talk movie language, not oil language!"

And that, little children, you will admit makes everything clear—especially about that nebulous separation and mythical divorce!

It will come as welcome news to those who ignored our repeated admonitions to secure their seats early, that Eugene O'Neill's extraordinary drama, "Strange Interlude," will be continued through a second week by the National Theater Players, in response to a demand that has overtaxed the box office. Attendance has been mounting steadily since the first presentation of the play Monday night, with the result that with the exception of Sunday night's performance—beginning at 5:30 p. m.—the balance of the current week is virtually sold out.

With the fall of the final curtain on Act IX of "Strange Interlude" Sunday night, the seventh season of the National Theater Players, under the management of S. E. Cochran, was to have ended. Not so, now.

It was a stroke of keen and daring showmanship to select "Strange Interlude" as the final offering of the season. No other play could have been chosen for stock performance that would have aroused the interest or elicited the acclaim that have greeted this colossal and admirably acted drama.

So completely has "Strange Interlude" galvanized the Capital into interested concern over the future of the National Players, as a matter of fact, that the season on E street might have been carried on throughout the summer to the opening of the regular theatrical season in September, save for the indifference of a group of artisans who saw fit to ignore overtures that were made to their organization for consideration of a possible modus operandi to obtain over the heated term.

Just another instance of killing the goose—seemingly one of the best things they do!

And from the Fox comes word that when the engagement comes to an end tonight, "Daddy Long-Legs," according to all present indications—and they are all but conclusive—will have played to the greatest number of patrons of any picture ever presented in the F street cathedral. Not the greatest gross receipts, but the greatest number of people.

Both "Sunny Side Up" and "The Cockeyed World" scored heavier money grosses than the Jean Webster play starring Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter, but that was due to the intervention of legal holidays and the assessment of a higher scale of admission charges.

The triumphant hot weather record of "Daddy Long-Legs" is something this department will do its best to bear up under, since it flatly predicted that the 3,400-seat Fox would prove as inadequate to house the customers who wished to get in as the 2,000-seat Rialto had demonstrated itself to be back in 1919.

Incidentally it is the "Cockeyed World" combination that succeeds to the Fox screen tomorrow—Vic McLaglen and Eddie Lowe, with Greta Nissen, however, subbing for Lily Damita.

And with that reminder, next week's order of march through the downtown, first-run sector will be as follows: Fox, McLaglen, Lowe and Nissen in "Women of All Nations" and Fanchon & Marco's "Prosperity" stage revue; Columbia, Clive Brook, Fay Wray, Charles Rogers and Richard Arlen in "The Lawyer's Secret;" Earle, Carole Lombard and Norman Foster in "Up Pops the Devil" and Olive Brasno's "Tiny Town Revue" headlining the vaudeville; Palace, Paul Lukas and Kay Francis in "The Vice Squad" and Wesley Eddy with the "Bouquet of Melodies" stage revue; RKO-Keith's, Betty Compson, Conrad Nagel and Robert Ames in "Three Who Loved;" Metropolitan, Lila Lee and Ben Lyon in "Misbehaving Ladies."

The Gayety will sing its swan song for one of the longest and most successful seasons in its history next week, when Manager Jimmy Lake will present Hinda Wassau in her own production of "Hollywood Honeys." What a honey to ring down the final curtain!

To jog your memory, "The Piper," the Stratford prize play of 1910, written originally for Otis Skinner by Josephine Preston Peabody, but played for the first time in America by Edith Wynne Matthison in 1911 in New York, will be presented for the last time tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Sylvan Theater by the Community Drama Guild as the final production of its current season. You can find it by the red light in the Monument!

I notice the Wisconsin State Athletic Commission turned down a troupe of wrestlers on the ground that actors are not required to take out licenses.

Well, I'll be seeing you out at the ballyard tonight!

YEARS OF GRACE

By MARGARET AYER BARNES

SYNOPSIS.

Jane has a talk with Cicily in her charming little French farmhouse in the suburbs of Lakewood and discovers in her dismay that after nine years of married life, Cicily, at 28, with a husband and three children, but still young and beautiful, is restless and dissatisfied with her mode of life. Cicily longs for excitement, for romance and drama. Jack is bored with banking and still yearns to be an engineer. They must look forward to years of this tame, suburban existence. Jane recalls her own restless yearnings at Cicily's age, but thinks there are compensations at 50.

CICILY, JENNY AND STEVE.

CHAPTER VII.

"MURIEL," said Isabel, "looked amazingly young."

"She certainly did," said Jane.

"And wasn't she wonderful with Pearl and Gertie?"

"My heart rather warmed to Gertie," said Jane. "She was crying all through the ceremony."

"It's enough to make anybody cry," said Isabel, "to see a 60-year-old father making a fool of himself."

They were sitting on the old brown sofa in the Pine Street Library. An hour before they had seen Muriel depart in a shower of rice for her trip around the world with Ed Brown. The rice had been Albert's eleventh-hour inspiration. He had foraged for it in the kitchen and thrust it, hilariously, into the hands of the younger generation. His three little daughters had thrown it, delightedly, at their grandmother. The rice, Jane thought, had rather disconcerted Muriel.

The entire family were taking supper with Mrs. Ward. The children and grandchildren were making merry in the yellow drawing room across the hall. Belle was strumming out Gershwin on the old Steinway upright. The throbbing notes of the jazz melody vibrated incongruously in the little brown library.

Treats Mother Like Contemporary.

Mrs. Ward was in the dining room with Minnie. It was a long time since Mrs. Ward had given so large a dinner party—fifteen people, not counting Robin Redbreast and Belle's youngest daughter, who had had their puffed rice in the pantry and were now supposedly asleep in the guest room upstairs.

"Albert was very funny," said Isabel suddenly, "with that rice."

"Albert is funny," said Jane. "Funny and nice, too. He was sweet with Ed Brown, but yet you could see he didn't miss a trick. He was touched and amused and musing, all at once. He treats his mother just like a contemporary."

"Live and let live is always Albert's policy," said Isabel. "Belle finds it rather trying. Belle's like me—she always has an opinion. A completely tolerant husband can be very irritating."

"I like him," said Jane. "I like him very much." She hesitated for a moment toying with the thought of telling Isabel that she found Albert greatly improved, then abandoning it. You could not tell your sister that you found her son-in-law greatly improved, without tacitly implying that you had previously felt that there was room for great improvement.

Prejudiced Against Albert.

Jane had never quite been able to overcome her prejudice against Albert because he was his father's son. Jane's distrustful dislike for Bert Lancaster was rooted deep in the hidden instincts of her childhood. She had subconsciously transferred it to his boy. That was unfair, Jane reflected honestly. Albert had sowed some wild oats in college. He had been a dangerously beautiful young man. Muriel had adored and spoiled him. But he had married Belle and gone to Oxford and entered the diplomatic service and had done very well for himself, until the lack of a great fortune had hampered his further advancement. He had given it up, temporarily, and come home to enter the aeroplane industry, to make, he had said laughingly, a million dollars. "I've rented my soul to Mammon" had been his phrase.

"Here come the boys," said Isabel suddenly. The robust sound of masculine laughter was heard in the hall. Robin and Stephen entered the library, carrying Jack's cocktail and Isabel's glasses on Mrs. Ward's silver tray.

"Mamma!" called Jane.

"Children!" called Isabel.

The throb of the Gershwin stopped abruptly in the yellow drawing room.

"Drinks!" rang out Cicily's voice above the talk and laughter.

Cocktails New in the House.

Mrs. Ward entered the room. She looked a very pretty old lady in the new black silk dress she had bought for the wedding. Her cheeks were flushed with excitement over the nut and candy dishes.

"I hope that ice was cracked right for you, Robin," she said anxiously. "We don't know much about cocktails in this house. Your father never served them," she added in superfluous explanation to Jane and Isabel. "Just wine and a highball for the gentlemen. Was the ice right, Robin?"

"Perfect!" responded Robin with a twinkle. "I never saw ice more expertly cracked!"

But Mrs. Ward did not smile.

"I'm very glad," she said earnestly.

Just then the children trooped in from the hall. Jane looked up at them with a proud, proprietary smile. They were nice children. They made a pretty picture, in the modern manner, to be sure, as they clustered about the tray of cocktails. Jenny, slim, blonde and boyish in the tailor-made sport suit she affected at even a June wedding, sipping the amber liquid that was just the color of her short, shining hair. Steve, a little flushed with reminiscent fragment of the nuptial champagne, singing a Gershwin as he took the silver shaker. Belle and Cicily arm in arm on the hearthrug. Pretty Belle, who still looked like an apple blossom, a slightly paler, rather more full-blown apple blossom, clad in the flattering, fluttering pink panels of her French frock, and Cicily smiling beside her, her flower-like head rising proudly from a sheaf of pale green chiffon. Pleasant, snub-nosed Jack coming up with a cocktail in either hand for his wife and his sister. Albert in the doorway, dark and distinguished, not very tall, lithe and slim-waisted, with something of the Greek athlete about him in spite of his cutaway, smiling over the heads of the brown-eyed twins and his own two dark-haired daughters, at the young women on the hearthrug. Steve approached him with the silver shaker. Albert accepted his glass.

Toast to Reconstructed Life.

"I give you a toast," he said suddenly. "To Muriel and the reconstructed life!"

They all drank riotously. Albert was sweet about his mother, thought Jane. So many sons would have resented that ridiculous mesalliance. Did Albert, in his heart? Isabel, of course, voiced the thought.

"How do you really feel about it, Albert?" she inquired curiously.

"Me?" said Albert innocently, extending his empty glass toward Steve. "Why, I believe in reconstruction. Mother's had a pretty thin time the last fifteen years. It's never too late to mend. We all learned that in our copybooks. Another cocktail, Cicily?"

Cool and aloof and flower-like, Cicily accepted the glass. She flashed a brief, bright smile up into Albert's admiring eyes.

"I adore cocktails," she said.

Suddenly across Jane's mind shot the picture of a very different Cicily. A mutinous, moody, Cicily, turning in the sunshine of her little French window to declare, "Jack's just as bored with suburban gin as I am!" This was Jack's gin, but the child did not look bored at all. Of course she was happy. She had not meant those perilous words that had troubled Jane so profoundly. She was still smiling up at Albert Lancaster over the rim of her little crystal goblet.

Exciting Like Love and Hate.

"It's fire and ice," she said, with a little thirsty gasp. "Exciting. Like love and hate. Like life, as it ought to be."

"Like you, as you are," said Albert gallantly. His eyes were bent admiringly on her cool, blonde radiance. His gallantry, Jane thought, was a bit professional. "A technique in handing women, very alien to Lakewood. But he had hit the nail on the head. "Fire and ice" was rather like Cicily in her high moments. She did not seem at all impressed, however, with the accuracy of the description.

"He's irresistible, isn't he, Belle?" she was saying calmly.

The waitress appeared on the threshhold. Jane caught a glimpse of Minnie's plump figure, hovering officiously in the hall beyond. Minnie was going to see that dinner, on this important occasion, was announced correctly.

"Come, children," said Mrs. Ward.

Robin offered her his arm. Stephen appropriated Isabel. Steve turned up at Belle's elbow. Jenny clapped Jack familiarly on the shoulder.

"You're elected, old top!" she said.

Albert and Cicily were left alone on the hearthrug. She turned from him abruptly to place her empty glass on the mantelshelf.

"Cicily," smiled Albert, "do you know what you've done while my back was turned? You've grown up into a damned dangerous woman!"

Cicily met his eyes with a frosty little twinkle of complete composure. Girls were wonderful, thought Jane. You would think, to look at her, that Cicily had been talked to like that for years.

"Then watch your step!" laughed Cicily. "Don't get burned or frostbitten."

Jane followed them from the room, hand in hand with her grand-twins Belle's dark-haired daughters trooped at her side. Their frizzy black curls recalled the Muriel of Miss Milgrim's School. It was fun, this reunion—it was lovely to have all this big family under one roof again.

Standing behind her chair, Jane looked down the long white damask expanse of the candlelit table, across the cutglass goblets and the Royal Worcester china and the loving-cup of roses, to the frail little matriarch in a new black silk dress who was the head of the clan, then turned, instinctively, to her father's chair. Her brown-eyed grandson was going to occupy it—little John Ward Bridges, aged eight.

Jane Never Looked Happier.

"I hope I live long enough," she thought suddenly, "to see my great-grandchildren." Steve, on her other hand, was pulling out her chair. She sat down in the gay staccato confusion of talk and laughter. "I hope I live long enough," she thought solemnly, "to see what happens to every one. To know they're safe——"

Just then John Ward upset his glass of water in the nearest nut dish. In meeting the emergency of the moment, Jane forgot to be solemn. Later, she watched Cicily rather closely across the prattling queries and vast gastronomical silences of her grandson's table manners. Cicily never looked happier—never looked prettier—never seemed to take more trouble to be charming and gay. Jane felt she had been a very foolish mother. There was no need to be profoundly troubled.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Sennesby

BLUE-BEARD

THE ORIGINAL BLUE-BEARD WAS GILLES DE RAIS, MARSHAL OF FRANCE IN 1420. GILLES MAINTAINED SORCERERS TO DISCOVER HIDDEN TREASURES. HE ALSO KILLED YOUNG PEOPLE SO THAT HE MIGHT USE THEIR BLOOD FOR HIS CHARMS AND INCANTATIONS.

CLEARING HOUSES

LONDON BANKERS' CLERKS IN THE EARLY 1700'S MET AT THE CORNER OF LOMBARD STREET AND BIRCHEN LANE TO EXCHANGE BILLS AND CHECKS DRAWN ON OTHER BANKS. IN 1775, LONDON BANKERS ENLARGED ON THE IDEA BY SETTING APART A BUILDING TO WHICH BANKING PAPERS WERE SENT FOR SORTING AND DISTRIBUTING. IT WAS THE FIRST CLEARING HOUSE.

CROSSEYES AND UNFUSED IMAGES.

THE latest opinion is that crosseye and cockeye are due less to differences in the strength of pull of the eyeball than to the failure of the retinal images to merge. The first of these causes nas been told so often during the last 50 years that everybody knows it. Merging of the images is new matter to most of us.

Objects are seen by both eyes. Images are cast in the retina or screen of each eye. Since each of the two eyes sees the object from a slightly different location its image is made from a slightly different angle. Therefore, the two images on the two screens are not exactly the same. In normal vision the two images are merged, or fused into one, and what we think we see it really a composite, something of a compromise between the two slightly different images actually seen. Some people have eyes that do not fuse these two images properly.

A baby at birth, and for some time thereafter, sees two images because his eyes have no ability to fuse the images. As he grows older, if his eyes are normal, he learns to see one mamma instead of two. Fusion is an acquired capacity. Some babies never acquire it. If the power to fuse is never acquired the person has a persisting double vision.

In order to get away from the inconvenience of two almost similar images, the muscles pull one eye in (crosseye) or out (cockeye) because two dissimilar images are less confusing. If crosseye is permitted to persist for years the crossed eye loses the power to see. Therefore, treatment for crosseye should never be postponed. It is said that if it is allowed to persist beyond the seventh year of life the ability to see and, certainly, the ability to fuse the images can never be regained.

FOODS THAT CREATE SUGAR.

G. G. N. writes:

1. Besides potatoes, what other foodstuffs create sugar in the blood?
2. Should one avoid all starchy foods to cut down the high sugar content?
3. Is a periodic canker sore in the mouth a symptom of stomach disorder?
4. Would nervous indigestion and acid stomach cause total alopecia?

REPLY.

1. Among the prominent ones are breads, pastries, desserts, sweets, cereals. Nearly every food can make some sugar. A certain percentage of lean meat is convertible into this chemical.
2. One should limit the intake of foods that make sugar. To avoid them entirely is to go without the ordinary food.
3. Yes, of some kinds.
4. I doubt it.

CONCENTRATION.

A. S. writes:

I am in Wall street; therefore, I do not need concentration or brains. But I go to night school, and that does. I am in my right senses, but I can not concentrate. What can I do?

REPLY.

You are just where you ought to be. Your teachers can teach you to concentrate. Tell them your difficulty, and ask them to guide you. You need not tell Wall street.

OPERATION USUALLY CURES.

A. J. W. writes:

1. Is operation a successful cure for hernia?
2. Is there more than an average chance, if care is exercised after the operation, of a recurrence?
3. If there is no operation, does hernia gradually grow worse, even though a truss is worn?
4. Is it necessary to wear a truss or other protective device after operation?

REPLY.

1. Yes, as a rule.
2. Recurrence is not to be expected, but it sometimes happens.
3. I expect so, but the progress downward is slow. Wearing a truss cures some cases.
4. It may be best to wear a binder for a while, but not permanently.

BLUEGE'S TRIPLE IN 9TH WINS NATS' 12TH STRAIGHT

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

IMPRESSIONS AT GRIFFITH STADIUM YESTERDAY....Ten thousand of the faithful looking for more thrills....On top of Tuesday's heart-throbber....Goslin's heave to third base after catching Cronin's fly in the third....It plunked into Kress' glove on the fly from deep center....But Myer was there first.... The Goose still can throw....Sammy West's smoked glasses gleaming in the sun out in center field....Washington is one of the few parks in the league where the dimmers are required by the center fielders on bright days....Wonder why Joe Kuhel reminds me just a bit of a washerwoman out there in the field....It's his bare arms....No sleeves in his sweat shirt....That's why....Myer and Bluege also affect the sleeveless garments on hot days....But Kuhel is the only regular....Crowder going to the plate in the fourth....He makes an effort of dragging his bat to the tee....It's not affected....He's about as sprightly as a hippo, anyway.... Wins the all-round title for difficulty of motion and motivation....Simply languid....Pinky Hargrave shuffling to the plate and back to warm up the pitcher between innings....With an expression that makes a blank sheet of paper look like a kaleidoscope.... He's resigned to it....The crowd yelping in high glee when Melillo fouled one off Guthrie's breast protector.... They love it....It's refreshing....Especially if its Guthrie....Goslin acting up at first base after his single in the fifth....He drew a throw and floundered back...Same old Goose... He has no charmed life on the bases....Never did have with Washington....Not hard to read his mind when he was caught off....His face and reddened neck spoke suppressed volumes....They do look foolish when a pitch they're ducking hits their bat for an easy out....West did in the fifth....Was anchored to the plate on the roller to Kress that resulted....Watta life....Levey making his first hit in twenty times at bat in the sixth....And then being doubled up at second on the next pitch....Bluege's home-run rampage stopped since the team came home ....Not a semblance of a homer in nineteen games here....He's still choking his bat....Guthrie passing the buck to Dineen after ruling Cronin's foul-bunt affair....And concurring in the overruled decision.... Goslin going after Myer's fly in the sixth....And catching it after going into a butterfly flutter....Same old Goose....The heart attacks in the stands have slumped, though, since he was traded to the Browns....The suspense used to be terrible....Dave Harris chocking up on his bat after Stewart slipped across two strikes in the seventh....The better to hit, my dear....He did....A duplicate of the game-winning triple yesterday....But a fast relay caught him at third.... Didn't matter to the crowd, though. ....He drew a big hand on the way back to the bench....And lifted his cap ever so slightly....Crowder leaving the box during the Browns' uprising in the eighth....Ambling back to the dugout with all the alacrity of a man condemned....Johnson making a motion to lift Brown from the box with three on and one out in the eighth....The upholding of his decision to await the appearance of a pinch hitter....It was the right-handed O'Rourke....And he waved Brown out....And Marberry in.... Marberry is lifting the left leg just as high this season....The personification of speed is his motion....But his fast ball hasn't got the old zip of 1924 and 1925....It was the double cross....Killefer lifting O'Rourke from the batting order and substituting the left-handed....O'Rourke never faced a pitcher....But he was in the game as far as the records are concerned....It would have counted toward a consecutive-game record....

Manor Medal Won by Pitt With 72

Shorey, Lacey Gain Title Flight After Play-Off of 80s.

Roesch, Nolan Other Stars Fail; Match Play Today.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

At the close of the second day of the qualification in the Manor Club invitation golf tournament the 72 scored by Harry G. Pitt, of the home club, on the previous day, remained the low gross score. In fact, the nearest approach to his total yesterday was a 76 on the card of John M. Downey, an unattached player. J. Monro Hunter, jr., Indian Spring, followed with 77. Cards of 81 played off for the first 16 and there were exactly 80 players with 88 and under to fill the 5 sixteens which qualified.

Many contestants yesterday who were expected to keep the qualifying figure of the first sixteen under 80 proved to be disappointments. Frank Roesch, District champion; Thomas F. Bones, jr., Columbia; M. Parker Nolan, Congressional; James C. Drain, winner of the Washington tournament, and many others, either picked up or had accumulated so many strokes that they declined to turn in their cards.

Shorey and Lacey Win in Play-Off.

Consequently there were eight players with scores of 81 tied for two places in the first sixteen. These included M. A. Shipley, Argyle, who was absent when his name was called for the play-off; G. W. Bonnett, jr., Manor; W. I. Green, Manor; J. Wm. Harvey, jr., Indian Spring; Herbert L. Lacey, Indian Spring; Albert R. Mackenzie, Columbia; Michael Oliveri, Argyle; and John C. Shorey, Bannockburn.

The two who survived were Shorey, who took three strokes after a badly sliced drive to reach the green and then ran down a 25-foot putt for a par 4, and Lacey, who was on the green with his second and holed out in two putts. All the others were one stroke behind these two winners.

Shorey's unexpected 81 was due to a 6 on the first hole, when he played twice out of the woods, three putts on the second green and especially

McCrary Is Defeated In Transmississippi

Golden Valley Golf Club, Minneapolis, Minn., June 17 (A.P.).—Robert McCrary's two-year reign as champion of the Transmississippi Golf Association ended today as he fell before the determined attack of Dr. Paul M. Barton, of Davenport, 2 and 1, in a second round match of the tournament at the Golden Valley course.

Successful in his first eighteen-hole match against Billy Sixty, of Milwaukee, by a 1-up score in the morning, the champion, whose home club is at Des Moines, attempted a rally late in his match with Barton, the Iowa State champion, but finally fell on the seventeenth green.

The ruling favorite, Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, came through a pair of hard matches. He won from Allan Labatt, of Minneapolis, 2 up, in the morning, and beat Denmar Miller, of Des Moines, 4 and 3, in the second round.

Armour Out Of Western Open Play

British Open Champ Decides to Wait for National Tourney.

Sarazen Choice Over Small Field Teeing Off Today.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

DAYTON, Ohio, June 17 (A.P.).—A comparatively small field, heavily topped by a half dozen of golf's heaviest money winners, opens the 72-hole battle for the Western open championship over the trapped, entrenched Miami Valley Golf Club course tomorrow.

Approximately 110, one of the smallest fields in years, will start the title chase, but it looks like a strict duel between the "big shots," Gene Sarazen, Olin and Mortie Dutra, Walter Hagen, George Von Elm and Ed Dudley for the championship.

Tommy Armour, the reigning Bobby Jones of the professionals, took some starch out of the tournament by deciding not to compete, although he was besieged with telegrams and long distance calls tonight by officials in an effort to change his mind.

Although Sarazen waited until late today to get acquainted with the course, a fairly level expanse stretching over 6,655 yards with par at 71, he stood out as the one man to beat for the crown he won last year at Indianwood, Mich.

Sarazen Appears in Form.

Gene appeared to be very much on his game. Armour's decision to miss the event, too, makes his chances all the brighter.

Von Elm entered the fight under a physical handicap. He dislocated his left thumb seven weeks ago and has played but one 18-hole round since. He appeared in the clubhouse today with his thumb bound up with a steel splint harness. A queer looking contraption which fits along the club shaft. It is taped to his hand.

Dudley, winner of the 1931 Los Angeles Open, and the two Dutra brothers, potential winners in any man's tournament, were high among the favorites because of their fine practice rounds. All three of them have beaten, tied or flirted with par since they started their drills. Mortie Dutra shot a 69 Monday while Dudley equalled his feat today. Hagen four times Western champion, arrived in time for but one satisfactory drill.

Others Have Good Chance.

Others with a good chance were Leonard Schmutte, of Lima, Ohio; Clarence Gamber, of Detroit, and Espinosa, former champion from Chicago, and Emmett French, of Youngstown, Ohio. Only six amateurs were entered and all of them were from Ohio except Charles "Chick" Evans, jr., veteran star from Chicago, who reported his game was off 10 strokes.

Speculation as to the low 72-hole total varied today, dependant on the capers of the wind. If the wind fails to show up, approximately 286 looked like a low tally. If the wind stirs up as it usually does on the course, the low may be above 290. The course, especially the greens, was in excellent condition. Eighteen holes will be played tomorrow and Friday after which the low 64 and ties will fight it out for the rest of the way over 36 holes Saturday.

Ascot Gold Cup Race To Draw Royalty Today

Ascot, England, June 17 (A.P.).—The Gold Cup, most valued of all of Royal Ascot's rich stakes, will be run tomorow with the pick of the British and French thoroughbreds pitted against each other in the grueling 2½-mile journey.

As in past years, the running of the Gold Cup will be the signal for London society to turn out en masse, joining with the thousands of commoners in paying homage to the king and queen. King George and Queen Mary again will lead the parade to the royal box, the same as they have done for the last two days of the Ascot meeting.

The race is wide open, there being no pronounced favorite.

America's hopes of having a representative in the race were shattered today, when A. C. Bostwick's Yarn failed to place in the money in the Beasborough Stakes. The last outstanding entry was Reign Count, which finished second in the 1929 renewal.

Injury Keeps Sweep All Out of American Derby

Chicago, June 17 (A.P.).—Sweep All, which finished second to Twenty Grand in the Kentucky Derby, is out of the $50,000 American Derby to be decided at Washington Park next Saturday. This announcement was made today following examination of the injured leg of the leading Western hope in the race.

The injury is not serious, Dr. Joseph M. Kaiser, official track veterinarian, said, but the valuable 3-year-old will have to be given a rest or risk the danger of being ruined for racing. Sweep All, owned by Charles T. Fisher, of Detroit, damaged his leg while running in the Derby trial at Washington Park yesterday.

Insco, another Derby eligible, broke down so badly in a race a few days ago that Dr. Kaiser advised the insurance company that the $30,000 3-year-old, owned by Griffin Watkins, of Alton, Ill., should be destroyed. Insco is insured for $25,000. Officials of the insurance company will decide today whether the animal should be killed.

CANZONERI VS. PERLICK.

OUT AT THE PLATE AFTER NATS' FAST RELAY

Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

Grimes found the plate barricaded by the form of Catcher Roy Spencer yesterday in the eighth inning when he tried to score from second base after West's sensational catch of Jenkins' long fly. Cronin's perfect relay to the plate put the ball in Spencer's hands a flash before Grimes' arrival and the Nats' catcher blocked the run off.

BRITISH SEED SHIELDS NO. 3 IN SINGLES

Wood Rated No. 7 at Wimbledon; Draw Announced.

LONDON, June 17 (A.P.).—With not one champion back to defend hard won laurels, new International tennis stars twinkle in the long lists of the All-English championships at Wimbledon announced today. There are 128 men and 96 women included in the draw.

Among the absent champions are W. T. Tilden 2d, singles king, now a professional, and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, women's singles champion and coholder with Miss Elizabeth Ryan of the women's doubles crown and Miss Ryan, who also held the mixed doubles titles with Jack Crawford, of England. Wilmer Allison, who held the doubles title with John Van Ryn, has withdrawn from international play this year.

Mrs. Moody decided not to make the long trip to London from her California home while Miss Ryan was forced to cancel her entry because of a recent leg injury.

Prominent among the new stars, are the three American youngsters—Frank Shields and Sidney B. Wood, jr., of New York City, and Miss Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Calif. All of them are among the "seeded" players, Shields at No. 3 and Wood No. 7 among the men and Miss Jacobs No. 6 among the women.

Borotra Heads Cochet.

Jean Borotra heads the men's list, taking precedence over his convalescent fellow-musketeer, Henri Cochet, while Cilli Aussen, of Germany, heads the list of preferred women players with Betty Nuthall, pride of England, second.

Left outside the seedings in the men's list are three other Americans—George Lott, jr., John Van Ryn and Gregory Mangin, the former two members of this year's United States Davis Cup team and the latter a spare in the American Davis Cup play.

Lott and Van Ryn, the leading doubles combination and French champions, will probably be among the favored pairs for the doubles, which start next week.

Cochet dominates the first section of the upper half of the draw and Wood the second, with the American youngster's chief opposition before the quarter-finals appearing in Nat Farquharson, South African Davis Cup player.

Van Ryn and Watson Washburn, veteran American internationalist, are

British Ryder Cup Team Opposed to New Ball

New York, June 17 (A.P.).—Members of the British Ryder Cup Golf Team didn't think much of the bigger and lighter American ball, but they hope for the best when they meet this country's leading professionals in the cup matches at Columbus, Ohio, June 26 and 27.

The team of ten arrived on the Aquitania last night and promptly was asked its collective opinion of the American ball, which will be used at Columbus.

"We have the handicap of wind in playing in England," said George Duncan, British veteran, who acted as temporary spokesman of the party. "We need a heavier ball. A professional golfer can adapt himself to the lighter ball, but the business man who plays the game only occasionally can not, and the result is that whenever there is any wind, golfers will have a yearning for the old ball. I myself do not believe the new ball will last more than another year."

AMERICAN YACHT BEATEN.

HAAS' CATCH SAVES GAME FOR MACKS

Earnshaw Gains 11th Straight Win, Beating Tribe, 4-2.

PHILADELPHIA, June 17 (A.P.).—A fine diving catch by Mule Haas with two on base in the ninth inning today helped the Athletics to triumph over the Cleveland Indians, 4 to 2.

Haas made his catch off Johnny Hodapp after Eddie Morgan had walked and reached third on a single by Joe Vosmik with none out. It stopped the Indians from scoring at least one more run and putting the tying tally on third.

Earnshaw, victor now in eleven straight games, helped his own cause with a double and single off Ferrell, scoring one run and driving in another. He held Cleveland to five hits, one of which was a homer by Eddie Morgan in the fourth inning.

Robins Beat Pirates, 2-0, With Clark Hero

Pittsburgh, June 17 (A.P.).—Watson Clark, Brooklyn southpaw, chalked up his second straight shutout victory today as the Robins beat the Pirates, 2 to 0, in a mound duel.

In handing the Pirates their fifth consecutive loss Clark allowed only seven hits and did not walk a man. Heine Meine, who opposed him for the first eight innings, yielded eight hits and walked four.

Doubles by Lopez and Clark gave the Robins their first run in the fourth. Gilbert's double, two passes and Wright's long fly brought in the other in the seventh.

Phil Ball Again Attacks Judge Landis' Authority

Chicago, June 17 (A.P.).—The authority of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, was attacked anew today by a major league club and its minor league farm.

Attorneys for Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis club of the American League and also owner of the Milwaukee club of the American Association, carried the fight on Landis to the circuit court of appeals.

Docketed without accompanying briefs was an appeal from the decision of Federal Judge Walter Lindsey, upholding Landis in the case involving Fred Bennett, a first baseman with Milwaukee. Judge Lindsey held that Commissioner Landis acted within his authority in declaring Bennett a free agent after St. Louis had farmed him out to the Milwaukee Brewers.

Bruen Goes Home to Miami And Helps Pari-Mutuel Bill Over the Governor's Hurdle

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The hero of the Johnstown flood probably was no more opportune savior nor a more important fellow in his own home town than Frank J. Bruen is at this writing in Miami, a place now allowed to turn legitimate largely through Mr. Bruen's subtle efforts. The very subtlety of Mr. Bruen's efforts makes it so difficult and delicate to explain them that I would rather not try, but it will outline the case to say that after the governor of the State had vetoed the pari-mutuel bill a short time ago, Mr. Bruen hurried from New York to Florida, and that a few days later the bill was passed over the veto.

The importance of this political stroke to the City of Miami was signified by the people of the place in three distinct social demonstrations, described to me by Mr. Cliff Mashier, a Miami journalist, betwen races at Belmont Park.

"The first time the bill was passed," Mr. Moshier said, "the flash brought the people into the streets in one of those armistice celebrations. It meant that the hotels would be full again next winter. It meant jobs and pleasure money, under a legal guarantee.

Will Spend Million On Track.

"There are millions of dollars tied up in the hotels, night clubs and swimming pools in Miami, and Joe Widener had said that if the Legislature wouldn't allow him to run the Hialeah racetrack with legalized pari-mutuel betting, he would close the track and plow it under. If given the law, he would spent a million dollars this year in the dull summer season, mostly on labor, improving the plant and in the next few years would develop the Miami season into the Southern equivalent of the Saratoga season in August. Please remember, racing is our only industry down there.

"Naturally, Miami wanted the bill, because Miami has about the same liberal disposition as Chicago and New York. Miami was always being tossed around in the legislature by the rural legislators from the swamps.

"So when the bill passed the first time the joy was widespread and, I might say, unconfined.

"But a few days later, when the flash came that the governor had vetoed the bill, all this joy turned to sadness and annoyance. Imagine it was like armistice night in Berlin. In two of the department stores the proprietors went through all their stocks and marked everything down 24 per cent, hoping to unload. People who had been hoping to get work catering to the crowds or rebuilding the track if the law passed, began taking long walks in training to walk a long, long way from Florida. The real estate men actually started to fold up at last, and the two Miamis became an American Alsace-Lorraine, pining whole-heartedly for restitution to the mother cities of the North.

Senate's Action Turns Sadness to Joy.

"Then Mr. Bruen appeared, not in Tallahhassee, but in Miami, and a few days later all the sadness and annoyance turned to gladness and joy once more when the legislature passed the bill over the veto. It was just as if

Browns, Victims of Four Double Plays, Nosed Out By Counter Rally, 8 to 7

NO BROWN TASTE

West's Brilliant Catch and Relay to Plate Saves Game.

16-Hit Attacks Shown by Rivals; Marberry Gets Credit.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

SHOWING the fight for which they have become noted, the Nationals yesterday ran their victory string to twelve straight and the record for their home stay to sixteen triumphs in nineteen starts by beating out the Browns, 8 to 7. Another ninth-inning rally turned the trick, with Bluege's triple breaking up the game after Dave Harris, hero in Tuesday's game, had led off with a single, and Sam Rice, who had run for him, had been forced out by West.

The Nationals had to use three pitchers and had to keep on plugging away at the slants of Walter Stewart and Dick Coffman to win. General Alvin Crowder started poorly and the Browns knicked him for three runs in the first. Later, after his mates had retrieved these runs and a few besides, he began to weaken and finally was pounded out in the eighth, when the Browns came within an ace of knotting the string.

Lloyd Brown, whom Johnson first called on, was no help, and Fred Marberry then was brought into action. It was off him that the visitors tied the score with their two-run rally in the eighth and as he was still in there when the Nats won the game in the ninth, he received credit for the victory.

Bluege, in addition to contributing the game-ending triple, had two other safeties to his credit to give him stick honors for the day.

The Nats turned in four double plays to keep the game within reach. A two-ply killing in the eighth pulled Marberry out of a tough spot after he had relieved Brown. With the bases full, West made a fine running catch of Jenkins' fly. McNeeley scored after the catch but a relay from West to Cronin to Spencer caught Grimes at the plate for the third out.

Crowder Ineffective From Start.

Crowder was ineffective when he first toed the slab and he was fortunate that the Brownies did not garner more than three runs in the opening round, a double play wiping chalk off the sacks after he had led off with a safety. Goslin then coaxed a pass and singles by Kress, Ferrell and McNeeley, and a double by Burns, followed in rat-tat-tat order. Just as Manager Johnson was on the verge of yanking the General, he ended the round by fanning Levey.

This lead stood up no longer than the third, when the Nationals knotted the string. An error by Levey gave them their start as the shortstop pegged badly on Spencer's roller, Crowder's single and Myer's bunt, which he beat out while attempting to sacrifice, filled the bases and Manush singled one home. Cronin's fly was deep enough to score Crowder and advance Myer to third and Harris' long fly to right scored the third run.

Nats Take Lead On Spencer's Hit.

In the very next frame, the Nats broke the deadlock. With one dead, Kuhel doubled to right and Spencer scored him with a one-shot to center. This run came after a second Washington double play had prevented the Browns from cashing in on singles by Goslin and McNeely in the top half of the round.

Round 6 saw each team make threatening gestures. With one dead, Burns and Levey singled in order, but Stewart rolled to Myer, who took the ball with his foot on second and a third twin-murder resulted. For the Nats, Bluege opened with a single and Crowder hit one with two dead, but both were left when Myer's best was a tap to Goslin.

Crowder retired the visitors in order in the "lucky" frame, but the Nats used their half to add two more runs to their total. Manush's opening double and Cronin's safe bunt put the runners on and Harris' double, on which he was nipped trying for an extra base, brought them home. Bluege and Kuhel singled later in the inning, but these blows were wasted.

Uprising Staged by Browns in Eighth.

It was in the eighth that the Browns finally pounded Crowder out, but for a great one-handed catch by West, which was turned into a fourth Washington double-play to end the round, the score would have been tied then and there. Cronin fumbled Kress' roller as a starter and, after Ferrell walked and McNeely singled Kress in, Brown relieved Crowder.

Grimes, hitting for Burns, singled over second, but Myer knocked down the ball and picked it up in time to get Ferrell when he rounded third too far. When Brown walked Pinch-Hitter Bettencourt, Marberry came to the rescue. O'Rourke had been named to hit for Stewart but, with the change in pitchers, Jenkins got the call. He lofted almost to the stands in center. West made a brilliant one-handed over-the-shoulder catch.

McNeely, of course, registered, but when Grimes tried to follow him all the way from second base, Cronin's good relay beat him there by a whisker.

In the ninth, the Browns knotted the string, molding two runs from doubles by Schulte and Melillo and Kress' single. Then the Nats came in from the field and packed away the verdict.

NATS DEPART FOR 17-GAME TRIP WEST

Open With Cleveland Tomorrow; 3 Twin Bills on Jaunt.

REMEMBERING the success of their last jaunt through the West and elated at their showing during the home stay which ended yesterday, the Nationals left last night for their second invasion of the other sector choc' full of confidence. Seventeen games will be played, including double-headers at Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago because of postponements during the first invasion.

No game is scheduled for today, the Nationals leaving last night instead of tonight in order that the players can get settled in their Cleveland headquarters and enjoy a good night's rest there before opening their Western campaign. The veteran, "Sad Sam" Jones, who has been complaining of a sore arm, will be ready to take the Friday's pitching assignment.

Pitcher Walter Masters, University of Pennsylvania mound ace and grid star, reported to Manager Walter Johnson yesterday after first stopping in President Clark Griffith's office and affixing his "John Hancock" to a contract. The latest Nat left Washington with the team last night, although he hardly likely will be used on the trip.

The Athletics also made a bid for Masters' services and, even though he is a Philadelphian, he decided to cast his lot here. "Well, I've looked both teams over and believe that Washington is the better," he said, in explaining why he gave the A's the go-by. Masters has been assigned No. 18 uniform.

Capt. Joe Judge reminded one of a rookie just breaking in as he boarded the rattler last night with his mates. "I'm not ready to play yet," he said, "but it would have broken my heart if they had left me behind. At that, I save Johnson lots of mental strain by taking the starting line-ups to the boss umpire before each game."

Judging from the effusive manner in which "General" Crowder was greeted by the Browns yesterday, they were mighty glad to see their former mate.

First Baseman Joe Kuhel pulled up with a stye on the lower lid of his left eye, but it did not prevent him from playing yesterday.

The Nats died on three pops in their first round, Levey taking the first two.

Dave Harris, whose screaming triple broke up Tuesday's hectic game in favor of the Nats, was given a great hand when he made his first appearance at the tee in the second. He showed his appreciation by singling cleanly to left for the Nats' first hit of the day.

Myer's bunt, while attempting to sacrifice in the third, was perfect, going as a hit and filling the bases when Burns had to leave first to field it, and the runner beat Stewart to the bag.

Schulte went back almost to the stands in center for Cronin's looper in the fifth.

Stewart hit West's bat in Round 5 and, had the player not been so surprised and started running immediately, he would have gotten a hit on the tap to Kress which resulted.

Kuhel thought he had a hit on his attempted sacrifice in the sixth, when Umpire Guthrie ruled that Kress had touched the ball before it finally rolled foul. He left the decision up to Dineen, though, and the latter ruled there had been no interference and Kuhel was brought back to the tee.

Al Singer Favorite In Comeback Match

New York, June 17 (U.P.).—Al Singer, of New York, former world lightweight champion, will make his comeback debut in a ten-round bout against Lew Massey, of Philadelphia, at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Singer is quoted as a 7-to-5 favorite.

SCHMELING FACES LONG LAY-OFF HANDICAP AT CLEVELAND

Teuton Needs 1929 Form In Battle

Few Remember Slashing Wins Over Paulino and Risko.

Jacobs Won Title for German by Coolness at Sharkey Bout.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

CHICAGO, June 17 (U.P.).—Max Schmeling, of Germany, is in training at Conneaut Lake Park, Pa., for the first defense of the heavyweight title he had bestowed upon him when Jack Sharkey got reckless with his left uppercuts in the ring at Yankee Stadium, New York, last June.

The Sharkey-Schmeling bout ended in the fourth round and the German had lost every round until he won unexpectedly on a foul.

There was a time, however, when Schmeling had all the earmarks of a great fighter, but that has been so long ago most every one has forgotten it, except perhaps little Joe Jacobs, the man with the cigar in his mouth.

It was really Jacobs who won the title for Schmeling. Referee Jimmy Crowley probably would have awarded the fight to Sharkey by a knockout, if Jacobs hadn't kept shouting in his ear:

"The judge says it's foul."

Harold Barnes, the judge sitting in a position to see the blow, did call it foul, but Referee Crowley had to ask him three times before he believed it.

Jacobs Kept His Head.

While every one else lost his head, Jacobs thought of the two things that won the fight. While he kept Crowley from giving the fight to Sharkey, he also kept Schmeling in his corner when the bell rang for the fifth round.

"Don't let him out of that corner. He's hurt too bad to continue," Jacobs yelled at his assistant handlers as he raced around the ring with Crowley.

So Jacobs won the title for Schmeling, and now the German has to prove his right to it against Young Stribling, of Georgia, at Cleveland July 3.

Those who saw Schmeling knock out Johnny Risko in February, 1929, or slash Paolino Uzcudun to pieces in fifteen rounds in June the same year know that Schmeling at one time could fight, but in almost two years the German has had less than four rounds of actual ring warfare. In all his career he has had only 52 bouts, and most of them can be tossed out because his opponents were foreign setups before he came to this country.

Schmeling Seemed to Lose Interest.

After Schmeling got the foul verdict he seemed to lose interest in the ring. He hurried off to Berlin, and when he did return to this country he went off on an exhibition tour which made him more enemies than friends.

Contact with Schmeling doesn't impress one that he is interested in the fight game any more. His press agent writes of him:

"Schmeling will startle the folks with his fine, vibrant personality, intelligence, honesty, humor and ability to make and hold friends."

Notice, he never said anything about Schmeling's ability to whip Young Stribling or make an impression with his left hook.

"The big Teuton is a combination Dempsey-Tunney in his life out of the ring," the P. A. says further. "His Dempsey attributes are his restlessness, desire for constant travel, penchant for jokes, love of amusement, his simple, unaffected ways, desire for costly, correctly tailored clothes.

Has Many Tunney Attributes.

"His Tunney attributes are careful training of the body, self-denial, strict observance of training rules and choice of companions. Schmeling, although he detests to mention the fact, knows Shakespeare better than Tunney."

Emphasis on the combination Dempsey-Tunney out of the ring. Actually Schmeling does look a lot like Dempsey, and he is a counter puncher on the order of Tunney.

But Schmeling doesn't seem to be quite good enough to box less than four rounds in two years, and then whip the Stribling who knocked out Otto Von Porat in one round and Phil Scott in two. If he can he's been under-rated all along the line.

Conneaut Lake Park, June 17 (U.P.).—Six rounds of sparring ended in a bloody finger for Max Schmeling and several gorey noses for his stablemates in the champion's daily workout today.

After stepping two rounds each with three opponents, Schmeling took off his gloves and blood trickled from between the thumb and first finger He was dramatically hastened to a physician for an examination. The wound was a golf injury reopened by his thumping exercises.

Czechoslovakia Gains European Net Finals

Copenhagen, Denmark, June 17 (A. P.).—Czechoslovakia today won its way to the finals of Davis Cup play in the European zone by defeating Denmark in the doubles match to make the series score three matches to none and assuring victory.

After winning the two singles yesterday, R. Menzel and Jan Morsalek today ran through Einar Ulrich and Erik Worm, the Denmark team, in the doubles, 9—7, 1—6, 6—3, 6—0.

Czechoslovakia will meet England in the European zone finals for the right to play the United States in the interzone finals at Paris next month.

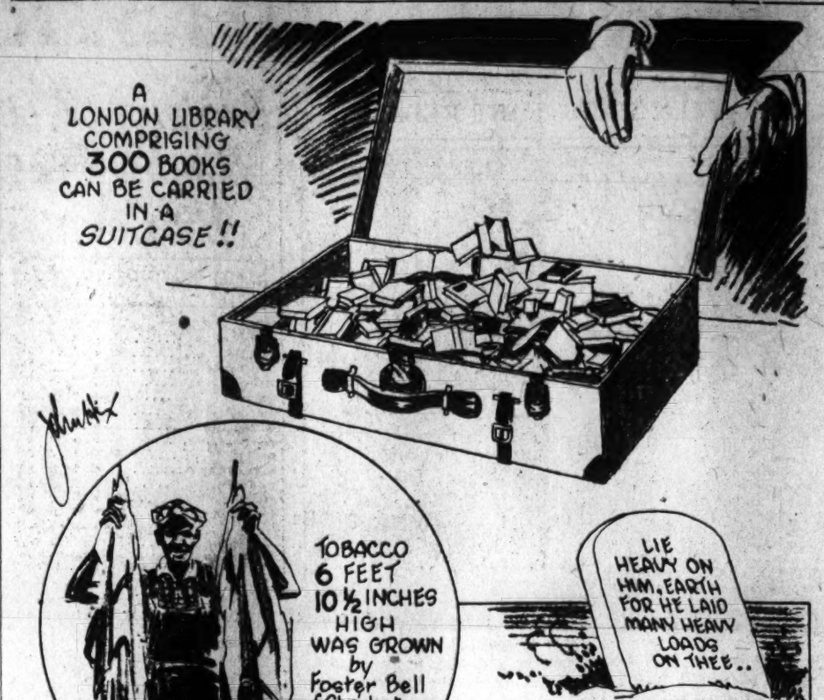
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix



THE smallest library in the world was recently sold in London for $400. A copy of the New Testament, measuring but 11-16 by 9-16 of an inch, was included in the library. The entire set of 300 volumes fits snugly in an ordinary size suit case.

Peggy, the 9-month-old Toy Pomeranian, is claimed to be the smallest full-grown dog in the world. It would take over 255 dogs the size of Peggy to equal the weight of Maurprat, a huge St. Bernard.

Any reader wanting further proof of anything depicted here should address the author, care of The Washington Post, and enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply.

—Washington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

WASHINGTON PARK, Chicago, June 17.—Two events to be decided under allowance conditions, one for 2-year-olds and the other for 3-year-olds and upward, will feature the Washington Park program today. In the juvenile number, nine leading youngsters have been entered, with PROTEUS, ADOBE POST and MARCASITE as the three outstanding contestants.

SNOWFLAKE, JOEY BIBB and BROWN WISDOM will match strides with twelve others in the 7-furlong dash of the Apron Strings purse for 3-year-olds and upward.

In the Apron Strings, fifth on the card, W. J. Salmon's highly regarded SNOWFLAKE, fresh from her Belmont Park engagements, is favored to annex the feature. This filly showed a return to her best form when she finished second to Erin Queen in a keenly fought battle. Stepping the mile distance in 1:36 3-5, the Salmon filly has only to repeat that effort to enter the winner's circle. JOEY BIBB, has displayed consistent form in previous starts and appears ready to contest the issue. The show portion of the purse should go to BROWN WISDOM. This speedster is rounding to form and should furnish stern opposition.

The 2-year-old event, secondary feature, to be run as the third race, brings together an evenly matched band of juveniles to battle it out over the five and a half furlong distance. A Pelleter's highly regarded youngster, PROTEUS, despite his impost of 118 pounds is selected to show the way to his eight rivals. ADOBE POST and MARCASITE are closely rated but the former has the best of the weights and should finish in the runner-up position. PRINCE HOTSPUR is an outside possibility.

FIRST RACE—ESCOBA LAND has raced well at this track and appears best of this poor lot. MAILLIW turned in some splendid efforts at Aurora and is capable of extending the top one. BOTTLED BOURBON has trained briskly for his campaign and may finish closer than third.

SECOND RACE—FOX BOLT, from the Peterson-Jeferta establishment, has been scratched several times, awaiting a spot, and appears admirably placed in this event. Chief opposition should come from ROMANY RAW. SILVER LAKE, the show selection, scored impressively in his last start and must be given consideration.

FOURTH RACE—DARK SEA, from the H. M. Woolf Stable, a double winner at this track, should show the way to his opponents. NOSTAW is favored to force the pace, with TRY IT selected to hold the others safe.

SIXTH RACE—WEE DROP appears a stand-out in the mile and an eighth of the sixth event. This consistent A. A. Baroni filly did not relish the heavy going last start, but should score easily over the fast strip. LAURA NEGLEY has raced well over a route, but does not figure to catch the top one. However, the Mrs. Simmons filly should save the place, with KLAIR third.

SEVENTH RACE—In the final event on the card, a gallop over the mile and a quarter route, twenty of the older horses will contest the purse. DODGSON has the speed of this band of platers and figures to score. WORKLESS will favor the fast track and should furnish the opposition. DEVON appears best of the others for the minor award.

MANOR CLUB MEDAL WON BY PITT

the six strokes which he expended on the eleventh hole, a par 3, because his mashie shot carried the ball far over the green into the woods beyond.

The fact that scores of 88 qualified in the fifth sixteen was largely due to the trouble which players unacquainted with the course experienced on the nine holes which have been carved out of a forest. The fairways are more or less closely bordered by trees and at times the rattle of the balls against the trunks and branches resembled machine guns in action. No one, not even Pitt, played this nine in par. Nearly every golfer who failed to turn in his score, and these withdrawals constituted a large majority, laid the blame of his failure upon the woods, disregarding the fact that if they had kept their balls in the fairway they would not have been compelled to go roaming through the trees.

The pairings and times of play this morning are as follows:

FIRST SIXTEEN.

9:45, Harry G. Pitt, 72, Manor, vs. John C. Holzberg, 79, Columbia; 9:50, W. R. McCallum, 78, Washington, vs. Volney Burnett, 80, Beaver Dam; vs. Thomas B. Wooten, 78, Atlantic City C. C.; vs. H. L. SHIELDS AND WOOD SEEDED IN TOURNEY

in the third section, while Fred Perry, England's young Davis Cup star, appears to have clear sailing through the fourth section.

In the lower half of the draw, Borotra has no serious challenger in the first quarter, but Jiro Satoh, the seeded player in the second section, has as competitive company Lott and Mangin, Virgil Kirby, the South African Lyttleton-Rogers, the Irishman, and H. G. N. Lee, all good enough to give any player in the tournament an argument.

In the third section with Shields are P. D. B. Spence and J. S. Olin, while H. W. (Bunny) Austin, England's ranking star, heads the players in the fourth bracket. With Austin are Hiro Satoh, another of the Japanese Davis Cup players; Jacques Brugnon, the French internationalist, and H. K. Lester.

MARTINEZ AND WALKER WIN TENNIS LEAGUE DOUBLES TITLES

2-Set Match Annexed by Favorites

Kingsbury and Raver Are Defeated at Columbia.

Martinez's Drives and Walker's Volleys Best Chops.

MRS. RUTH MARTINEZ and Frances Walker, finalists in the singles, combined as a team yesterday to win the doubles championship of the Women's District Tennis League, on the courts of Columbia Country Club, defeating Dorothy Kingsbury and Cecyle Raver in straight sets, 6—2, 6—3.

Excepting for a slight period in the second set, when Miss Kingsbury struck her best form of the match and cracked the ball frequently for placements against the favorites, Mrs. Martinez and Frances Walker won as they pleased, holding their services without undue trouble, and breaking through their opponents almost at will.

Making use of a "one up and one back" combination, the winners presented the paragon of back-court drivers in Mrs. Martinez, and perhaps the city's best volleyer in Frances Walker. It was a system which stifled every would-be rally on the part of the losers.

Champions Reach Best Form.

The Martinez-Walker combination reached their best form of the tournament in the final match. Mrs. Martinez was a gem of consistency in her driving and Miss Walker stood ready and frequently did finish off the shots at the net.

The match brought together three styles of play as far apart in execution as possible. Mrs. Martinez made use of topspin backcourt drives; Frances Walker of hard hit undercutting and volleying, and the team of Kingsbury and Raver, of conservative backcourt chopping.

The winners were presented with silver comports, while compacts were the prizes for the runner-up pair. The match brought to a close one of the most successful tournaments in the league's 15-year-old history. The committee in charge was headed by Mrs. H. Clay Thompson.

Federal and Commercial Win in Bankers' Tennis

Federal-American and Commercial got off to rousing starts in the Bankers Tennis League yesterday afternoon on the courts at Potomac Park. Federal-American defeating District National, three matches to none, and Commercial turning the same trick with Columbia on the losing end.

Washington Loan & Trust won three matches by default from Riggs.

Callan (Federal-American) defeated Willoughby, 6—2, 6—4; Linzer (Federal-American) defeated Mullen, 6—2, 6—4. Callan and Linzer defeated Willoughby and Mullen, 6—2, 7—5.

Scott (Commercial) defeated Kaincross, 6—3, 3—6, 6—1; Glasser (Commercial) defeated Bolling, 6—4, 6—3. Scott and Glasser defeated Kaincross and Bolling, 6—1, 6—2.

Riggs defaulted to Washington Loan & Trust.

Mate Shows Speedy Workout for Derby

Homewood, Ill., June 17 (U.P.).—A. C. Bostwick's Preakness winner, Mate, favorite for the $50,000 American Derby at Washington Park Saturday, turned in an excellent mile workout at the race track here today. He covered the distance in 1:41 3-5 and appeared eager to run at the end.

Judging from the result of the derby trial yesterday, the handsome son of PrincePal—Killashandra will have little to fear from the Western contingent in Saturday's classic.

Present indications are that the Bostwick colt will go to the post no more than an even-money favorite and o ntrials and past performances of the prospective candidates this price seems justified.

Among other candidates to work out today Keneshaw covered a mile in 1:43 handily and Prince d'Amour went the distance in 1:44 1-5 under a mild drove.

Motorcycle Racing, Polo Planned at Seabrook, Md.

Motorcycle racing and motorcycle polo will soon be available to Washington fans.

The Rig-Ana Motorcycle Club has acquired the use of a large tract of land in Seabrook, Md., which it intends to develop for motorcycle sports. The tract contains a broad and level field which affords ample room for a one-half-mile track. According to Mr. Ekstrom, president of the club, who is considered an authority on motorcycle sports, the ground is unusually well suited for track purposes.

The center of the field will be laid off as a polo ground and will be used also for the many other sports which the club intends to stage in the near future. The tract will also be the site of the new clubhouse which this group plans to erect.

Besides its present headquarters in Hyattsville the club maintains a private hill-climbing course near the old Riggs Mill.

Owing to the great interest in motorcycling around Washington, the club has grown rapidly since its organization this spring. The newest members to be taken in are Chickie Allen, Walter Lingebach and Chris Paris, all of this city.

Sendel, D. C. Netman, Wins in Delaware

Wilmington, Del., June 17.—Frederico Sendel, former Mexican Davis Cup player, and now a resident of Washington, D. C., advanced to the third round of the Delaware State grass court championship here today, defeating Tom Nicely, of Swarthmore, 6—1, 6—4.

Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Tex., led a field of 90 players into the quarter final round, beating Ed Ramsauer, of Wilmington, by default; George Crowe, 6—1, 6—4; Lou Kurland, of Baltimore, 6—3, 6—3, and Lenoir Wright, of the University of North Carolina, 6—1, 6—2, in the only fourth round match of the day.

Wilmer Allison, Bruce Barnes, Bryant Grant and Wilbur (Junior) Coen, all seeded players, advanced through the third round without trouble. Allison defeated Howard McMorris, of the University of Pennsylvania, 6—2, 6—3, in the second round, and late in the day advanced to the fourth round on a default by Willard New, of Baltimore.

Barnes put out Meade Fletcher, Philadelphia, 6—3, 6—3, and then was forced to the limit to stow away J. M. Case, University of Pennsylvania, 6—1, 3—6, 6—3. Grant defeated F. S. Sendel, Baltimore, 6—3, 6—2. Coen scored a double victory, defeating Martin Buxby, University of Texas, 6—2, 6—1, and H. S. Senkin, Philadelphia, 6—2, 6—1.

2 Washington Women Win at Gibson Island

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 17.—With few exceptions the favorites reignedsupreme in the first round of match play at the Gibson Island golf tournament today. Two of the four Washington women still remain in the championship flight. Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, of Indian Spring, the medalist, won easily from Mrs. W. S. Edgerton, Baltimore Country Club, 9 and 8. In a 1-up match, Mrs. Alma Van Steinner, Beaver Dam, defeated her clubmate, Mrs. Ora Enge.

Mrs. Stephen F. Colladay, Columbia, was eliminated by the defending champion, Mrs. W. Fairfield Peterson, Green Spring Valley Hunt Club, 2 and 1. The latter was three down at the end of the third, but she pulled out. Their drives were about equal, but Mrs. Peterson excelled on the greens.

Tomorrow Mrs. Meckley will play Miss Anne Cochran, Elkridge, and Mrs. Van Steinner will oppose Miss Elizabeth Janney, Green Spring Valley.

In the second sixteen, Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, Chevy Chase, downed Miss Virginia Watts, Elkridge, 6 and 5. Mrs. D. Lawler, of Washington, lost to Mrs. S. P. Nelson, Gibson Island, by the same score, also in this flight.

Alexandria Sports

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 17.—Word has been received from the management of the Washington Red Sox that they will be unable to meet the Del Ray Athletic Club in a game scheduled for the Red Birds Field on Sunday.

Bill Jenkins' club has a contest booked for Martinsburg, W. Va., and has asked for a postponement in the Del Ray tussle.

Manager Ted Miller, of the Del Rayans, will get busy immediately and book some other strong team from Washington or vicinity for Sunday's tussle here.

The Columbia Fire Company Baseball Team will travel to Fort Humphreys Sunday for a game with the post team.

Capt. Gillie Lee has called an important practice for Friday on Haydon's Field at 5 o'clock. He wants all players to report. Lee is hunting for a shortstop and pitcher. Candidates for these jobs are requested to report to him.

An important drill has been called by Coach Art Ludlow for the St. Mary's Celtics on Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in Baggett's Stadium.

Next Sunday, Corbett's club will mix with the Washington Terminal nine. This is one of the feature attractions.

The pistol team of Fort Humphreys will meet the Washington Pistol Club in a special match at Humphreys this afternoon. Lieut. Rumaggi is leader of the Humphreys team.

The Alexander Braves will meet the Senators on Haydon's Field Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The Braves have copped their last two starts. Teams seeking games are requested to phone Alex. 2502.

Manager Sam De Vaughan, of the Cardinals, is after a game with some Washington club for Sunday. He states the Cards will practice Thursday on Haydon's Field from 5 to 7 o'clock.

MARINE NINE WINS OVER SOLDIERS

Fort Washington 11-2 Victim in Battle at Quantico.

Special to The Washington Post.

QUANTICO, Va., June 17.—The Quantico Marines had little trouble winning from the Doughboys from Fort Washington here today by the score of 12 to 2. The Soldiers arrived in Quantico with about 300 rooters and there was some real old-fashioned rooting until the last Soldier was out.

Bill McWilliams, a newcomer on the Marine team, started on the hill for the Marines and gave way to Hank Henry, the former All-Marines hurler, who was hurt after winning three straight for the All-Marine team. Hank has just beenout of the hospital a few days and Coach Fenton decided to let him flig a couple of innings for the work-out.

Coach Fenton pitched the two last innings and the Doughboys were unable to get his spitter out of the infield.

Mayer and Weaver pitched for Fort Washington. Surrett and Reap lead the Marine hitters, and Mayer got half of the Doughboys' four hits. The Marines leave for Norfolk tomorrow morning on a four-day trip. They will meet Fort Monroe, Langley Field and Fort Eustis while in the South.

ORANGE BOOSTERS WIN.

Special to The Washington Post.

Orange, Va., June 17.—Byrd Smith and his Orange County Boosters, a team made up of players from all over Orange County, avenged their loss to Alberene last Monday by shutting out the Rapidan Marines from President Hoover's camp here today, 6 to 0. Smith allowed only two hits and struck out twelve.

None of the Marines got as far as third base and only two reached second. Only 29 of them came to bat.

"Ole Whittling Stick" Bared As U. S. Rifle Team Charm

Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

The mysterious powers of the U. S. Rifle Team's whittling stick are being explained to Miss Peggy Dowd, of the National Rifle Association by officials of the team. Left to right: Ralph H. McGarity, of Washington, adjutant; Maj. Julian S. Hatcher, ordnance department, U. S. A., captain; Miss Dowd and Ensign Harry N. Renshaw, U. S. Coast Guard, who is coach of the team.

Integrity of Legend at Stake July 10 in British Match.

THE "Ole Whittling Stick," emblematic of the minds of the U. S. Rifle team as the bringer of every bit of good luck the team has enjoyed since 1922, was taken out of the mothballs yesterday at Quantico, Va., and exposed once more to the quick-edged blades of the officers.

The team will assemble at Frankford Arsenal, Philadelphia, Monday, there to embark for an international match at Bisley, England, July 10.

The "Ole Whittling Stick," some the worse for its years of service, is being importuned again, as it has been since 1922. The two times the team has lost since that year is povially accredite to the absence of the stick in question. Once it was mislaid and once it inadvertantly returned to the United States with an ailing marksman before the day of the match.

Maj. Julian S. Hatcher, Ordnance Department, U. S. Army, will lead the team abroad this year. Ralph H. McGarity, of this city, is adjutant of the outfit and Ensign Harry N. Renshaw, U. S. Coast Guard, is coach of the small-bore squad.

Dor-A Game Ordered Replayed by League

At a meeting held in the District Building last night, the protest board of the Capital City League ordered that the game between the Dor-A Juniors of Hyattsville and the Schwartz Jewelers, played at Magruder Park June 7, be replayed. The order followed a protest received by the board from the manager of the Schwartz Team concerning upholding of the ground rules enacted for the game.

The game will be declared no contest and the date for the replay announced at a later date through the columns of The Post.

National Pin Tourney At Norfolk in 1932

Norfolk, Va., June 17 (A.P.).—The fifth annual tournament of the National Duckpin Bowling Congress next year will be held in Norfolk in March, it was announced today. Boston and Hartford were other cities considered by the executive committee of the body at its meeting here last night.

LEACH, OF GIANTS, HURT.

Toledo, Ohio, June 17 (A.P.).—The New York Giants lost the services of Freddy Leach, outfielder, when he was injured today during an exhibition game between the Giants and the Toledo Club of the American Association.

Leach wrenched his left knee and had to be assisted from the field. He probably will be out of the game for several days.

LURAY NINE WINS.

Coming from behind with a two-run rally in the sixth inning, the Luray Baseball Club, of Luray, Va., yesterday upset the strong Front Royal All-Stars in a well-played game by a 4-3 count. Divel, of the winners, allowed his opponents only six well-scattered blows.

DIXIE MEDAL WINNER BEATEN

Oakes Beats Horner; Spicer and Howell in Victories.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 17 (A.P.).—Scudday Horner, the young medalist from Nashville, found the end of the trail today but other favorites, including the defending champion from Memphis, Emmett Spicer, won their way into the championship flight match play tomorrow in the Southern Amateur Golf Tournament here.

Horner, whose 71 yesterday won medal honors in the qualifying round over the Riverview course, today lost two and one to Wilbur Oakes, in a selective round match that went to the seventeenth green before the Chattanoogan could putt out a victory.

Oakes, whose father is professional at this club, was off to a fast lead, standing three up through the fifth hole. Horner won the ninth and made the turn two down. Oakes was out in 40 and Scudday in 44. Both shot better golf coming in, with Oakes only one above perfect figures.

Horner's main trouble came in his approaches, which generally were short or wide of the green. Both Scudday and Wilbur three-putted several greens.

Spicer Goes Out In Par 36.

Spicer, after a day's lay-off during the qualifying round, fired a par 36 on the out nine today and won his match three and two from J. C. Lazard, New Orleans, except for a missed one-foot putt on the ninth Spicer would have had a deuce here and a 35 out.

Sam Perry, the 1929 titlist from Birmingham, came through his first match with a 4 and 3 win over Ed Elmore, Chattanooga, and Polly Boyd, Tennessee State champion, of Chattanooga, won from Charles Brumley, Atlanta, by the same score. Perry and Boyd meet tomorrow in the first round match play of the championship flight.

Spicer faces Ewing Watkins, Chattanooga, who today defeated W. S. Campbell, Memphis, 3 and 1. Jack Toomer, the Florida amateur king from Jacksonville, eliminated Carl Lenkart, of Louisville, 4 and 3.

Erwin Daxton, Charlotte, shot nine consecutive fours on the first nine, but was carried to the eighteenth green to defeat Tony Scheffer, Nashville, 1 up.

Billy Howell, the young Richmond threat, safely jumped his first engagement by downing John Thames, Birmingham, 4 and 3.

Alan Smith, Asheville, won from Alan Leake, 2 up.

Tomorrow's pairings send Daxton against Charles Yates, Atlanta; Barden Hampton, Chattanooga, against Howell, and Frank Sitz, Gadsden, against Smith.

KID CHOCOLATE WINNER.

White Plains, N. Y., June 17 (A.P.).—Kid Chocolate, Cuban featherweight, decisively outpointed Maxie Lenier, of New York in a ten-round bout here tonight. The Cuban floored his opponent for counts of eight in the first and second rounds, then coasted to an easy victory. Chocolate weighed 128 pounds; Leiner, 132½.

STOCK PRICES DRIFT LOWER ON LIGHT DAY

Turnover Is Smallest Since July 26, 1926; Rail Group Depressed.

New York, June 17 (A.P.).—Stocks got a taste of prebull market dullness today, drifting slowly lower in a turnover of approximately 900,000 shares, the smallest for a five-hour session since July 26, 1926.

The carrier group was depressed by the unfavorable situation depicted by the petition for higher freight rates, particularly the disclosure of deferred maintenance. Many of the points made by the roads in their application for relief were already known, and the market was doubtless influenced by the knowledge that even with prompt consideration by the commission some time must elapse before the assistance requested could be granted.

Extreme declines of 1 to 5 points in the rail stocks found other groups sympathetically heavy, although too much importance could not be placed on the action of the general list because of the extreme inactivity. A rally in the afternoon reduced the earlier losses, but fresh pressure against Westinghouse, which duplicated its 1924 low of 55½, brought on a recurrence of easiness. The average decline was nearly a point and a half.

Mark Is Stronger.

Reports that leading central banks of the world were working to help the Reichsbank in its problems, although unverified, found the mark stronger, above the dollar gold point. The Reichsbank's holdings of gold dropped about $130,000,000 in the last week, evidence of the strenuous efforts to support the currency.

Meanwhile, the decrease in gold earmarked for foreign account at the local Federal Reserve Bank continues, today's drop being nearly $10,000,000, and metal is still coming in. A few weeks ago an attempt was made to forestall gold receipts here by lowering the rediscount rate, but after only a temporary lull the tide resumed its flow, and any firming of money rates over the next few months now seems highly improbable.

Steel ingot production has broken the 40 per cent level and is estimated at 38 per cent of rated capacity. Trade reviews anticipate a further reaction, possibly to the December low, before signs of seasonal recovery appear. The May trade figures were not particularly stimulating, for the favorable balance was reduced to $23,000,000 and the percentage losses from a year ago were considerable. Electric power production made an unfavorable comparison with the second week of June, 1930.

Rails Lose Heavily.

The largest net losses in the share market were found in the rail division. Atchison and Union Pacific gave up 4 points, New York Central 3, Norfolk & Western, Baltimore & Ohio, Lehigh Valley and Illinois Central 2 and Nickel Plate 9½, the last named on small sales. On the other hand, the preferred issues of Missouri-Kansas-Texas and St. Louis Southwestern were strong. Kansas City Southern preferred jumped 3 points as the dividend on the common was cut to a $2 basis, from $5. Westinghouse's net loss was 3¼ points. American Can, U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Bethlehem, Loews, International Telephone and McKeesport were off 1 to 1½. General Motors was steady. Anaconda, General Electric, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Sears Roebuck eased fractionally.

Wheat closed mostly higher, although June was half a cent off. A bullish Government weather report, unfavorable North Dakota advices and an improved export demand were factors. Net changes in corn are nominal, while cotton sagged 5 to 8 points.

Foreign exchanges were mixed. Gold exports from Montreal firmed the Canadian dollar, while the mark gained about a point. Sterling and the French franc were slightly easy.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 17 (A.P.).—Indications that Canada's wheat yield this season would be the scantiest ever known turned wheat prices upward today, but American harvest reports acted as an offset. Extremely high temperatures, 100 and above, were noted both in Canadian and American spring wheat territory, with drought unabated. However, cutting of winter wheat was announced as having begun in this country's chief producing State, Kansas, with yields outdoing expectation.

Wheat closed irregular, ½ cent lower to ½ cent gain, unchanged to ½ cent advance; oats, unchanged, and provisions showing 2 cents to 5 cents gain.

Wheat met with free selling on all price bulges, the movement of newly harvested domestic winter wheat giving evidence of increasing rapidly hereafter. Dispatches from Salina, Kans., said binders were at work in that district with returns showing 20 bushels an acre, compared with the official Kansas forecast of about 14 bushels. Some of the new wheat from the Southwest was already offered to Chicago. Another bearish influence was rain in Pacific Coast wheat regions, where severe dry conditions have prevailed.

Extremely bullish wheat crop estimates from Canada were received. The Canadian growers' pool reported wheat growth in the prairie provinces as but 70 per cent of normal, against 86 a year ago. Simultaneously, trade authorities figured Canada's 1931 wheat yield at 226,000,000 to 236,000,000 bushels, compared with 376,000,000 harvested last year. Western North Dakota and eastern Montana also reported wheat in low condition. Export demand for wheat from North America remained small.

Corn was in demand from previous speculative sellers, but price upturns brought about a notable increase of country offerings. Oats were held down by optimistic crop reports.

Provisions went higher with hog values. Closing indemnities:

FOREIGN BONDS GAIN AS MARKET RALLIES

Recovery of Railway Issues Features Trading; Industrials Close Higher.

New York, June 17 (A.P.).—Bond quotations were somewhat irregular today, but the undertone of the market was firm and sentiment was helped by strong rallies in many foreign issues, particularly those of German origin. Trading was light, sales being slightly in excess of $9,000,000.

The German Government 7s rose 1⅞ net while the 5½s were up 2¾ at the close. Bank issues and some of the provincials and municipals were equally strong. Obligations of Chile features the Latin Americans, although the gains were made in light dealings.

One of the day's features was the recovery made by St. Louis, San Francisco and St. Louis Southern bonds. The 4½s of the former road jumped 3 points on news that final details for the refunding of the July 1 maturities were nearing completion. It is expected that there will be no public offering of the new bonds. The cotton belt 4s of 1932 closed 5½ points higher while the 5s of 1952 were up 3.

Several domestic industrials took an encouraging spurt. Armour 5½s, Otis Steel 6s, Walworth 6s and Phillips Petroleum 5½s were prominent, although trading was not particularly active.

High grade rails were about steady, and there was little change in most of the important utilities. Several second grade carrier issues, notably the Erie and Missouri Pacifics, firmed. Nickel Plate 5½s closed virtually a point higher.

Changes in U. S. Governments were narrow. The Treasury 3¼s touched a new high since their listing on the stock exchange last Monday.

Steel Output Drops To 38 Per Cent of Run

New York, June 17 (A.P.).—Steel production continues to decline and has dropped 2 more points, to 38 per cent of capacity, said today's weekly trade reviews.

"Barring unforeseen development," reported Iron Age, "further declines in operations now seem unavoidable, with the possibility that the low levels of last December will be reached before the end of July." Steel said that although on a seasonal basis there was no warrant for expecting improvement in demand or production for the next two months, "sentiment in the steel industry is distinctly more buoyant."

St. L. & S. F. Plans To Refund Its Bonds

New York, June 17 (A.P.).—Final details for the refunding of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Co.'s $9,342,000 bond maturity on July 1 were discussed today at a special meeting of the directorate attended by bankers' representatives. It was expected an announcement of the new offering would be made later. The maturing bonds are general mortgage 5s and 6s.

It is believed the banking group underwriting the new issue will be Dillon, Read & Co. and Chase Securities Corporation. Speyer & Co. have been previously bankers for the road.

22 Is Annual Average Of District's Drownings

Figures compiled by Capt. L. I. H. Edwards, statistical expert of the Police Department, indicate that an average of 22 persons are drowned every year in waters in and contiguous to the District of Columbia.

The average was calculated from figures gathered from records kept during the last ten years. One hundred and seventy-five persons have met water deaths since January 1, 1923. Eleven persons have been drowned so far this year, it was said. Several of these were not in the accidental class, having been termed suicides by coroner's juries.

FRANK GERLACH'S FUNERAL

Body of High Diver Killed Here Taken to Pittsburgh Home.

Funeral services and interment of Frank Gerlach, 24 years old, who was killed while performing in a high-diving act here Monday night, will take place in Pittsburgh, Pa., his home, where the body was sent yesterday.

Gerlach, who did his act under the name of Calreg, miscalculated his plunge from a 60-foot diving platform and crashed into the side of the tank underneath. He died before he could be taken to Casualty Hospital, where doctors who examined him said that the death was caused by fracture of the spine.

Wagon Fall Injures Child.

James Dolan, 7 years old, was cut about the head yesterday when he topped from his coaster wagon while at play with his friend, Robert Heitmuller, of 1216 Shepherd street northwest. The accident happened in the rear of James' home, 4006 Thirteenth street northwest. Children's Hospital doctors treated James.

Planes Collide; One Pilot Dies.

Tokyo, June 17 (A.P.).—A Japanese naval aviation pilot was killed today when his plane collided in midair with another during a practice flight. The other pilot landed safely in a parachute. Both planes plunged into the sea.

Bee-Catching Contest Set Saturday in Maryland

Expert Who Bottles Largest Number With Bare Hands, Without Getting Stung, Will Win Coveted Title Now Held by Centerville Man.

Maryland beekeepers will hold their annual bee catching contest Saturday, in connection with the annual meeting of the Maryland State Beekeepers Association, at the bee-culture laboratory of the Department of Agriculture at Somerset, according to an announcement by James I. Hambleton, director of the laboratory.

The bee-catching contest will be the chief feature of the morning session. The object is to catch as many bees as possible with the bare hands without getting stung and to keep them captive in a large-mouthed bottle. The keeper who catches the most wins the contest. The trouble with the whole thing is that the bees can't seem to distinguish beween bee catchers and onlookers. Several newspapermen were stung last year while covering the affair. Howard Johnson, of Centerville, who won the contest last year, is expected to be on hand to defend his title.

Besides the contests, a business session will be held, at which talks will be given by the following well-known authorities on the subject of bees and their care: Dr. C. L. Farrar, of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, Mass., who will talk on "The Honey Bee and Pollination;" M. Haydak, of Ukraine, who will tell of beekeeping methods in Europe; A. L. Freeland, of Dunkirk, N. Y., who will tell how bees put him through college; George E. Marvin, of the bee culture laboratory, who will talk on "New Developments in the Use of Honey."

A second contest will be the smoke contest, in which each keeper will be given a specified amount of wet sawdust and matches. The one who generates the greatest amount of smoke will win. Prizes are queen bees for the winners and membership in the Apis Club, international beekeepers' organization, with headquarters in London.

Judges for the two contests will be Prof. E. N. Cory, G. J. Abrams and J. H. Roberts, all of the University of Maryland. Officers of the association are: Howard Johnson, president, and E. N. Cory, secretary. A picnic lunch on the grounds of the laboratory will feature the noon recess.

U. S. CHARGES PITTS SECRETED MILLIONS

Prosecutors Seek Court of Appeals Refusal to Allow Bail.

Charging that G. Bryan Pitts has secreted a fund estimated at between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000 and that he has acquired "great holdings" of foreign bonds, Nugent Dodds and Neil Burkinshaw, who successfully prosecuted the former head of the F. H. Smith Co., yesterday opposed in the District Court of Appeals the granting of an appeal bond that would free Pitts.

After pointing out that Pitts stands sentenced to serve fourteen years in the penitentiary, the Government lawyers show that he is now indicted for four felonies, and that Pitts has asserted that he will "somehow escape service of sentence in a penitentiary."

The charge is made that it would be contrary to public interest to admit Pitts to bail pending the outcome of his appeal from conviction. "His entire course of conduct prior and subsequent to trial evinces a determination to block and impede the due administration of justice by fabrication of evidence, concealment of material witnesses and subordination of perjury, which conduct on the whole makes doubtful the likelihood of Pitts appearing when directed to abide the mandate or order of this or any other court of the District of Columbia," the Government charged.

Workhouse Term Started by Haynes

Former Banker Is Taken to Occoquan After Delay at Jail.

With a score of other prisoners, Harry V. Haynes, convicted former head of the Farmers & Mechanics Bany yesterday was taken to Occoquan to begin serving his sentence. His trip to the workhouse had been delayed because the commitment papers had not reached the District Jail.

Haynes was convicted on an indictment that contained fourteen counts. He threw himself on the mercy of the court last Friday and Justice Peyton Gordon sentenced him to serve four years and six months on each of the fourteen counts.

The sentences were allowed to run concurrently and Haynes will be eligible for parole in eighteen months. He is now 55 years old. The indictment charged him with abstractions, false entries and misapplications of funds.

Thespians to Be Guests At Church Party Tonight

An open air festival sponsored by the Transfiguration Episcopal Church will be opened tonight on the church grounds at Fourteenth and Gallatin streets northwest, with Clifford Brooke and Miss Roberta Beatty, of the National Theater Players, as honor guests.

The festival, which will also be held tomorrow night, will open at 5 o'clock with supper, musical concerts, a fashion show, and other amusements.

DIRECTED VERDICT ASKED BY SHAPIRO

Counsel Attacks Indictment and Holds Witnesses Admitted No Loss.

An attack on the indictment upon which Jacob B. Shapiro is being tried, charged with using the mails to defraud, was launched by his attorney, Alvin Newmyer, yesterday before Justice Jesse Adkins. The attorney asked for a directed verdict on the grounds of a faulty indictment, and also because persons who testified for the Government admitted they had sustained no losses through dealings with Shapiro.

Justice Adkins took under advisement the request and the case continued with the defense presenting testimony by which they hope to clear Shapiro. Employes of Shapiro's office were called to the stand to identify office records.

The Government rested its case after approximately 80 witnesses had testified. Assistant United States Attorney John Fihelly is asking for a conviction on an indictment that contains twelve counts, many of them charging that potential purchasers of homes from the Shapiro company were not told of the existence of certain trusts on the property, when they contracted for the various pieces of real estate.

It was testified that Shapiro had assumed the obligations for all the additional trusts, and that he had paid off the trusts himself. The trial has already lasted more than a week.

New World Trade Parley to Be Held

21 Pan-American Nations Are to Send Envoys Here Next Fall.

Representatives of Latin American countries coming to Washington in October for the fourth Pan-American commercial conference will make a tour of inspection of the leading commercial and industrial centers of the country, the Pan-American Union announced yesterday.

John L. Merrill, president of All American Cables, and of the Pan-American Society of the United States, heads a committee of outstanding American business men which is making arrangements for the visit in cooperation with commercial organizations in the cities to be visited.

The Washington conference will extend from October 5 to October 12, and 21 republics will be represented. The inspection tour will follow. Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, said the meeting will be one of the most significent yet held.

Optimists Mark Anniversary.

The twelfth anniversary of the Optimist International was observed by the members of the Washington Optimist Club at their luncheon meeting in the Hamilton Hotel yesterday afternoon. The speaker was F. W. Offutt, president of the Board of Trade. He asked the cooperation of the Optimists with the Greater National Capital committee.

It would cost $2,250 to send postcards to all the readers that can be reached any morning by Post Classified Ads.

Ghost Universes Revealed By Noted Explorer of Sky

Dr. Hubble Gazes Through World's Greatest Telescope at Mount Wilson Upon Stellar Systems Millions of Miles Beyond Milky Way.

Pasadena, Calif., June 17 (A.P.).—The ghosts of other universes were talked about today by the American Association for the Advance of Science.

Dr. Edwin Hubble, greatest explorer into the vast recesses of the skies, paused in his work on the world's largest telescope to tell America's leading scientists about the things he had found.

All that is known about these roving island universes is actually ghost information, for it merely is the seeing of them as they were hundreds of millions of years ago. It is because they are so far away that light from them, traveling at the speed of 186,000 miles a second, takes from 100,000,000 to 250,000,000 years to reach the earth. Thus, when the world's largest and fastest camera at Mount Wilson photographs them, the picture is merely what these universes have been that long ago.

These nebula, said Dr. Hubble, average about a hundred million times as bright as the sun, but are seen only as faint points of light by the greatest of telescopes. The stellar system of some thirty thousand million stars is but one island universe, known as the Milky Way galaxy, and it spreads over an area of some 960,000,000,000,000 miles. It is beyond this that the exploration work of Dr. Hubble begins.

He revealed that at some points there are great obscuring clouds of dust in the Milky Way galaxy. "There is no evidence of a fading out, no trace of a physical boundary," said Dr. Hubble in discussing remote sky regions. Eliminating the obscuration along the Milky Way, it is estimated about thirty millions of island universes are within reach of the 100-inch Mount Wilson telescope, averaging nearly a hundred million times as bright as the sun and scattered at average intervals apart of the order of 1,500,000 light years. One light year is "six million of million miles."

Some twenty thousand of these island universes have been counted on nine hundred photographic plates taken at Mount Wilson.

"There is no evidence of any appreciable absorption of light beyond the limits of our own stellar system," he reported.

LANE SLAYER MOVES TO PREPARE APPEAL

Garry Owens, Convicted of Killing Motorman, Seeks Delay.

Preliminary steps toward an appeal on behalf of Garry Ralph Owens, convicted slayer of James H. Lane, were taken by attorneys James A. O'Shea and John H. Burnett yesterday.

They filed in Justice Peyton Gordon's court a motion for an arrest of judgment, citing three reasons why Owens was entitled to such action. Reasons given were that the jury's verdict "is so inconsistent that proper judgment can not be rendered thereon;" the "jury found a verdict inconsistent with the law," and "because of other reasons apparent on the face of the record and pleadings."

Owens, indicted for first degree murder, was found guilty of second degree murder by a jury that deliberated overnight. He faces a possible sentence of from 20 years to life.

Lane was murdered on the night of March 18 when bandits stopped his street car on Nichols avenue southeast, attempted to hold him up, and fired at him when he offered resistance. Owens denied that he had anything to do with the affair. His nephew, Charles Owens, indicted with Garry but given a separate trial, testified against Garry and placed the blame for the killing on his uncle's shoulders.

Charles Owens has not yet been tried.

Club Will Attend Communion Mass

Lawyers Will Take Part in Manresa Retreat Next Week.

The semiannual communion mass and breakfast of the Lawyers Manresa Club of the District of Columbia will be celebrated Sunday morning. The Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University, will celebrate the mass in Dahlgren Chapel at the university.

After the mass members of the club, composed of Catholic lawyers, will go in a body to the Mayflower Hotel, where breakfast will be served.

Club members will take part in the annual retreat at Manresa on the Severn on June 26. They will assemble at the courthouse at 5 p. m. and proceed to the retreat house, where they will remain until Monday morning. The Rev. Gerald C. Treacy, S. J., assistant retreat master at Manresa, will conduct the retreat.

Coffee Boils Over, Firemen Called.

A coffee pot that boiled too merrily as a housewife prepared breakfast sent firemen on the run yesterday morning. The pot boiled over at the home of Mrs. C. B. Frye, at 1458 Columbia road northwest, but an engine and truck company extinguished what fire there was.

CEMETERY COMPANY SUES TO GET PERMIT

Maryland Planning Body's Jurisdiction Is Made Basis of Action.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Attacking jurisdiction of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission and denial of a permit, for a cemetery near Aspen by the Montgomery County commissioners, an amended petition was filed in the circuit court at Rockville by attorneys for the New Mount Olivet Cemetery Co. asking a writ of mandamus to cause the issuance of the permit.

The petition was filed by Attorneys W. C. Sullivan, of Washington, and Robert B. Peter, jr., of Rockville, counsel for the cemetery corporation, which is understood to be a subsidiary of the Mount Olivet Cemetery Corporation of Washington.

The county commissioners refused a permit for establishment of a cemetery after a public hearing at which residents of adjacent territory objected strenuously to the granting of the permit on the grounds that they would be injured in their real estate values and subjected to the mournful sight of funeral corteges at all hours of the day.

The amended petition recites that the act amending the bill establishing the park and planning commission is faulty in that it is not worded in accordance with the State Constitution and further that several of its provisions conflict with provisions of the Bill of Rights. It further alleges that the act undertakes to make the county commissioners a District Counsel and to abrogate to them legislative powers without their being a representative body, that two outside of the county members of the park and planning commission can dictate the action of the commission and that the payment of $500 a year to the chairman of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission is in violation of the declaration of rights and that further the commission had been created under an emergency legislation act which is in conflict with the Constitutional Article 6 which prohibits the creation or abolishment of any office or changing the salary term or duty of any officer or granting any franchise or special privilege or creating any vested right or interest as an emergency law.

The petition further states that the ordinance adopted by the county commissioners regulating the establishment of cemeteries was promulgated and adopted after the filing of the application of the cemetery company and that as it voided the prior ordinance, the commissioners could not make it retroactive and effective against the Mount Olivet Co.

A rule to show cause why such a writ of mandamus should not be issued against it was ordered by Judge Robert B. Peter. The rule, returnable July 8, at Rockville, was issued against the board of county commissioners.

The mayor and council of Rockville have approved plans for widening the street in front of the courthouse at Rockville as presented to them by the Montgomery County Commissioners and their approval will be announced to the county commissioners at the board meeting today. The commissioners will act formally on the plans which were prepared by County Engineer Harry Shaw and is expected to approve them at the meeting today. The plans then will be forwarded to the State Roads Commission for study and approval, and copies will be sent the various public utility companies involved.

The widening of the street was made posible when the site for the courthouse was purchased recently.

Replacement of the telephone system at Rockville with a modern system appears favorably received by Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. officials, according to the report of George H. Lamar, made to the Rockville Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Lamar, State Senator Robert G. Hilton and J. Brawner Nicholson were named a committee to take up the matter with telephone officials and also to ask for reduced toll rates between the county seat and nearby exchanges and Washington. The telephone officials appeared to believe that Rockville's system should be improved, but were rather cold to the reduction in rates, Mr. Lamar reported.

Members of the chamber made it plain that they did not consider the present personnel at the telephone exchange responsible for the poor service, but attributed it to the antiquated battery set telephones, which are operated by turning a crank. With modern equipment, it is believed that good service will result.

The committee will resume negotiations with the telephone officials as soon as Senator Hilton, who is seriously ill at Georgetown Hospital, can return to his duties, Mr. Lamar reported.

Roger Shaw, chairman of the annual outing committee, reported that plans for the trip to Chapel Point July 16 are progressing nicely. Invitations have been sent to other civic and business organizations as well as volunteer fire departments of the county to attend the outing.

The Mayor and Council of Rockville have recalled the award of the $50,000 bond issue to provide funds for water and sewer improvements, which was sold to John P. Baer & Co., of Baltimore, for a premium of $400, because of alleged failure to comply with the law regarding advertising.

The law requires that the advertisement be inserted in a Washington paper, as well as in a Montgomery County and a Baltimore City paper. Through an inadvertence this was not done. The bonds will be advertised again for July 1, when the bids will be opened and the issue sold.

Arguments were heard yesterday on demurrers filed by counsel for the Montgomery County Commissioners to the suit of Dr. Anna Bartsch Dunne, of Washington, alleging infringement on her constitutional rights in the widening of Georgia avenue at Colesville pike, Silver Spring.

Dr. Dunne alleges in her suit for $100,000 damages that the commissioners took her land at that corner for the widening of the road without due process of law. She is represented by the law firms of Peter, Simpson & Oxley, of Rockville, and the firm of Butler, Lamb, Foster & Pope, of Chicago and Washington.

Miss Vivian Simpson argued for her firm and E. Barrett Prettyman for the Chicago firm at the hearing. Capt. Joseph C. Cissel appeared for the county commissioners.

The two judges who heard the arguments, Associate Judges Robert B. Peter and Arthur D. Willard, in Circuit Court at Rockville, took the arguments under advisement and will announce their decision at a later date.

A decree of absolute divorce from John H. Reddix, of Takoma Park, Md., was awarded yesterday to Mrs. Rebecca Reddix, also of Takoma Park, by Judge Robert B. Peter in Circuit Court at Rockville. Through Attorney Kenneth Lyddane, of Rockville, the wife alleged desertion.

Law Asks Penalty For Boyhood Theft

Clothing Stolen 12 Years Ago Basis for Action in Virginia.

Youngstown, Ohio, June 17 (A.P.).—Gov. George White will be asked to request the Governor of Virginia to quash extradition proceedings against Jesse S. Strauderman, held here as a fugitive from Virginia justice, K. H. Powell, Strauderman's attorney, announced today.

Strauderman, who supported a wife, three children and his aged mother, was known here for years as a law-abiding citizen. His arrest revealed that, as a boy of 18, in 1919, he was sentenced to a year and a day in the Virginia Penitentiary for stealing clothing from a box car.

Strauderman walked away from a road gang at the prison and went back to his home in Connellsville, Pa. Later he married his boyhood sweetheart and established a home here. "This man has been a good, law-abiding citizen," said Police Chief Paul Lyden. "It isn't necessary to imprison him for a boyhood error, and leave his family to be supported by the State."

DRY AGENT MURDER IS LAID TO PRISONER

Fellow Officer Says He Saw North Carolina Youth Shoot Puryear.

Boydton, Va., June 17 (A.P.).—The prosecution this afternoon rested its case against Garland Smith, North Carolina youth, on trial for the murder of Bernard Puryear, prohibition officer.

The final witness for the State was J. T. Chaney, prohibition officer, who asserted he saw Smith fire the shots that killed Puryear and Mack Tuck, deputy sheriff. In opening its case the defense sought immediately to impeach the testimony of Chaney by presentation of witnesses who said that several days after the fatal shooting Chaney said he could not recognize the killer and did not know whether it was a man or a woman.

On direct examination Chaney said he saw Garland Smith's face when the first two shots were fired, and then saw him drop to the ground, apparently to reload his gun. He next saw him running from the ditch, he said.

The defense offered in evidence the report made by this witness to Attorney General Saunders and Harry B. Smith, State prohibition director. It was brought out that this report made no mention of seeing Smith, but said that officers had a description and photograph. Chaney admitted that the part of the report referring to Garland Smith was given him by Joe Hutchins, prosecution witness, who was arrested in the courtroom yesterday on a perjury charge.

Earlier in the day, after argument on its admissibility as evidence had been heard with the jury excluded from the courtroom, H. V. Sugart was allowed to testify as to Smith's alleged admission of his guilt while being returned to Henrico County Jail by officers following his first conviction, from which he appealed and secured this second trial.

Brewer New Head Of Jr. O. U. A. M.

Richmond Is Selected as Scene of Next National Conclave.

Baltimore, June 17 (A.P.).—Dr. Charles E. Brewer, president of Meredith College, Raleigh, N. C., was elected national councilor today of the National Council, Junior Order United American Mechanics, and Richmond, Va., selected as the site for the biennial convention, in 1933.

Among other officers elected were, national secretary, James L. Wilmeth, Philadelphia; treasurer, Charles Reimer, Baltimore, and chaplain, the Rev. Jacob Bayless, Denver.

Omer D. Stubbs, of Kentucky, retiring national councilor, told the delegates that 323 new councils, with a membership of 14,882, had been added to the order in the last two years.

Clarke County Garden Show Set Tomorrow

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., June 17.—By inviting the public to compete for prizes, the Winchester and Clarke County Garden Club expects to set a new record for flower shows in northern Virginia Friday, when it holds its annual flower show at the George Washington Hotel.

The show has been divided into twelve sections, which include 26 classes, exclusive of the exhibit of the rose test garden of the Garden Club of Virginia, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Butler, Millwood, Clarke County.

Smith—Reynolds Nuptials Performed.

Orange, Va., June 17 (Special).—Miss Nancy Elizabeth Reynolds, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reynolds, of Orange, became the bride of Mr. William Adelbert Smith, of Culpeper, Va., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Smith, of Richmond, Tuesday. The Rev. Frank C. Riley, former pastor of the Orange Baptist Church, now pastor of the First Baptist Church of South Boston, Va., performed the ceremony.

ABOLITION OF TOLL HIGHWAY PLANNED

Fairfax Trade Group Meets Highway Directors to Talk Means.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST, P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va. Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Joint meeting of directors of the Washington, Great Falls & Dranesville Highway Co., and a committee from the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce was held in offices of Douglas Mackall, treasurer of the highway company, Tuesday evening. A committee was appointed to find out whether there is possibility of the present toll road from Langley to Great Falls being taken over by the State before the George Washington bicentenial celebration next year. Members of the committee are Col. Robert N. Harper, of Leesburg and Washington; Ralph Powell, of Langley; O. T. Wright, of Washington, and Herman Gasch, of Washington and Spring Hill.

Members of the board of directors of the road attending the meeting indicated they were willing to turn over their own stock, but said they were unable to speak for other stockholders of the company. It was shown that the company's outstanding obligations consist of stock and first mortgage bonds which are held by persons who do not live along the road, and it was not believed they would be directly benefited either by improvement of the present road or construction of a new highway. It was believed by a majority of those present at the meeting that these persons would require and should receive at least a partial reimbursement of original investments.

It was stated that engineers of the National Capital Park & Planning Commission have included this road in their surveys of the proposed Great Falls-Mount Vernon boulevard, and an effort will be made this winter to have Congress pass a bill specifically taking over the entrance to Great Falls as a part of the celebration next year.

While directors indicated their willingness to cooperate in any movement to have this right of way taken over by the State of Virginia, they stated they had already conferred with Chairman H. G. Shirley, of the State Highway Commission, and it seemed to be the general feeling that the stock and bond holders were more likely to receive adequate reimbursement from the Federal Government than from the State.

Mrs. James Byrnes has been elevated to junior past councilor of the Old Glory Council, Daughters of America, at McLean, and Mrs. S. W. Darne to associate junior past councilor. Other recently elected officers of the council include Miss Louise Voight, councilor; Miss Hazel Thompson, associate councilor; Miss Hattie Kirby, vice councilor; Mrs. C. H. Furlong, associate vice councilor; S. W. Darne, recording secretary; Miss Daisy Money, assistant recording secretary; C. B. Money, financial secretary; W. P. THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

FRUIT, VEGETABLES AND MOTOR CARS.

HENRY FORD is raising cantaloupes for use in making automobiles. Thousands of acres of Michigan land have been planted with melon seeds, and it is Hank's belief that he can get alcohol for body paint from the cantaloupe juice and a material for car bodies from the pulp. Inside of a few years an automobile may have become an agricultural product.

* * * *

If the Ford experiment is a success, the owner of a new flivver may literally be going places in a melon. Mr. Ford will become the logical successor to the fairy godmother in "Cinderella," who transformed a pumpkin into a royal coach.

* * * *

This idea of going into the fields, orchards and gardens for industrial products is becoming a national habit. Thomas Edison is already producing rubber from goldenrod, and it was possibly at one of those Ford-Edison-Firestone picnics that Henry began thinking of turning a fruit salad into a sports sedan.

* * * *

ONCE these industrial wizards get their minds set on something there is no stopping them. We may yet hear that Mr. Farrell, of the Steel Corporation, is making railroad rails from banana skins, that Mr. Sloane, of the General Electric Co., is manufacturing radio batteries from strawberries and that the chemists of General Motors have discovered a way to make a twelve-cylinder engine out of a Tomato Surprise.

Items of the following type may greet the country at any moment now:

New York—Walter P. Chrysler today received a group of newspapermen at his office, took them to his farm on Long Island and pointing to a prize cucumber patch, asked with gleaming eyes, "Do you boys know what those are?"

"Cucumbers," replied a reporter and vegetarian.

"Wrong," snapped the automobile magnate. "They're musical horns."

After considerable argument he managed to convince the newspapermen that the lowly cucumber contains elements from which it is possible to manufacture a four-note musical horn at one-tenth the old cost.

"I am experimenting now with a Hubbard squash," said Mr. Chrysler later. "I have an idea that inside this vegetable are to be found all the knickknacks that go onto an automobile dashboard."

CHICAGO, Ill.—The purpose of one of the country's largest motor truck corporations in planting acres of radish seeds was explained here this afternoon. "Our chemists are satisfied that a particularly strong bumper can be made from radishes. They are certainly not much good for anything else.

* * * *

Trenton, N. J. The Roebling Suspension Bridge Co. has gone into the raising of green vegetables on an extensive scale, arousing much curiosity among farmers.

"Would you mind saying why you are doing this?" an official was asked.

"Not at all," he replied. "We think it possible to make the Brooklyn bridges of the future out of fresh country spinach."

It was explained that for bridges of smaller dimensions the chemical department had obtained excellent results from cauliflower, eggplant and the skins of crabapples.

Sing a song of six pence, Gandhi in the slums,
Sleeping with the hoboes, eating with the bums,
When the British heard this they all began to sing,
Won't he be a dainty guest to set before the king?"

President Hoover threw his hat into the ring in that Indianapolis address. What the public will want to know before accepting his criticism of those who are hoarding money, is whether it was last year's hat.

It is evident from Mr. Hoover's speech that the campaign song is to be "Cheerful Little Earful."

COLONISTS' SERVICE WILL BE OBSERVED

First Communion in U. S. 324 Years Ago Will Be Commemorated.

Jamestown Island, Va., June 17 (A.P.).—The 324th anniversary of the first known celebration of the Holy Communion in the first permanent English settlement in America will be observed here by a commemorative service June 21.

The services will be conducted at the Robert Hunt Shrine, in the open air, after the manner of the original service in 1607.

The gates to the island will be thrown open for those desiring to attend the services. The celebration will be held under auspices of the Order of Jamestown.

The Right Rev. A. C. Thomson, D. D., Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Virginia, will serve as celebrant at the commemoration services. Dr. F. D. Goodwin, Bishop Coadjutor of Virginia, will deliver an address.

The Robert Hunt Shrine, at which the services will be held, was built by the Colonial Dames of America in the State of Virginia and conveyed to the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities in 1922, to be held under the ecclesiastical charge of the Bishop of Southern Virginia.

Music for the services will be furnished by the choir of Bruton Parish Church, Williamsburg. The sacred vessels to be used in the service will include both those presented in recent years by the Society of Colonial Dames and a portion of the historic silver, communion silver once owned by the old Jamestown Church.

ALEXANDRIA OPENS ITS 5 PLAYGROUNDS

Neighboring Merchants Plan Protest Against New Parking Limit.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU, 907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va. Phone Alexandria 523.

The Alexandria City playgrounds are now in full operation and have so far had a large attendance, according to J. F. Wilson, director of the recreation department.

There are five playgrounds open, and Mr. Wilson states he hopes to open another, in the First Ward at Windmill Hill, next week. Those now being operated are at the Alexandria High School, with Mrs. Leslie Ryder in charge; George Mason High School, Mrs. Ruth Roseberry in charge; Washington School, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith in charge; the Queen Street Grounds, also known as the Friends Playgrounds, Miss Suella Reynolds in charge, and Parker-Gray School, for colored children, with Diana Brooks in charge. The Friends Playgrounds has the largest attendance.

The scope of the playground work in Alexandria has been gradually increased during the last few years. The beginning was small, one playground being opened through the efforts of a group of citizens and maintained with voluntary subscriptions, the work later being taken over by the city council and a director employed who devotes his entire time to the work.

The one-hour parking limit on King street, from Fairfax to Patrick street, which is now being rigidly enforced by the police, has proven highly successful and gratifying to the merchants in this area, but that it is not an unmixed blessing is shown by the fact that the merchants on the 1000 and 1100 blocks of King street contemplate requesting the city council to extend the limitation to include these two blocks, or from Fairfax to Fayette street. They point out the fact that these two blocks are daily filled with cars which are prohibited from parking farther east, and that this interferes with their business.

The merchants on the squares now restricted report that they are getting excellent results from the restriction to one hour parking.

The Rev. C. Morgan Compher, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church, North Washington street, has been reappointed to that pastorate for the ensuing year by the Maryland annual conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, held in Baltimore.

The Rev. J. Ernest Thacker, D. D., who was recently extended a call to the pulpit of the Second Presbyterian Church here, has definitely declined. It was learned yesterday. He occupied this pulpit for several years, leaving here in 1900, and in recent years has been engaged in evangelistic work.

The Virginia State Convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks will be held in Alexandria in 1932, the choice being made at the close of the convention in Danville on the invitation of Harry F. Kennedy, of Alexandria, retiring State president and past exalted ruler of the local lodge. The Alexandria Chamber of Commerce joined in the invitation.

Potomac Lodge, No. 38, Odd Fellows, will hold annual memorial services for the six members of the lodge who died in the last year, Friday evening, June 26, at Odd Fellows Hall, on North Columbus street. The Rev. Ryland T. Dodge, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church, will be the principal speaker.

The deceased members were W. W. Chesser, David Everett, William Violett, Thomas Violett, J. Thomas Cook and the Rev. Edgar Carpenter, rector of Grace Episcopal Church.

Urban S. Lambert has been elected president of the Alexandria Hospital Board, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Robert S. Jones, who died April 2. Vice Mayor Arthur Herbert has been reelected treasurer and J. T Preston reelected secretary. In addition to these three officers, the board for the year is composed of J. Randall Caton, William A. Moore, C. C. Lamond and Mayor Edmund F. Ticer.

G. P. Maupin having resigned as driver of relief truck and engine company of the Alexandria Fire Department, effective July 1, City Manager Wallace Lawrence has transferred James P. Robey, of Columbia Company No. 4, to that position, and appointed J. Bernard Padgett, a member of No. 4 company, driver of No. 4 engine.

A banquet will be tendered the ambulance fund committee of the Alexandria Fire Department, which recently closed a successful campaign for $3,000 with which a new ambulance was purchased. The affair will be held in the private dining room at 400 King street the evening of June 25.

The officers of this committee are Samuel B. DeVaughan, chairman-treasurer; B. M. Oppenheim, secretary; Mrs. J. W. Travers, first vice chairman, and Lieut. L. S. Evans, second vice chairman.

The annual week-end trip of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, to Piney Point, will start from Gadsby's Tavern at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the trip being made in automobiles. Eugene Simpson is in charge of arrangements, and the program includes fishing, dancing and a crab pick Saturday night.

C. U. Professor Is Speaker.

Martinsburg, W. Va., June 17 (Special).—Dr. M. Sheehey, professor of philosophy at Catholic University, Washington, was principal speaker at the annual banquet-meeting of St. Joseph's School Alumni Association here last night. He spoke on "The Influence of an Ideal," and was introduced by Attorney Clarence E. Martin, this city. More than 100 guests were present. Miss Marcella Haas is president of the organization.

Governor to Dedicate Battle Field.

Clarksburg, W. Va., June 17 (Special).—Gov. William G. Conley has accepted an invitation to participate in dedication of the Droop Mountain Battle Field July 4 at the famous fighting site "above the clouds" near Marlinton, it is announced by Norman F. Kendall, Grafton banker, who is chairman of the Droop Mountain Memorial Commission.

Miss Mary Bleight was named vice president; Mrs. W. T. Herndon, treasurer, and Mrs. J. T. Hearn, secretary. Mrs. Chewning becomes ex-officio member of the executive committee. Mrs. Scott was chosen delegate to the State convention at Clifton Forge in August. Other delegates are Mrs. Charles Carmichael and Mrs. C. N. Walker, with Mrs. W. T. Herndon, Mrs. George H. Scott and Mrs. J. T. Hearn as alternates.

NEW NAMES ADDED TO U. OF V. FACULTY

Prof. Thornton Resigns After 56 Years of Teaching at Institution.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 17.—Six additions to the faculty and administrative staff of the University of Virginia were made at the meeting of the rector and visitors, held in connection with the final celebration, according to announcement by Dr. John Lloyd Newcomb, acting president.

Two resignations were accepted. William Mynn Thornton, professor of applied mathematics and former dean of engineering, resigned after 56 years of teaching here. He was made emeritus professor of applied mathematics.

Dr. Allen Fiske Voshell, associate professor of orthopedic surgery, resigned to go to Baltimore to engage in private practice and teaching in the University of Maryland. He will continue as chairman of the faculty committee on athletics until the close of the 1931 football season.

Political Science Appointee.

Rowland A. Egger, technical consultant of the New Jersey Commission for Investigation of County and Municipal Taxation and Expenditures, was elected associate professor of political science. He will also head the bureau of municipal research in the Institute for Research in the Social Sciences. He has taught at Michigan and Princeton, studied in Europe on a fellowship and was a lecturer before the British Institute of Public Administration at Oxford.

Dr. John M. Nokes, of the medical school at Vanderbilt University, has been named assistant professor of ob
